LIQUID NITROGEN TRAIN WRECKED, CATCHES FIRE

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—At least one crew member was killed and four others were injured early today when 17 cars of a Pennsylvania freight train carrying inflammatory liquid nitrogen were derailed near this Washington suburb and caught fire.

Although a tank car carrying the liquid nitrogen ruptured, a team of some 75 to 100 men from 15 fire companies brought the fire under control some two hours after it started.

TRADE TALKS

Canada Policy Worries U.S.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA—The late President Kennedy's grand design for a trans-Atlantic trading community was already dead before its author's assassination. President de Gaulle had killed it by vetoing Britain's admission to the European Common Market.

Hutchison

But if the design is no longer as grand as Mr. Kennedy had once hoped, it still represents the boldest attempt ever made to reduce the world's commercial barriers and nourish its prosperity. And no nation is more concerned than Canada with the outcome because its economic system depends primarily on international trade.

After a period of pessimism, which followed the De Gaulle veto, the American government believes now that the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations, opening next autumn, will accomplish tremendous results—provided that one obstacle can be surmounted.

Everything will turn from the beginning on the Common Market's willingness to import American and Canadian foodstuffs, chiefly cereals, without crippling tariff or other restrictions. If France can impose those restrictions on its five partners, as De Gaulle imposed his veto on Britain, then the Kennedy Round will be doomed.

Must Bargain

In Washington this disaster is not anticipated. The Common Market's stake in the world market, especially the huge American market, is so important that it will be compelled to bargain on foodstuffs as well as manufactured goods. The results of failures are so unthinkable, economically and politically, that in the crunch the Common Market cannot risk them.

Such is the American government's assessment, but it does not underestimate the difficulties ahead or the time needed to solve them. Some 18 months or two years of negotiation will be required before a bargain can be struck.

Certainly it will not come close to President Kennedy's target—a general tariff reduction of 50 per cent—but if it achieves even half that original objective it will drastically change the world's economic climate for the better.

Apart from its doubts about the intentions of the Common Market, the American government is deeply disturbed by the unknown policy of Canada. For in the complicated poker game now under way Canada holds high cards out of all proportion to its population and power.

Biggest Customer

Not only is Canada one of the world's leading exporters and importers, it is the United States' largest single customer and supplier. Without an abundant Canadian market many American industries would be impoverished. Without abundant Canadian supplies the American economy would languish. The same facts are true in reverse for Canada.

Since the business of the two neighboring nations is totally interdependent, neither can frame any tariff policy without considering its effects on the other. While the United States has framed a policy of broad tariff reduction, with Canada's position in mind, it does not know the Canadian policy because there is none, except in the vaguest sort of generalities and even they are contradictory.

There can be no policy until the Pearson government faces one of the hardest decisions in Canada's political history. Technically the decision must be complex when 62 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade swap tariff concessions on thousands of different products — a nightmare of negotiation. Basically, however, the decision is quite simple.

Does Canada intend to expose its industries, many of them highly protected and competitively soft, to the cold winds of international competition? Is it prepared to damage the prospects of some industries for the over-all gains of the national economy? Is the Pearson government ready to accept the political risks of this harsh surgery?

Pearson Committed

In theory Mr. Pearson is personally committed, and has been committed for the last dozen years, to a far-reaching tariff reduction, regardless of economic inconvenience and political risk.

He was the first international statesman to propose a free-trade area of the North Atlantic region. He bitterly condemned the Diefenbaker government for refusing to consider Britain's offer of free trade to Canada. He strongly supported Britain's entry into the Common Market as the first step in the grand design.

There was no question about his attitude in his days of oppo-

Turkish-Cypriots Blamed for Death

NICOSIA (AP)—Turkish-Cypriots were blamed today for the first fatality in the UN peace force on Cyprus.

UN headquarters announced a Finnish radio operator, Juhanu Matikainen, 27, was killed Wednesday night in a two-hour battle between Turkish - Cypriots and Finnish patrols.

A UN statement said Matikainen was hit by three bullets while sitting in his patrol car in fields near the Turkish village of Kanli, six miles northwest of Nicosia.

The car had accompanied a recovery team to aid another Finnish vehicle that broke down while providing an escort for farmers bringing in their harvest.

Turkish positions fired about 20 shots at the Finnish vehicle, the UN statement said. Lt.-Col. U. Kettinen, commander of the Finnish battalion, hurried to the area with a platoon and two armored personnel carriers in response to a radio plea for help.

Matikainen was struck once in the head and twice in the chest. The firing stopped after he was hit.

EXPRESSES REGRET

Umit Suleyman, a representative of Turkish-Cypriot Leader Fazil Kuchuk, expressed "deep regret" at the incident. He said he would conduct a full investigation and report to the UN force.

The Finnish soldier's death came after Kuchuk expressed shock that President Makarios, a Greek Orthodox archbishop, was unable to trace 35 to 45 Turkish - Cypriots reported abducted since shooting incidents in the port of Famagusta 10 days ago.

FIRST GRAD CLASS

2 Victorians Tops at Uvic

Two Victoria students—less than 3 per cent apart—topped University of Victoria's first 129 arts and science graduates in a list issued by Uvic senate today.

They are 21-year-old Paula Michele Day, 4103 Quadra, who graduates Monday with an 88.3 per cent average in English and psychology, and David George Haegert, 21, of 1516 Pembroke, who made 86 per cent majoring in English and Zoology.

They are leaders of the 168 graduates in the faculties of arts and science and education who will receive the first diplomas issued in the name of University of Victoria. Until now, graduates have earned diplomas issued in the name of the University of B.C.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Other top marks were made by school teachers, Mrs. Lottie Hemeon, 2586 Vista Bay, who has taught at Frank Hobbs School, and Muriel Enid Boskill, of Union Bay.

Mrs. Hemeon, specializing in art elementary program, averaged 77.9 per cent, while Miss Boskill, taking a double art specialty on the secondary program, emerged from examinations with 83.4 per cent.

Among the eight bachelor of arts honors students, three obtained first class standing: Mrs. Sandra Anne Came (nee McKeachie), 21, of Nanaimo, an English major; Susan Dickinson, 22, of Sidney, history, and Brian Richard Little, 23, of 1535 York Place, psychology.

Second class honors were obtained by Stephen William Hol-

Cabinet Agrees On New Design

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today the design of a proposed new Canadian flag will be revealed in a "few days."

Questions about the proposed flag were fired at the prime minister at the beginning of the question period when Mr. Pearson told Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker that his government would "shortly submit to Parliament" a resolution with all the details.

The resolution would be introduced in "a few days," Mr. Pearson told Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac—Temiscamingue).

Mr. Pearson's vague reply in the House came as a surprise, for he had earlier told reporters that he would describe the new flag in general terms if asked about it when the Commons met this afternoon.

Mr. Pearson made his statement to reporters after a three-hour morning cabinet meeting at which at least three flag designs were studied.

The cabinet unanimously approved a new flag design. Mr. Pearson said the flag is to be "for national purposes."

The flags considered by the cabinet all included three red maple leaves on a single stem. The variations are in the background—one all white, one all blue and one white with blue borders to depict the national motto, from sea to sea.

The three maple leaves and the colors red and white were designated Canada's national symbol and colors in 1921.

MADE DECISION

"We did make a decision on the flag question and that will be made known to the House of Commons," the prime minister said. "I hope to have a resolution on the order paper next week, but I am not going to say anything about it except in the House of Commons."

Mr. Pearson also said the government will ask parliament to approve this session the naming of O Canada as this country's national anthem.

"We will be proceeding with the anthem during this session but I cannot say in what form the question will be dealt with by the Commons."

The prime minister said that if he were asked in the Commons about the flag design before the formal resolution appears on the order paper, "I would feel it my duty to answer in general terms."

"Once the resolution is on the order paper there will be no reluctance to show you the design."

Legion 'Adopts' Red Ensign

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion today adopted the Red Ensign as its official flag.

The resolution said that the Red Ensign would be flown over all Legion branches in Canada and the headquarters at Ottawa.

FLAG OF SURRENDER

Before the resolution was approved delegates turned down a report of the resolutions committee that recommended no further action on the flag question.

The recommendation ran into a barrage of emotional outbursts from a number of delegates. One delegate said the prime minister had adopted the white flag of surrender instead of the red flag of sacrifice.

Prime Minister Pearson was booed and heckled by many delegates when he addressed the Legion convention here Sunday. The Legion has long advocated the red ensign with the Union Jack in the corner as the national emblem.

DECLINED COMMENT

Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, legion president, declined comment on whether the Legion decision on the Red Ensign would have an affect on use of the proposed maple leaf flag in Legion activities.

Support for some action on the Red Ensign came from many points on the convention floor. One delegate said, "I'm fed up with propriety and good taste on this thing."

SOUTHEAST ASIA

'We'll Fight On' U.S. Tells Reds

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson pledged today that the United States will fight Communist forces in Southeast Asia as long as the people there are determined to remain independent.

The chief U.S. delegate acknowledged, however, that the situation in Southeast Asia "has taken a turn for the worse" and he warned that "those who are responsible have set foot upon an exceedingly dangerous path."

Stevenson, who rushed back Wednesday from a European tour, told the United Nations Security Council that it is the clear aim of both the Indochinese Communist party and the Communist leadership in North Viet Nam "to take over control of all Indochina."

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko quickly retorted that Stevenson's exposition of U.S. policy on Southeast Asia might be suitable for those who are "telling stories to little children and village idiots" but, he said, "there is no place here for such stupidity."

DOESN'T FOLLOW FACTS

Fedorenko described Stevenson's speech as a "noisy and rather sensational show." He said Stevenson's statement about U.S. aims to defend the people of Southeast Asia does "not correspond to the facts."

Fedorenko said simple, average Americans were dying in South Viet Nam because the United States, acting under pressure from capitalists, has sent 16,000 troops there to wage a cruel war against a people struggling for freedom.

He said the United States was keeping a puppet regime in

Pathet Lao Rebels Aided By Air Drops

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—Laotian neutralist officers today claimed Communist North Vietnamese planes were dropping supplies to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces north of Vang Vieng, International Control Commission sources said today.

Vang Vieng is 70 miles north of Vientiane.

The claim came as neutralist army commander Gen. Kong Le appeared to be aiming at blocking the advance of the Pathet Lao forces in the strategic Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

The officers claimed the North Vietnamese airdrops were made at Muong Kassy, about 15 miles from Vang Vieng.

An ICC team—made up of officers from Canada, India and Poland in the country to supervise the 1962 neutrality agreement—flew to Vang Vieng this morning to investigate.

Kong Le was reported moving some 3,000 troops through the mountainous territory controlled by anti-Communist guerrillas of the Meo tribe in an effort to halt the Pathet Lao offensive which has caused a crisis in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

SINGER ARRIVES LATE, TRIPS

'HAVE ANOTHER BRANDY'

(Times News Service)

MELBOURNE, Australia — By the time the orchestra played Over the Rainbow, the audience was hooting and Judy Garland had stalked off the stage. Besieged by reporters at her hotel she told them "I think you stink!"

The sour notes didn't end with Miss Garland's concert Wednesday night.

The box office was besieged for refunds today and the head of the Musicians' Union said the Australian orchestra that accompanied the singer had never been so humiliated.

Miss Garland herself commented, "I didn't like it, did you?"

The American singer's travail began when she arrived an hour late. Her manager blamed it on a sore throat. "You're late" and "have another brandy," hecklers shouted.

Most of the crowd of 7,000 was with her during the first half of the concert, her only performance in Melbourne. But some didn't appreciate her fidgeting with the microphone cable or her side banter.

The crowd had paid about £15,000 Australian ($36,300) to hear her sing. She tripped while mounting the stage and sang in a voice which critics today described as "harsh and raspy."

Occasionally she fluffed a note as a steady stream of people walked out of the hall.

The only explanation she offered the crowd for their long wait was: "I could not get out of the hotel."

The explanation came in response to an irate member of the audience who shouted: "You're late."

The audience's mood wasn't improved when Miss Garland took a half-hour intermission. She sang three more songs on her return, but the lyrics were fragmentary and the customers began drifting to the doors.

Miss Garland curtly left without any farewell, letting the orchestra play Over the Rainbow—her theme—by itself. The musicians departed amid howls.

J. D. Thomson, secretary of the Victoria branch of the Musicians' Union, said today that whenever Miss Garland "messed up a song" she blamed it on the orchestra.

"I was so angry I felt like going onto the stage and taking the band off," he said.

Miss Garland's manager, Karl Brent, said the audience should have accepted her apology for being late.

"Miss Garland would have stood there and sung all night if they had wanted her to," he said.

He added that there would be no refunds because "Miss Garland gave a satisfactory performance."

Early this morning, when reporters knocked at the door of her hotel room, Miss Garland said: "Why don't you go away. I'm very tired. I haven't slept one wink."

Seconds later she added: "I think you stink!" Then she slammed the door on them.

HER CANADIAN FLAG

3 Red Maples Flown by Queen

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—If the government brings in a new Canadian flag featuring three red maple leaves on a white background, there isn't likely to be any argument from the experts in heraldry.

Canada's official emblem is three maple leaves conjoined on a single stem. The country's national colors are white and red. And the combination of colors and leaves have been used in various ways on distinctive Canadian devices since 1867.

Although there's no authoritative explanation, the three-leaf idea is suggested as symbolizing the unity of English, French and other ethnic groups in a single Canada.

The heraldry enthusiasts are more likely to raise their voices in protest if the flag is decorated with two blue bars at each side—a design Prime Minister Pearson has said he has a "hankering" for although he agrees it's not proper from a heraldry viewpoint.

One long-time student of heraldry has written to a member of Parliament saying it would be "unthinkable" to add blue to the official red and white. Anyway, says the letter, two vertical blue bars do not represent the "sea-to-sea" motto—that job is done by a wavy horizontal line.

And to complete the argument against the blue, he says: "The assumed 'distinction' of extending from sea to sea is shared by 42 other nations."

CAN TAKE ANY ONE

However, John R. Matheson, Liberal member of Parliament for Leeds, and an acknowledged expert in the field, says it is important to follow the rules of heraldry. "You can't defy international rules, because a flag isn't something only for local use. It's used to identify a country around the world."

The three maple leaves on a single stem appeared on the Upper Canada (Ontario) shield in 1868. The leaves were gold and the background was green. The Lower Canada (Quebec) shield had the same design, with the colors reversed.

In both cases the leaves were at the bottom of the shield, or armory, which is traditionally the key area. The top part, called the "honorable augmentation," has traditional and historical significance, not necessarily denoting anything about the country itself.

Before 1921, the Canadian shield comprised four sections, two of them showing the lions of England, the other two displaying the lion rampant of Scotland and the harp of Ireland. A royal proclamation resulted in the three red maple leaves going into the bottom half, the honorable augmentation then comprising the lions of England, the lion rampant of Scotland, the harp of Ireland and the fleur-de-lis of royal France.

The three leaves and white background now take up one-forty-eighth of the Red Ensign. The ensign was approved by cabinet order in 1944.

AUTHORIZED FLAG

Five years previously, the cabinet, after consultation with the militia council, authorized a battle flag for the 1st Canadian Division that featured three huge red maple leaves on a white background as its central design. Long before that the red and white colors had been identified with the flag of the Royal Military College, the pennant of the Royal North West Mounted Police and the Northwest Frontier Medal. The RMC flag also had a single maple leaf.

The badge of the Canadian Women's Army Corps was centred with three maple leaves, and the first "general service" pin issued to servicemen after the Second World War had three red maple leaves on a white background. It was later changed to silver.

The Canadian Army Badge, authorized in 1947 by King George VI, has three maple leaves; so has the Canadian Guards' hat badge and the buttons on their uniforms.

The flag used by the Queen as Queen of Canada has its entire lower half devoted to three red maple leaves on a white background.

New Wheat Deal With Russians

WINNIPEG (CP) — Another new wheat deal between Canada and Russia involving about 4,000,000 tons may soon be announced.

James Richardson and Sons, a Winnipeg firm of grain merchants, said in a daily market letter Wednesday there "are persistent rumors in the trade, which have not yet been confirmed, that a new wheat deal is soon to be announced."

The report said the figure "most commonly mentioned" is 4,000,000 tons or about 150,000,000 bushels.

Shipments under last year's agreement with Russia, the report said, "are well ahead of schedule and it is believed now that almost all the shipments that were scheduled for July will be made by the end of June, so that the field would be clear for a new deal starting before the end of our old crop season."

Officials of the Canadian wheat board here were not immediately available for comment.

power against the wishes of the people and its unpopularity was shown by the fact that over the last six months the U.S. has been obliged to replace the government three times.

Among specific suggestions put forward by the U.S. delegate on the border friction between South Viet Nam and Cambodia was a proposal for a UN force to patrol the border. This was the first time the U.S. had proposed a role for the world organization in Southeast Asia.

Stevenson asserted that the U.S. had often come to the aid of countries attacked from the outside and said it will do so again "unless the lesson is learned once and for all by all aggressors that armed aggression does not pay—that it no longer works—that it will not be tolerated."

U.S. Bill Curbs Foreign Fishermen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed a law Wednesday to regulate fishing by foreign vessels in American waters. He said the United States would try to work out enforcement procedures in advance with the foreign countries involved.

The law was proposed originally to cope with illegal Cuban fishing operations in U.S. territorial waters. But Japan said another section is aimed at Japanese king crab fishing operations off Alaska and it has threatened to ignore the new law.

sition. There is serious question about it now, at least in Washington. The American government has been alarmed, on the eve of the Kennedy Round, by the tacitly protectionist sentiments uttered from time to time by Walter Gordon who, as minister of finance, must sponsor all tariff changes.

On the other hand, the liberal low-tariff views of Mitchell Sharp, minister of trade and commerce, are warmly welcomed in Washington and Mr. Sharp, not Mr. Gordon, will be Canada's chief negotiator at Geneva.

Clash Inevitable

In both Ottawa and Washington a collision between the two fundamental attitudes represented by Mr. Gordon and Mr. Sharp is foreseen as inevitable, with Mr. Pearson finally settling the issue, but the collision is some distance away yet. The Kennedy Round cannot reach its first point of positive decision before the middle of next year at earliest.

Meanwhile, the American government has publicly indicated its concern with Canadian policy, in so far as Mr. Gordon can influence it.

When George Ball, undersecretary of state, delivered a recent speech on Canadian-American relations his views were widely and almost weirdly misinterpreted as a tentative offer of free trade to Canada. In fact, he dismissed that project as entirely impractical because neither nation would consider it.

Instead, the Ball speech was an urgent appeal to Canada for co-operation in an attack against trade barriers throughout the world, on a multilateral basis, and a blunt warning against narrow protectionism.

Key Paragraph

The key paragraph, evidently beamed straight at Mr. Gordon and those of like mind, read as follows:

"I suggest, therefore, that the effort of our two countries be focused not on measures of economic nationalism but on appropriate steps that can be taken to permit the normal and healthy development of our economies toward an increasing economic interdependence that is viewed not so much in bilateral terms as in terms of its relation to an expanding world economy."

This rotund and oblique diplomatic language, translated into colloquial English, simply means that the United States looks hopefully to its chief trade partner for support in making the Kennedy Round a success, not for the advantage of the United States but in Canada's own vital interests.

The warning against Canadian "economic nationalism" is perfectly clear. Though Mr. Ball did not discuss it, the price that Canada must pay for lower American and other national tariffs is clear also.

'Linear' Parley

At Geneva a few great trading nations, including those of the Common Market, Britain, the United States and probably Japan, will negotiate by what is called the "linear" method. They will offer to cut their over-all tariff structure (with certain stated exceptions) by a given percentage figure, if their partners will do the same.

Canada has refused, for understandable reasons, to accept this method and proposes to offer "equivalent value," in the form of tariff reductions on specific products, as fair payment for linear cuts in the tariffs of the other great traders.

What is Canada really planning to offer? What tariffs will it agree to reduce? The Canadian government naturally will not reveal its bargaining position in advance and has not settled it yet anyway.

At some point, however, it must go beyond abstract generalities to bargain on the concrete figures of the customs schedule and it knows already that the United States government will not reduce American tariffs in Canada's favor without truly "equivalent value" in the Canadian market.

No Free Riders

Canada cannot expect to receive the advantage of tariff cuts in foreign markets without making its full contribution to the total bargain. There will be no free riders in the Kennedy Round.

If it is to be expansionist and not restrictive, Canadian policy will depend mainly on Mr. Sharp's strength in the government and Mr. Pearson's willingness to support him against the strong protectionist elements of the Liberal party.

Miss Dowd, wearing a grey suit and a fur neckpiece, said she came to Ottawa by bus for the specific purpose of waving the flag at the prime minister. She did so when he walked from the cabinet room to his office. He stopped and told her the new flag design is being chosen "for a national purpose."

The woman said the Union Jack is "a good flag for every purpose."

She told reporters earlier that her family came to Canada in the 1660s and that she personally favors the Union Jack. She brought the Red Ensign to Ottawa for her personal demonstration "because it is the flag you fly here."

She said that when she returned to Montreal she would put the Ensign "among the Union Jacks in my hall."

Miss Dowd refused to give reporters her address or her age, saying "No girl admits to being more than 39."

Fred O'Brecht, of Durham, Ont., new president of the Legion, said in an interview later that if the federal government adopted a new flag "I would expect that the Legion as good citizens would acquiesce to the change."

While at the moment the Legion recognizes only the Red Ensign, "You must realize it has been a very emotional question for the Legion."

Mr. O'Brecht echoed a statement earlier in the convention by the retiring president, Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, that the Legion is deeply disappointed at the action of the federal government in precipitating the flag question in view of the known opposition of the Legion.

Mr. O'Brecht said rising the flag issue now "diverted the attention of all veterans of Canada" from government plans to transfer control of veterans' hospitals to local civilian authorities. He did not elaborate.

U.K. Jets Blast Arab 'Bad Men'

Times News Services

THUMAIR—British jet fighters roared into action today in a major operation to soften up the Radfan rebels of southern Arabia.

RAF Hunter jets pummelled rebel mountain positions with rockets and cannon in an air strike that may last several days.

Planes dropped leaflets before the attack warning tribesmen to leave the area. The leaflets said the strike was necessary because the tribes were harboring "bad men."

The British threw a column of 50-ton Centurion tanks, accompanied by armored cars, into Wadi Misrah, a rebel lair only two miles from the sweltering, dusty campaign base.

The tanks, in action for the first time since Korea, pumped 105-millimetre shells into sniper nests in the mountains at the mouth of the Wadi.

"Our intention is to tighten the squeeze in order to reduce the rebels to a state in which they can no longer wage war against us," said Brig. Hugh Blacker, commander of the attack force.

ADVANCE EASILY

Two companies of paratroops began probing the rebel - held mountains two nights ago. They ran into sporadic sniper fire but advanced without great difficulty.

British paratroops Wednesday occupied the village and fort of Hajib, a key post from which the rebels had been observing British army movements.

A platoon of 40 men returned to Aden Wednesday night after a reconnaissance probe deep into enemy territory, and reported that a gathering of about 300 tribesmen in a Wadi several miles from Thumair had broken up.

British officers believe they have cut off many rebel supply routes from neighboring Yemen, but the area is such a maze of hidden tracks it is difficult to isolate the tribesmen entirely.

The current action is being pressed at the start of the planting season. Almost the entire arable area has been deserted by the populace. The British hope the prospect of hunger may bring the rebels to terms.

Tory Party Divided Over Flag

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A split has developed within the Progressive Conservative caucus over the issue of a distinctive Canadian flag with a maple leaf design.

Noticeable in the Commons opposition leader John Diefenbaker asked only one flag question.

Other members of the Progressive Conservative group refrained from asking questions on the flag.

This was in sharp contrast to the number of questions put to prime minister Pearson earlier in the week.

The Conservatives concentrated on discussing the flag in their caucus Wednesday. Reports were that Leon Balcer, deputy leader of the Progressive Conservatives from Quebec served notice that the Conservative members from Quebec constituencies would go along with the Liberal minority government's proposal for a distinctive flag with a maple leaf design.

There were other Conservative members who spoke out strongly within the caucus in favor of the Red Ensign. But it was obvious that there would be no unanimity within the party on the retention of the ensign.

Any hope that Diefenbaker might have had of leading a united Conservative party in support of the Red Ensign in the house faded at the caucus. Mr. Balcer laid it on the line. The French speaking members in Conservative caucus were in favor of the proposal to adopt a distinctive Canadian flag.

As the Conservatives filed out of the caucus they were close mouthed on what had transpired. Mr. Diefenbaker emerged to greet a trio of newsmen and immediately challenged one reporter with having failed to put in an appearance outside the caucus room for weeks.

Old Fossil Found

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has claimed that its paleonthologists have found the first fossils of the pterosaur, an extinct flying reptile, dating back about 100,000,000 years. They were discovered in Sinkiang last summer, the New China news agency said in a broadcast monitored here.

ESQUIMALT VOTES ON SWIM POOL

Esquimalt ratepayers will go to the polls on Saturday to decide whether or not they should have a $383,000 swimming pool.

The pool proposed for the municipality would mean an annual increase to ratepayers in yearly taxes of $12.60 on a $15,000 home or $5 on a $7,000 home.

The $277,500 needed to build the pool would be borrowed over a 20-year period with the balance of the $383,000 being made good through municipal development loan fund and the winter works program.

Also included in the plans is space for 350 spectators.

Voting will take place in Esquimalt Municipal Hall, 1229 Esquimalt Road, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. At the same time, the ratepayers will vote on the $6,734,354 Greater Victoria school building referendum.

New SC Defections 'Within Few Days'

MONTREAL (CP) — Leon Balcer said Wednesday night new defections of Social Credit members in the House of Commons to the Progressive Conservative party could be expected "within a few days."

Mr. Balcer, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant, told a party meeting that many of those who voted Social Credit in the last federal election are returning to the Conservative fold.

"I think the Conservative party has a tremendous opportunity in this province to be the party of the moderates" he said.

He predicted the Quebec government's investigation of the possible consequences of provincial independence will show that separation is impossible.

He said he bases his view on discussions he has had with economists.

The Quebec Conservative leader also told a press conference Wednesday night he has always been in favor of a distinctive Canadian flag, and he likes the maple leaf, but he would prefer not to comment on the federal government's choice of a flag until it is presented to Parliament.

As for a national anthem, Mr. Balcer said O Canada should have been adopted a long time ago.

Funeral Today For Well-Loved News Vendor

Funeral service was held today in Sands' Chapel for Jorgen Jensen, friend to many Victorians.

Mr. Jensen of 3114 Qu'Appelle died Monday of cancer. He was 59. Burial will be in Hatley Memorial Gardens.

Known to many as the man behind the Jensen Newsstand at 644 Yates, Mr. Jensen came to Victoria 19 years ago. He was born in Denmark.

Business men and customers from all walks expressed their sympathy and offered help, said Mr. Jensen's stepson, Joseph Williams, 3525 Happy Valley Road.

An active member of the Eagles, Mr. Jensen directed that his sick benefits be given to the Conquer Cancer Campaign.

He is survived by his wife Anna, a daughter Joyce in Vancouver, his stepson and three grandchildren. Three sisters and one brother are still living in Denmark and another brother, Sven, lives in Victoria.

War of Nerves Against Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The long-promised attack on Communist Cuba by the revolutionary junta, an exile group, appeared today to be something for the future —or a well-kept secret.

The junta, at the end of Cuba's May 20 independence anniversary on which it planned to have men fighting in Cuba, issued a statement which did not mention any attacks by its forces.

A Havana dispatch said the military had been placed on alert, with all leaves cancelled.

"The threats of attack have served a magnificent purpose in forcing extraordinary measures upon the Castro regime and doubtless producing widespread unrest and chaos in the already-floundering Cuban economy," said another exile leader.

FLURRY OF RUMORS

There was a flurry of rumors about sabotage and minor forays by junta forces led by Manuel Ray. But the Havana regime's radio confirmed none of them. Exiles recalled, however, that it took Havana radio 15 hours to confirm last week's attack on a sugar mill by an exile group.

The junta's statement dealt largely with the ideology of the plan to overthrow Castro, and an appeal to all Cuban exiles to help the fight.

Statement Promised On Prison Reforms

VANCOUVER (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau said Wednesday night he hopes to make a major policy statement before the end of 1964 on the course of Canadian penal reform for the next 25 years.

He said this "firm and comprehensive" statement of principles and policies to be followed in the corrections system will cover three fields:

Federal—The criminal law, operation of penitentiaries, and the parole system.

Provincial—The courts, probation, and provincial prisons and parole systems.

Federal - provincial — Research, staff training, and the role of private after-care agencies.

Mr. Favreau said in a speech to the John Howard Society of Vancouver that the policy statement would not in any sense be designed to frustrate or delay advances already under way in penal reform.

"Those advances must and will continue, because I am confident that there is nothing in our present program that will be found to be inconsistent with the blueprint for broad correctional development to which I have referred.

"Our current program is based on sound planning and is essential to meet our current and immediate needs."

PUBLIC MUST KNOW

However, he said the "new blueprint" is vitally important. The public must know the course of penal reform.

"So much may I say for the moment: That course must be charted along sensible, realistic and above all humanitarian national lines for the next quarter century."

The minister said his statement also will deal with the extent to which the federal government "is prepared to discuss with provincial governments ways and means whereby, acting co-operatively, all governments can carry out their responsibilities to the best advantage of Canada."

He described this as "another challenging . action for cooperative federalism."

Soviet Apologizes

OSLO (Reuters)—The Soviet Union has apologized to Norway for violating Norwegian air space May 26, a foreign ministry spokesman says. He said the Soviet aircraft had gone astray in poor weather.

ALDERMAN LOSES JOB FOR BUCKING PROJECT

CALGARY (CP)—Alderman David Russell confirmed today he has been fired from his position with a prominent Alberta architectural firm for opposing the $35,000,000 city-CPR downtown redevelopment plan.

W. G. Hames, newly-appointed senior partner of the firm of Rule, Wynn and Rule admitted the dismissal and added:

They Must Have Schools

ON SATURDAY GREATER VICtoria property-owners will give their answer to the school board's appeal for authority to borrow money over the next three years to build classrooms and provide other school facilities.

The answer to the appeal must be endorsement of the board's proposals unless this community is prepared to deny its children the education they need for the world today and tomorrow.

The sum required in two issues—one to purchase the Paul Building for increased administrative services—is under $7 million. The cost to the owner of a $13,000 home will be less than 45 cents a month.

Funds, if the referenda are passed, will be borrowed as they are required to provide accommodation for the growing child population of the district. The loans will be paid off over a period of 20 years.

The basic argument for approval of the proposal is irrefutable. Greater Victoria is adding about 1,000 children to its population annually. They require additions of 35 classrooms each year. If construction is not carried out to meet the needs, some classes will be forced to use the shift system — an arrangement by which rooms are occupied by one group shortly after the earlier group has completed its compressed schooling for the day. This is makeshift education unsuited to the demands of our times.

The benefits of seeking property-owner approval of this phase of the building program through one visit of the voter to the polling station, rather than through individual ballots for each item as its need becomes imperative, are obvious.

If the board is assured of public support over the longer period, it can borrow when the market is favorable and it can build when labor and materials are not in tight supply. The method gives promise of more for the taxpayer's dollar.

Over a period of years the people of this community have been widely informed on the need for expanding school facilities. More children require more desks. And, in this age, more is being done for children of varying abilities than at any time in the previous history of Victoria.

At present the community enjoys a high standard of schooling —a standard apparent in the number of high school graduates who have won the Governor-General's medal for top standing in the province. To maintain that degree of excellence, the community must keep abreast of current needs. Those needs are covered, as far as physical facilities are concerned, in the program for which financing guarantees are sought on Saturday.

There is an alternative, of course. Greater Victoria could drag its feet — as it has not done in recent years—and deprive its young people of their right to as good an education as the district can provide. That way lies injury to youth and eventual deterioration for the community.

One point in particular should be stressed at this time. Provision of what is required cannot be made merely by thinking favorably of the proposals. Only votes count. And a three-fifths majority is needed to pass the referenda.

Few investments in Victoria's future — and the betterment of the community as a whole — promise greater returns than an affirmative cross on the ballots the day after tomorrow.

Defence Critic

MR. DOUGLAS HARKNESS, who was minister of national defence in the Diefenbaker government until he courageously resigned over a difference of opinion with his leader, has finally been named to a seat on the Commons' defence committee.

Despite his qualifications, as a distinguished soldier and as a former minister of defence, Mr. Harkness was denied a seat on the committee by the Conservatives. Most observers blamed Mr. Diefenbaker's understandable desire to ostracize a man who had opposed him and had contributed to his fall from power.

Mr. Diefenbaker, however, is not one to neglect any tool available for use to discredit the Liberal government and to force an early election. The fact that Mr. Harkness has recently become sharply and openly critical of the defence reorganization being carried out so vigorously by the present defence minister, Mr. Paul Hellyer, seems to have been sufficient to restore him to a measure of favor in Mr. Diefenbaker's sight and to gain him the committee seat.

There is a certain irony in Mr. Harkness's main complaint about Mr. Hellyer's plans, that they will reduce Canada's defence capability. The central issue which led to Mr. Harkness's resignation from the Diefenbaker government was that Canada's defence capability had been nullified by refusal to honor a commitment to accept nuclear warheads for weapons which were tactically useless without them.

The fact is that under Mr. Harkness's guidance — and it certainly may not all have been his fault — Canada was continuing to spend millions upon millions of dollars every year as it had since the end of the Second World War on a defence establishment which was geared to refight the Second World War.

For the first time since the end of the war, through both Liberal and Conservative regimes, a government seems determined to put in a program which promises efficiency with economy in defence matters. It is not a task which will be completed in a matter of a few weeks or months, as Mr. Hellyer has made plain. It is not likely that the plan will be implemented without a few mistakes being made along the way either.

In all the changes in defence planning that lie ahead Mr. Harkness, in his new role as an apparently recognized party critic on defence matters and a member of the Commons defence committee, can play a useful part if he wishes to do so. He won't play that part, however, if he allows himself to be used only as part of a scheme to harass Mr. Hellyer and thereby embarrass the government.

Integrated Artistry

AMID THE UNHAPPY ACcounts of Negro persecution in the southern states, it is well to note an example of the other side of the coin, from Atlanta, Georgia.

In that city a Negro soprano, Miss Leontyne Price, was given such applause for her singing in the Metropolitan Opera's production of Don Giovani that the show was held up. And she was performing before an integrated audience. There is hope.

EUROPE IN THE SPRING By WALTER LIPPMANN

Watering Down Ideology

IN two of the three capitals I have just been visiting, in London and in Bonn, there is a political pause until the coming elections produce a government which has an effective mandate. Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Dr. Ludwig Erhard are preoccupied with the coming elections. The British government can take no lead and can make no commitments since in all likelihood there will be a Labor government by October. While it must react to Nasser and Sukarno, it can do so only within the grooves of old and established policies. Chancellor Erhard, though he is said to be very popular in Germany, has yet to win an election in his own right. Like President Johnson in the weeks after Nov. 22, he is much aware that he is standing in another man's — Dr. Konrad Adenauer's — shoes.

Lippmann

Only in France do people take it for granted that Gen. Charles de Gaulle's authority is good for some years to come. They do this on the assumption that the general's health is unimpaired by his recent operation.

De Gaulle Succession

I was interested to find when I was in Paris that the most difficult question of an authoritarian government, the most difficult question about General de Gaulle, has been answered. This is the question of the succession in case the general is displaced. The prime minister, Georges Pompidou, has been acquiring great strength and is unmistakably the next in line. There appears to be no likelihood of a controversy among the Gaullists about the succession.

And so, though the period of the major elections in the Western Alliance will last until the end of next year, it is already as certain as such things can be that President Johnson will be elected and that the principal figures with whom he will be dealing are Charles de Gaulle, Harold Wilson and Ludwig Erhard.

Granted that nothing is absolutely certain — as all of us remember who went wrong in the Truman-Dewey election of 1948 — granted that there could be catastrophes which are now unforeseen and unforeseeable, and allowing for acts of God, these are the four heads of government who will have the leading parts in the Western Alliance.

I found no evidence in Germany that the Social Democrats expect to defeat Dr. Erhard, and no great gusto for trying to defeat him. There is no substantial difference in foreign policy between the Social Democrats and the Erhard-Schroeder Christian Democrats. General de Gaulle has not wooed the West Germans away from the Atlantic Alliance, and the Franco-German marriage which he and Dr. Adenauer celebrated has not been consummated. All the Germans I saw were almost embarrassingly, I would say excessively, dependent upon the United States. The mere mention of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's suggestion that our six divisions in Germany should be reduced causes acute depression and dismay.

In domestic affairs, there is in West Germany, as there is all over Western Europe, a strong anti-Marxist tendency on the left. The German Socialists and the British Socialists have the same fundamental view, which is that the issue between them and the Conservatives and Liberals is not whether to nationalize industry. The issue is how to adjust industry to the technological revolution which is only in its early beginnings. On this basic issue, Marxism throws no light whatsoever. For Marx wrote long before the present technological revolution began. So British and German Socialists have shed Marxism almost entirely, even in their slogans and altogether in their thinking and their intentions.

In Britain, the Conservative government has recently converted itself to the idea of planning the national economy, and its intellectual differences with Harold Wilson's current Labor Party policies are not very distinct. One might also say, I think, that the argument is not about what shall be done, but about who can do it.

In Germany, the Social Democrats I talked with argued fervently for the necessity of private enterprise and of private capital investment. Moreover, we must remember that France before General de Gaulle had already developed an advanced socialized economy. It has not become less socialized under the general. For his prejudices and preconceptions are basically aristocratic and conservative, and as such he has no affection for the kind of laissez-faire system which in this country masquerades as conservatism.

All this has a critical bearing upon the main theme of European international politics and on the general position of the governments which are coming up. For the watering down of ideology and dogmatic doctrine is a necessary condition for what is going on. This is the opening of Eastern Europe to the West and of Western Europe to the East: in short, the breaking of holes through the Iron Curtain.

Opinions on the Flag

The Member's View

I would be grateful if I could use your columns to bring before the people of Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt my views on the National Flag issue.

I have always taken the position that, as far as I personally am concerned, I am quite content with the Red Ensign as Canada's National Flag. However, if I am asked as a member of Parliament to choose between this and any other flag, my own feelings must be set aside and I must give due thought to the far wider interests of the nation.

I believe a national flag above all must be a symbol of and a contribution to unity. If, as in the case of our present flag, it is to be as some suggest one cause of disunity, then I feel obliged at least to consider an alternative.

As your elected member of Parliament, I have been giving a great deal of thought to the matter of the flag these past few months. The Liberal Party has long been committed to bring before Parliament a distinctive Canadian flag within two years of taking office, and the time now seems to be at hand. The prime minister will be taking action on this matter within the next few days. I am free to vote as I wish and I will, naturally, be guided by the views of the residents of my constituency.

When the new flag is introduced everyone can discuss its merits in the light of the background information which will be placed before the public at the same time. Like all Canadians therefore, I must await the introduction of the flag before I can make up my mind. No flag will be acceptable to me unless it finds a large degree of favor right across the country, and the degree of favor should be evident very quickly once the flag is introduced.

Childish Emotionalism

One cannot help but despair for the future of mankind when forced to listen to such childish displays of emotionalism as exhibited by various individuals and organizations in connection with selection of a Canadian flag.

If those who have such strong feelings about what kind of flag is chosen would just direct a portion of their energy into attempting to solve the social and world problems which best us, we might see some progress in areas which carry the key to our very survival.

It is particularly disappointing to see an organization like the Canadian Legion which surely should have some awareness of the importance of current issues, spending its time worrying about what sort of flag Canada should have. What earthly difference does it make? The possibility that a government could stand or fall on such a petty issue is inconceivable.

British—And Proud

I have listened to many lectures and read many articles on the subject of the flag.

I am a Britisher and proud of it. As far back as the First World War the Union Jack was the national flag, flown many times over the then red line at the Battle of Trafalgar and many of the main battles of the First World War.

The Union Jack is flown all over the world but has never gone down to defeat.

Many times when defeat seemed inevitable the Jack was raised, the bugle sounded and the British regiments won the victory. Who are the people who have made this country what it is?

We only need to go to the Veterans' Hospital to find out where they came from. There seems to be a certain amount of animosity against the British. If it had not been for the British Army you would not have had a country. The army called Canadians were composed of 90 per cent Britishers.

I feel sorry for the young people of this country. If they studied the history of Canada it might change their views.

Maple Leaf Means Nothing

The very obvious intent behind the demand to change Canada's flag is surely aimed at destroying any connection with Britain and the Throne, as well as the Commonwealth. This cannot be allowed to pass.

What sort of a symbol is the maple leaf suggestion, anyway? Something a bit syrupy in the spring, and highly colored in the autumn; but how can that compare with the Christian crosses representing all that is best in the Old Country background, as well as the French fleur-de-lis; these mean something worth while, whereas the maple leaves mean just what? Nothing.

Exaggerated Chauvinism

The exaggerated chauvinism of Quebec in the claim of her superior right to bring the other provinces of Canada under her dictation is to be expected, since for so long her mentors have shown quite clearly that only by dividing can they hope to rule or conquer the country.

The outrageous demand that Canada, after all these years, should change the flag by which she is recognized the whole world over, is comparable to declaring Canada a "freshly" conquered country but, by whom, and for what?

Perhaps the idea of changing the flag—if accomplished—would satisfy the ingrained hatred that has been fermented for so long against Great Britain. The Great Britain who, in jointly drawing up the British North America Act, treated Quebec—or the powers that control Quebec—to the clearest form of justice which said province now appears to consider "old" fashioned.

Let Canada keep and proudly fly her own flag, the Red Ensign. To change it now and fly in exchange a piece of disguised tapestry would make Canada a laughing stock the whole world over and a sheer mockery of the pledge of: O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

(MRS.) ELLEN HART

Divine Origin

Before Canadians cast their vote on the question of a national flag, surely it is only wisdom to know the historical significance of the various designs submitted.

The history of the Union Jack represents a wealth of antiquity and deeds unequalled by any other national emblem on earth. It is of Divine origin, no less, declaring, as it does, the "company of nations" foretold by God's Covenant with Abraham, now known as the British Commonwealth of Nations, enacted by Parliament December 11, 1931.

Canada is, nominally, a Christian nation, and the Union Jack is the Christian's banner, irrespective of denomination or party, because it enshrines the cross of Christ and other sacred symsymbols, as well as the history of the Commonwealth.

All this, and more, expressed in the Red Ensign, is Canada's proud heritage.

Airport in China—'Hardly the Mark of an Industrially-Backward Nation'

By Andrew Wilson

Who has just returned to London from China.

AS WE passed over the Burma-China border, 30,000 feet below, the First Officer of the Boeing 720B handed me a headset. I heard the English-speaking voice from the Chinese control tower at Kumming. We were three kilometres off course; the Chinese knew it by their radars, and were asking us to get back to the centre-line of the narrow air corridor which was to take us 1,500 miles across the interior to Shanghai.

There were 10 of us British in the party, plus a number of European and Pakistani newsmen. The British were mostly aviation correspondents, invited by Pakistan International Airlines to report the opening of their new service (the first by a non-Communist airline into China) from Karachi to Shanghai. We had been asked by the airline to confine our reporting to the aviation field.

Nobody realized that this unprecedented admission of so many foreign journalists was to be used by the Chinese authorities to publicize a major shift in foreign policy.

At Shanghai, we were met by the inevitable ranks of flag-waving, flower-carrying schoolchildren. There were speeches of welcome, and speeches of reply, by Chinese and Pakistani aviation officials. Somewhere in the background a steel band was crashing out rhythmic music beneath red banners.

Yet my chief impression of Shanghai airport was of progress and efficiency. In the month before our arrival swarms of workmen had worked to extend the concrete runway to 11,000 feet, capable of taking the largest civil jets. The airport had also been equipped with a highly-efficient instrument-landing system for bad weather (as had also Canton airport and three other airports for the new service.) The Pakistanis are convinced that the equipment has been manufactured by the Chinese themselves. If so, it is hardly the mark of an industrially-backward nation.

After a 14-course banquet given by the municipality and a night at the Shanghai "Peace Hotel", formerly the British-owned Cathay, we were flown up to Peking. Some of us travelled in one of the six British Viscounts recently bought by CAAC, the Chinese Civil Aviation Authority. The rest flew in one of the Soviet Ilyushin 18 four-engined turboprops, which are still the backbone of China's internal air services.

The planes were flown by Chinese crews, through rather poor weather, very expertly. Hostesses with pigtails, in smart blue uniforms, kept coming down the cabin distributing Chinese chewing gum, candy, cigarettes, towels soaked with eau de Cologne, and cups of green tea. An announcement in the flight-folder forbade the use of cameras or binoculars.

At Peking, after two hours' flight, we were driven in rather shaky Hungarian-built coaches to the Hotel of the Nationalities—one of a half-dozen big new hotels for foreigners and officials. (One of the hotels is reserved for "overseas Chinese" from Malaysia, Indonesia and so on.)

All these hotels seem to be comfortable and well run, though sometimes a bit gloomy by Western standards. At those where I stayed there was always boiling water from the taps; laundry took five hours; nobody ever locked up cameras or valuables. Breakfast was inevitably a fruit salad, followed by three fried eggs and bacon, toast and coffee. Other meals were mostly Chinese, served in a style greatly superior to that of Cantonese restaurants in Europe and the United States.

Many of our fellow-guests were Africans, generally accommodated on other floors but sharing the same dining room. It was noticeable that the Chinese invited African guests to bring their wives and girl-friends. There were none of the sad girl-less Africans one sees in London—or, for that matter, Moscow.

For the next three days there was an almost continuous program of sight-seeing and banquets. On May Day we were all driven out of the city to the grounds of the Summer Palace, either to show us the sights or to take us away from the Day's Parade in the Square of Eternal Peace. Premier Chou En-lai took the salute at the parade, assisted by the foreign minister, Marshal Chen-yi.

There was no sign of Mao Tse-tung. Mao keeps very much in the background these days. Several visitors are said to have seen him recently; but he did not receive the Pakistani VIPs who came on this inaugural flight.

The Summer Palace on May Day is one vast landscape of amusements. After driving through shabby suburbs, we arrived at the Garden of Harmony where brightly-costumed minorities were performing national dances. Beyond stretched a lake, dotted with scores of small boats and, in the centre, a barge carrying a military band and a small boat from which the power-driven model aircraft was being manoeuvred at great speed. Above the boats, against a pale blue sky, hung dozens of red balloons. It was Canaleto's Venice, with variations.

In another part of the grounds, a female soldier was singing revolutionary songs in the Hall of Great Happiness, and there were children's games beneath the peach blossom in the Hall of Jade Ripples. Elsewhere there were conjurors, comedians, dancers, Chinese opera groups. Wherever I arrived—having separated from the rest of the party—I was greeted with clapping. Whole audiences rose to their feet, including companies of men and women soldiers. The same sort of welcome was being given to other foreign visitors, including Africans and, of course, Latin Americans.

On May Day and succeeding days, when I again walked occasionally on my own, I must have seen hundreds of thousands of people. I looked for signs of discontent and malnutrition but I did not find them.

Of course, sectors of the city may have been hidden from us. Certainly in an eight-day tour there was no opportunity to see vast tracts of a country containing 700 million people. And yet, if there had been discontent in China on the scale suggested by so many reports emanating from Hong Kong and Formosa it would surely have shown up somewhere in the conduct of the crowds. I had seen such discontent in Eastern Europe under Stalin. But I did not see it here.

Nor were there signs of undernourishment among the people I saw —though officials made no attempt to disguise that the food situation reached a crisis during the natural disasters—and economic mismanagement—of 1959-1960.

London Observer Service

Gerald Waring ... REPORTING

OTTAWA—It's going to be a bitter pill for the navy when its ships are commanded by "army officers" with rank of colonel and brigadier and such.

This hasn't been announced yet, but Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cardin says he expects the new Canada Defence Force will "stick to one of the three nomenclatures" of rank now in use, and that "the most logical one is the army."

So within a decade it'll likely be "HMCS Rideau, Col. Jones commanding," and "Atlantic Sea Command, Maj.-Gen. Smith, GOC." But if it's any consolation in navy wardrooms, the navy won't be around to mourn the change. It'll be gone, absorbed in the all-purpose, all-arms unified defence force, its officers and men outfitted in new uniforms, its sailors privates, its captains colonels, its admirals generals.

* * *

The country doesn't hear much about Mr. Cardin, because he is self-effacing both personally and in his work. While Defence Minister Paul Hellyer concentrates on policy and hatches new defence concepts, Associate Minister Cardin handles the prosaic but necessary task of defence administration.

His lot has been paperwork—all the multitudinous details of running the forces—in a clear-cut division of responsibility between the two ministers that has made them a highly effective team. This is a result never before achieved, for associate ministers hitherto have been fifth wheels.

"An associate minister didn't mean a hell of a lot, from the top down, when I came in," Mr. Cardin admits frankly. But in one year he has made the job mean a great deal, extending even into the area of co-ordinating defence and foreign policies, as in the Cyprus crisis.

He sees two more years ahead before he can in conscience step out to head a department all his own. He had the opportunity in February, when Prime Minister offered him either the Post Office or the Department of National Revenue, but he declined in order to finish the job he had undertaken with Hellyer.

But on the other hand, insiders say, it may be Hellyer who will move, with Cardin staying to become the first French-Canadian defence minister in history.

* * *

"I'm French," says Cardin. "I love my language, I love my religion, I love my culture." But he senses that he is not wholly accepted as a French-Canadian in Quebec—like Ontario-born Lionel Chevrier was not accepted. The reason: he was born in Providence, R.I., and although his parents were French-Canadians, and his uncle was Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, public works minister in the King cabinet, Lucien was 10 years old before the family moved back to Canada.

This nth degree of clannishness — in stark contrast with attitudes in Ontario, where British immigrant Andy Thompson may be the next Liberal leader—has kept Cardin from injecting himself into the current Quebec controversies. Besides, he says, before the recent Ottawa-Quebec detente it was useless because "everybody wanted to talk and nobody wanted to listen." But now, he believes, "we can start to say something which can be useful. We can work towards restoring federal-provincial relations, and the people will listen."

They might even listen with profit to a French-Canadian born in Providence, if he'll risk their slighting sniffs over this bar on his French-Canadian escutcheon.

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Corti-Costeroids

Many people write asking me if they should be taking cortisone-like drugs for some rare disease that they have; also, they ask what are the dangers of taking these drugs, perhaps in large doses and for some time. The best article on this subject I saw recently was by Dr. Max Michael, Jr., of Jacksonville, Florida. As he said, corti-costeroids have three main functions: 1. They can serve to replace secretions that come from the adrenal glands (that lie just above the kidneys); 2. they can be curative, especially in cases of the collagen, or "auto-immune" diseases, in which a small part of man's body seems to become allergic to most of his body; 3. even if they do not cure, they can help in tiding a patient over an acute attack, or in quieting distressing symptoms of a painful disease, such as rheumatoid arthritis.

Alvarez

As every physician knows, the adrenal cortico-steroids can be two-edged swords; they can help greatly, but they can also wreck the patient in one or more ways.

The first disease to be treated with the cortisone that was discovered years ago by Dr. E. C. Kendall and was first used by Dr. Philip Hench—both of the Mayo Clinic—was rheumatoid arthritis. Unfortunately, it was soon found that the cortico-steroids can relieve symptoms but they rarely cure. On stopping the medicine, the pain is likely to return.

The cortico-steroids can be very helpful in some blood diseases, such as idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura, and chronic lymphocytic leukemia. The drugs have been tried out in many allergic disorders, but in such cases it is questionable how much good they do. They have been given to people with most skin diseases, but Dr. Michael is not enthusiastic about such use. They may work well in the form of an ointment. The adrenal steriods have been a godsend to patients with the rare Addison's disease of the "adrenal cortex" (outer rind of the glands). In cases of that skin-darkening disease, patients are kept from dying.

Some diseases of the lungs can be helped by adrenal corticoids, but tuberculosis can be caused to flare up. Fibrosis and emphysema of the lungs have sometimes been helped. There are some acute and puzzling diseases of the eyes which can be much helped by steroids.

Unfortunately, the drug can produce severe inflammation of the cornea (clear window of the eye), hence, its use must be watched with great care, and it should be given for the shortest possible time.

The cortico-steroids have been given to patients with chronic ulcerative colitis, with occasional dramatic improvement. They can be very helpful in the nephrotic syndrome in which (usually) a child gets badly bloated with a rare form af kidney disease; but it is not certain that the drug changes the ultimate outcome of the disease.

HOME GARDEN By JACK BEASTALL

Weeds Can Sleep for 50 Years

Each time we prepare a piece of soil for our annuals or perennials a number of weed seeds are brought to the surface which have lain dormant in the soil for any thing from one to 50 years.

Jack

As soon as our plants are in and watered, these seeds germinate and we resort to the hoe or cultivator to restore order.

In addition to seed seedlings there is the crust which forms on the heavier soils as soon as they are watered, and the resulting cracking. Here again, the hoe and cultivator are brought into use.

HOEING CAN HURT

While the breaking of the soil allows air to penetrate more easily to the roots of our plants, and the destruction of the weeds eliminates competition for plant foods, hoeing and cultivating can be as damaging as it is beneficial.

Any deep penetration of the soil alongside a growing plant is bound to result in the damage of a number of roots. Usually it is the tips which are cut off, which is unfortunate because the tiny hairs which pick up the food are immediately behind the growing tips.

To keep the garden tidy, the soil loose for air penetration, and our plants healthy and happy, we must limit our hoeing and cultivating to the shallowest depth that will serve our purpose.

Weeds are best cut off at soil level, and a surface crust can often be eliminated by pressing the flat side of the rake, or the cultivator, on the surface in the same way as we firm the soil over newly sown seeds. This is better than disturbing the soil deeply.

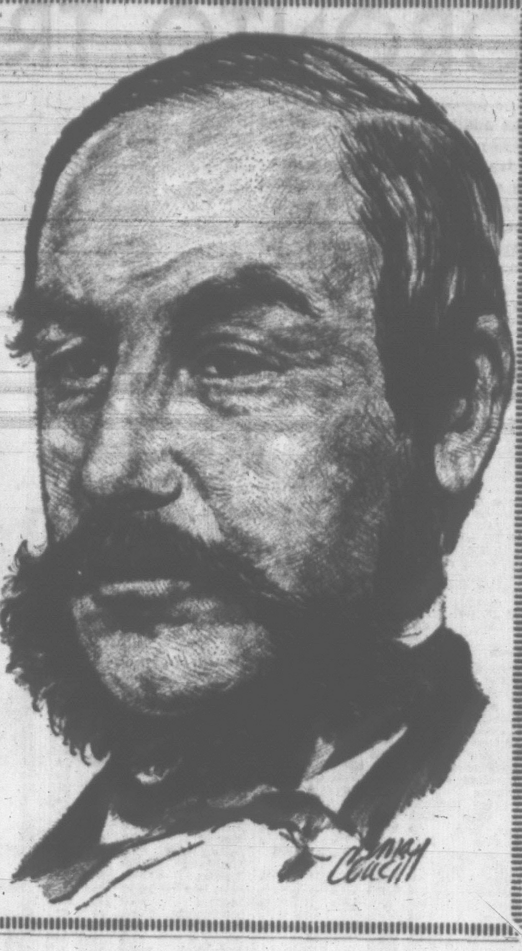
THE FATHERS OF CONFEDERATION

J. M. Johnson



John Mercer Johnson had a falling out with his fellow Fathers of Confederation during the talks which led to the formation of the Canadian nation.

He argued that provincial legislatures should not have power over county or district courts. The others disagreed. The result is that today the federal government names the county judges and dictates the criminal law but the province decides the civil law the court administers and runs the court.

Johnson, born in Liverpool, Eng., in October, 1818, moved to New Brunswick with his father at an early age. He was educated at Northumberland county grammar school and eventually called to the provincial bar in 1840. Ten years later Northumberland electors chose him for a seat in the provincial Assembly. He entered the cabinet four years later as solicitor-general. Still later he held the portfolio of postmaster-general and attorney-general and acted as Speaker of the Assembly. In 1867, with Confederation a fact he entered federal politics and was elected MP for Northumberland. His federal career was only brief, however. He died Nov. 9, 1868, in the riding which he had represented for so many years provincially.

'No Separation Will Take Place' Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Wednesday that an inquiry into the effect of Quebec independence on the rest of Canada would be entirely academic because "no such separation is going to take place."

His reply to Reid Scott (NDP —Toronto Danforth) was greeted with long applause by Liberal backbenchers.

Mr. Scott noted that a special committee of the Quebec legislature has commissioned studies of the social, economic and cultural effects of separation on Quebec.

He said some people think Canada could get along without Quebec and it would be useful for the federal government to order a study of the effects of a break on English-speaking provinces.

FORMER CABINET MINISTERS BUSY

New Ideas Springing Up in Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators, who seem to have been getting a lot more government business to deal with lately, apparently don't lack for a few ideas of their own.

In Wednesday afternoon's sitting in the upper chamber, these suggestions came forward from former cabinet ministers.

DAVID J. WALKER

THOMAS CRERAR
. . . stop deficits

—Senator David J. Walker, a former Progressive Conservative works minister, proposed establishment of a new royal commission — on corporation law.

—Senator Wallace McCutcheon, another Toronto Conservative and a former trade minister, said the federal government should stop levying estate taxes.

—Senator Thomas Crerar, a former Liberal mines and resources minister, said the federal government should stop running up big deficits that cause inflation.

Senator Walker, making his maiden speech in the Senate which he joined in February, 1963, spoke just before the upper chamber approved in principle the first overhaul of the Companies Act in 30 years. The measure now goes to the Senate banking and commerce committee.

He supported the revision, but said that if banking deserved a royal commission—the Porter royal commission on banking recently brought down its report—so did corporations.

"In order to keep abreast of economic development and in order to follow modern corporate practices and administration, I believe it is necessary to have a new Canadian Corporations Act and no better medium could be found for writing one than a royal commission."

Senator A. K. Hugessen (L—Quebec) served notice that in committee he will challenge the necessity for giving the state secretary power to demand any information from a corporation —one of the proposed revisions in the Companies Act.

Senator McCutcheon, speaking shortly before the Senate gave second reading to Estate Tax Act amendments following the budget, said the federal government is reaching a ridiculous situation in the estate tax field.

Ottawa should vacate this field and the revenue from estate taxes—otherwise known as death, succession or inheritance duties—should be left to the provinces. Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have been advocating such a move.

Senator Crerar spoke as the Senate set up a finance committee.

The 87-year-old Manitoba Liberal said he is not too hopeful that action to end the big federal deficits will be taken in the years immediately ahead by Finance Minister Gordon and the Liberal government. He was even less hopeful should there be a change of government.

It was difficult for governments to resist spending pressures, but sooner or later some government would have to do it, he said.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Monetary Growth No Threat—Yet

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Interest rates in Canada have remained reasonably stable despite the heightened demand for credit of all types over the past year in which the economy has quickened its growth.

Bell

The primary reason for the stability has been the fact that the Bank of Canada has been pumping new currency into the monetary system at a rapid clip — about $100 million a month since the first of the year. If this monetary expansion were to be continued throughout the year it would produce a monthly average increase of about 8 per cent over last year.

Just how long monetary expansion at the present rate will continue—and with it the stability in the lending markets—is difficult to predict since it involves several variable factors, both internal and external.

The principal external factor is the government's need to keep interest rate levels in Canada close enough to those in the U.S. to preclude any considerable inflow of American funds. This undertaking was given by Canadian fiscal authorities in return for promised exemptions from the proposed American investment equalization tax.

However, as a bulletin from Dominion Securities Corp. points out, the monetary expansion issue could be forced by domestic factors.

"If a sudden burst of loan increases, of the magnitude which occurred in 1959 and 1962, were to appear, the issue would be forced, since monetary expansion would not likely be increased to accommodate the loan demand," the bulletin states. "Or if a boom in capital spending were to result in doubling non-government net security issues, as occurred in 1956, as well as corporate selling of liquid assets, the issue might also be forced."

Neither of these two eventualities seem too likely at the present time, however, since, while capital spending is strong, corporate savings are also high enough to take much of the pressure off the bond markets.

Within three of four months, though, it is possible that the need to slow down monetary expansion will clash with the need to avoid an inflow of U.S. funds and an upward trend in interest rates will be seen.

The situation could well be eased for Canada by American action to cool off inflationary tendencies, a move which the Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, in its latest survey, sees as a distinct possibility.

"When they look out beyond the next few months," the survey states, "investors tend to concentrate on Mr. Johnson's pledge that either renewed inflation or a deterioration in the balance-of-payments will call forth the "independent Federal Reserve as our second line of defence.'

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto Industrials Stay on High Level

Montreal prices moved fractionally higher in extremely active afternoon trading.

A 10-point rise by U.S. Smelting and advances by selected blue chips helped keep Wall Street in plus territory during fairly active late afternoon trading.

AT TORONTO Massey-Ferguson was ahead 1⅛ to 28 after issuing an increased earnings and sales report for the six months ended April 30.

Falconbridge dipped 1¼ to 71¾ in a quiet base metals group. Cominco and Noranda were ahead ¼ to 35½ and 48½ respectively.

Among speculatives, Genex was up two cents to 26 and Northcal eight cents to 75 cents. Area Mines gained 30 cents to $2.15.

AT NEW YORK U.S. Smelting, swamped with buyers at the start, responded to its copper ore discovery in New Mexico.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was pacing the list on volume again but fell about a point. Calumet and Hecla lost more than a point.

AT MONTREAL Massey-Ferguson climbed 1⅝, Pacific Petroleum and Zellers ½ each, and Rolland Paper A and Quebec Natural Gas, ⅛ each.

Home Oil A declined ⅛.

Among speculative mines on the Canadian Exchange, Mount Pleasant fell three cents, Penbec two cents, and Black River 1½ cents. Chipman Lake was up 2½ cents.

AT LONDON prices moved irregularly on the stock exchange today.

Gilt-edges were firm and dollar stocks higher. Insurances were mixed, steels firm, oils and teas quiet, rubbers easier, and mines mixed.

Among the leaders, Courtaulds, Bowater, Plessey and Marks and Spencer advanced. Coats Patons was down, Beechams fluctuated.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate. Utica was up at .50 and Endako at $8.90. Trojan was down at .20½ and Western Mines at $5.50. Granduc dropped to $6.25 and Jericho to .50. Pacific Pete climbed to $14⅝ and West Coast to $19⅝. Highland Bell was up at $5.25 and Massey-Ferguson at $27⅞.

Galaxy Drills To Prove Find

VANCOUVER (CP)—Galaxy Copper Ltd., in an attempt to prove the existence of a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore near Kamloops, has moved two drills onto its property site.

An underwriting of $50,000 will be used by the company to drill 14 holes. If further options are taken up, a total $340,000 will be provided for investigation.

Dr. A. C. Skerl, consulting geologist, said 12,000 feet of drill holes on the 52 claims indicate a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore.

Industry Fights Lingering Suds

NEW YORK (AP)—That foam on streams and lakes, the suds that sometimes rise in the lower floors of apartment houses, the froth on the glass of tap water in some crowded suburbs—all may be on the way out.

At least that's what the detergent industry is promising—and putting up $100,000,000 to back its words.

New plants to produce a different detergent base, one that won't retain its foaming property after it has gone down the drain, are rising across the country.

The industry promises that most detergent makers will have the new substance available early next year, and all by the end of 1965. To nudge them along, Wisconsin and some local communities have passed laws saying that by then the old froth-retaining type can't be sold there any more.

The new substance is LAS, meaning linear alkylate sulfonate, and the one now used is ABS standing for alkyl benzene-sulfonate. The difference is that the ABS you're used to doesn't break down readily in sewage treatment plants, or in streams, or in private septic tanks. Hence the objectionable suds.

LAS has a simpler molecular structure, say the experts, a structure that biological action can break down more easily and thus get rid of that foam which many people rank high on their list of obnoxious water pollutants.

WOOD ON VIEW

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British high commissioner to Canada said Wednesday an experimental housing project in Britain is expected to stir considerable interest in B.C. lumber.

Sir Henry Lintott, here on a diplomatic visit to the province, said B.C. lumber was used in a 200-house project in Skelmersdale, England.

Optimism Soaring on Prairies

By The Canadian Press

Following a record year of wheat sales in 1963, farm, business and government spokesmen in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba echo the same feeling—optimism.

Bolstering this feeling, a Winnipeg grain marketing firm announced Wednesday there are "persistent rumors" a new wheat deal of about "4,000,000 tons or about 150,000,000 bushels" is soon to be announced between Canada and Russia.

Meanwhile Saskatchewan farmers, who received a record $630,000,000 farm cash income in 1963, have embarked on a farm machinery buying spree.

W. A. Robertson, a Regina farm equipment dealer, said: "We have sold so many combines already this year that it just doesn't make a comparison with previous years."

He and other dealers in the province report sales as much as 100 per cent higher than during the same period in 1963.

Hydro Appoints New PR Officer

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has announced the appointment of Peter Marsh Allen as new manager for Hydro's Information Services department. He held various posts in a 10-year career with Ontario Hydro and has been personnel manager for Trans-Canada Pipelines Ltd., Toronto, since 1957.

What Others Think Across the Nation On New Flag Issue

Times News Service

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's design for a distinctive Canadian flag is the subject of lead editorials across the country. Reaction varies from qualified approval in the French-language Montreal La Presse to angry opposition from the Toronto Telegram.

"Let us give the prime minister this much: he has honored a promise," wrote Guy Cormier in La Presse.

The Toronto Telegram said Pearson's tampering with the flag issue at this time was "mischievous and dangerous."

THE MONTREAL GAZETTE said the flag issue was one on which the government should permit a free vote in the House of Commons without staking the life of the government.

"Parliament, in a free vote, would provide an indication whether the issue is one that is likely at this time to promote harmony or to provoke division within the country," the newspaper said in an editorial. "This is a time when harmony, above all things, is what is needed.

It is important that the vote in parliament should be free in every sense of the word. The members should not be under pressure from their party whips to vote along any party line," the newspaper said. "Further still, the vote should not, in any respect, be taken as involving the fate of the government. It is a test of a particular matter taken independently; it is not a test of the standing of the government as a whole.

THE MONTREAL STAR assailed "the rowdy element in the Canadian Legion which tried to shout Prime Minister Pearson down on Sunday in Winnipeg," and said the Legion's stand for the red ensign "represents a minority opinion in Canada over the flag issue."

The newspaper said its feeling was that the majority of Canadians are "broadly in favor of some 'distinctive' design — this being the formula to describe something that is not the red ensign."

THE VANCOUVER SUN came out in favor of the proposed Maple Leaf flag but warned both government and opposition not to make a "political row" of the issue in the Commons.

The Sun said that if there must be debate on the issue, "let parliament debate in dignity and with a sense of responsibility putting the nation before party."

"If there is to be a vote, let it be truly free. Parliament has the authority to decide.

"But to be able to vote freely, the House must not stand under the shadow of a general election. Mr. Pearson should think again before staking the life of his government on the matter."

"The new flag," the Sun said, "featuring the Maple Leaf as its symbol is distinctively Canadian. It has been associated throughout the world with Canada's name. It will be an honored flag."

THE TORONTO STAR said Pearson "showed more political courage than judgment when he chose the Canadian Legion convention for this flag foray."

"It would be too bad if what he said got lost in the uproar. For his reasons why Canada should have a distinctive flag of new design make sense," the Star said.

"The design of the flag Mr. Pearson has unfurled is acceptable. The Maple Leaf is an established symbol of Canada. The Pearson flag could be made stronger with one simplified Maple Leaf instead of three. But this is a question of detail.

LONDON FREE PRESS (Ind.) said: "He (Prime Minister Pearson) must have decided that he would have a greater chance of calming the separatist demands if Canada had a new flag as a symbol of an unfettered land.

Mr. Pearson was right in declining to hold a plebiscite on the new flag. That would have made the issue even more controversial . . ."

TRAIL, B.C., TIMES (Ind.)—"The type of flag which Mr. Pearson proposes appears to resemble something we've come to expect from one of the banana states or some primitive republic newly founded in the African jungle. . . He's planning to have a "free vote" on it in Parliament, but he says the government will fall if the vote goes against him. Let's hope it does and that the crash will be so alarming the politicians won't find it expedient to raise the question of the flag again for many years to come."

MEDICINE HAT NEWS (IND.)—"Many will be saddened and even angered by the decision to scrap the Red Ensign. But if a majority of members of the House of Commons decides that this is a proper step to take, then the minority of members — and presumably the constituents they represent—have no choice but to accept the decision. For that is how democracy works."

SASKATOON STAR-PHOENIX (IND.)—Mr. Pearson is prepared to make the flag an issue on which his government would stand or fall. We think in this he has used questionable judgment. This is definitely not the appropriate time to generate an issue as explosive as the flag on which to fight an election.

FREDERICTON GLEANER (Ind.)— . . . The new flag is being conceived in discord to appease the separatists and the anti-British sentiment in Quebec. How can such a flag bring about unity?"

OTTAWA JOURNAL (Ind.—Cons.) — One can't help wondering if Mr. Pearson had to bring the flag issue to this pitch at this moment . . . If we give birth to a flag out of today's dissension, by a pressed vote in Parliament, will it mean to the country what a flag should mean?

OTTAWA CITIZEN (Ind).—It is obvious by now that the Red Ensign arouses such varying emotions . . . that it cannot possibly be acceptable as a national symbol . . . Judging by the letters this newspaper has received from veterans during the past 10 or 12 years, a very large number . . . want a flag that will have no reference to Britain or France, a flag that will be immediately recognizable, anywhere in the world, as Canadian—and that means a maple leaf design, without either a Union Jack or a fleur-de-lis.

GERMAN SHEPHERD SHOW

Victoria Dogs Go to Seattle

About 15 German Shepherd dogs from Vancouver Island will go to Seattle June 12 for Washington German Shepherd Dogs' Club specialty show.

The show, to be held at the outdoor Renton Stadium, is open to all registered German Shepherds over six months and is the largest breed specialty show in the Northwest.

One Victoria dog is highly favored to take top honors. Tirone, owned by Steve Taylor, of 820 Gorge Street West, was last year's champion senior male puppy.

This year Tirone, now 19 months, will be competing in the open class.

A Canadian judge, Mary Southcote, of Ontario, will supervise the conformation classes, while Nicholas Kay, of California, will be in charge of the puppy sweepstakes and obedience.

Other Island entries will be from Duncan, Nanaimo and Campbell River.

Dangerous Loot

BURNABY (CP) — RCMP warned today that a three-quarter-pound stick of highly-inflammable phosphorous stolen from a Burnaby district school could cause serious injury or property damage.

$2.10 A POUND FOR FILLET STEAK

Meat Short, Prices Soar in U.K.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — Record meat prices in British stores—as high as $2.10 a pound for fillet steak—led to predictions Wednesday of a full-blown political row.

Officials of the National Federation of Meat Traders said they will go to the agriculture ministry Tuesday to protest about the meat shortage in Britain—a shortage which, however, is general throughout Europe.

And the Labor opposition plans to launch an attack on the government as soon as Parliament reassembles June 2 after the Whitsun recess, charging it failed to ensure adequate meat imports.

The basic charge against Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's government is that a hit-or-miss policy on meat imports is the cause of rocketing beef prices.

George Darling, Labor's spokesman on consumer affairs declared: "All the figures given by the ministry of agriculture about exports of British cattle and meat to the continent have been inaccurate.

MEAT FAMINE POSSIBLE

"It is time we brought some order into the trade. If we don't, there is a possibility of a meat famine in the autumn."

Another warning — this time about milk — was issued by Frank Procter, chairman of the Co-operative Milk Trades Association, who said: "Far too many cows have been killed and sold as meat to the continent. If there is a drought this summer there will also be a shortage of milk, because the cows are being killed to meet the shortage of meat."

The cost-of-living index for last month recorded its highest increase for more than a year, partly because of jumps in meat and milk prices.

As an example of meat prices, Belgian buyers were taking beef here Wednesday at £10 9s ($31.35) a hundredweight compared with £5 ($15) a year ago. Fillet steak was selling in the shops up to 14 shillings ($2.10) a pound, in some cases more than 20 per cent higher than six months ago.

The background to the rise in price since last May is complicated and involves supplies from Argentina particularly. In addition British farmers — who receive a subsidy—have been exporting to Europe to a greater extent than normally, leading to demands that the subsidy be withdrawn where such exports are concerned.

CAUSED DEATHS

In 1960 and 1961, barbiturates were the cause of 25 per cent of all accidental deaths in Canada.

'ORDINARILY NEGLIGENT'

Little Girl Ran In Front of Car

The 16-year-old driver of a car which knocked down and killed three-year-old Terri Verpe was described by an inquest jury on Wednesday as being "ordinarily negligent."

Terri, of 2534 Graham, was knocked down on Kings Road last Saturday—her third birthday. She died in Royal Jubilee Hospital on Monday.

The driver, a grade nine pupil, said he had been driving for three months.

He said he was driving his own car along Kings Road on Saturday when "I saw something red and the girl was in front of me . . . and I felt a thump . . . and I'd hit her."

At the time, he said, he was doing about 20 to 25 mph.

Mrs. Janet Shepherd, of 2625 Graham, said she was standing on the boulevard outside her home when she first noticed Terri walking along the sidewalk on Kings Road.

Then, she said, the little girl skipped and hopped across the boulevard and ran across the streete into the path of the car.

"I saw what I thought was a red beach ball going through the air and realized it must have been the little girl," she added.

Victoria coroner, Edmond J. De St. Jorre, told the jury they could find the girl's death was due to criminal negligence, on the part of the driver, ordinary negligence or accidental.

The inquest was held at McCall's Funeral Chapel.

Unions Find 'Cheap' Cry Not Uttered

Victoria Labour Council executive investigating a charge that a local union called another "cheap" in a letter referring to shipyard-strike donations has found there was no letter.

Council secretary A. W. Toone said the word "cheap" was never used in a letter to the Greater Victoria School Board Employees' Association. The GVSBEA has apologized, and says the word was a remark picked up elsewhere.

The "offending" union remained un-named.

The charges arose after GVSBEA delegate George Taylor told Council his union had been accused of donating $10 to the shipyard strike fund.

Actually, he said, the union gave a total of $70 to various unions.

'Gov't Turns Deaf Ear'

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Corps Association asked Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday to hold a plebiscite to see whether Canadians favor retention of the Red Ensign.

In a telegram from E. V. Heesaker, Dominion president, the association said the government is turning a deaf ear to "our plea to retain our country's national flag, the flag under which we proudly served, the Red Ensign."

BERRYMEN TO BLAME FOR RAIN

Elsewhere across the province wet, cool weather has slowed crops by two weeks.

But in Saanich the rain is just what the berry farms need.

"We have had very little rain—we want the rain," said T. G. Michell, president of Saanich Fruit Growers' Association today.

Mr. Michell said prospects are for a fair berry crop this year.

'THOUSANDS OF MEMBERS'

New Unity Movement Headed by Sevigny

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Sevigny, associate defence minister in the former Progressive Conservative government, says he has agreed to become president of the Movement for Canadian Unity, a new organization that already has attracted "thousands and thousands" of members.

He told a press conference Wednesday he was urged to accept the presidency by the movement's founders — commercial traveller Jean-Paul Poulin, 46; insurance agent Gaston Gauthier, 41; and clerk J. Alfred Levesque, 42.

The movement "is not, cannot be and will not be political," Mr. Sevigny said.

Its aim is to promote Canadian unity. First objectives are a distinctive national flag, the adoption of O Canada as Canada's national anthem, and the establishment of a Canadian legion of honor with such Canadian decorations as a "Canadian cross" and "order of Canada."

The movement has a Canadian flag design of its own—red, white and blue triangles with a green maple leaf in the centre—but is prepared to accept any flag "chosen by our authorities."

Mr. Sevigny said members are recruited by circulating petitions from hand to hand in factories and restaurants. About 80 per cent of the membership is French-Canadian, 10 per cent English-Canadian and 10 per cent new Canadian.

4 Children Burned

CALAIS, Maine (UPI)—Three tiny brothers and their sister died early today when fire roared through their home in this tiny Canadian border town as they slept in an upstairs bedroom. The dead were identified as David Ross Corbett, 7, Mark Anthony, 5; Tammy, 4, and Todd Michael, 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Corbett.

Guiana Terrorists Attack Train

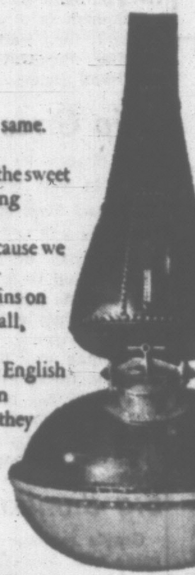
(Times News Service)

GEORGETOWN — A band of men armed with cutlasses and clubs attacked passengers on a British Guiana train here Wednesday. At least four persons were in hospital.

The attack, on a train travelling a 26-mile-long rail line on the west coast at Demerara, was the latest incident in a rising wave of Afro-Indian clashes and house burnings in the sugar belt.

Authorities said the train crew saw that the track had been blocked and stopped the train. Terrorists then went aboard and attacked passengers and crew. A police corporal armed with a rifle eventually drove off the attackers.

In other incidents, one man was shot, a woman was beaten.



Ever try "slow" gin?

(And we don't mean Sloe Gin.)

"Slow" gin and Sloe Gin sound the same. But they couldn't be more different.

Sloe Gin, flavoured with sloes, is on the sweet side. Our "slow" gin—Burnett's Sterling—is very, very dry.

Why do we call it a "slow" gin? Because we make it slowly. Instead of being mass-produced in oceans—like most other gins on the market—Sterling is distilled in small, unhurried batches.

What sets the slow pace is our little English copper Pot Stills, which are more than 100 years old. By modern standards, they are miniatures—and slowpokes.

But as long as you like the way they make gin, we're in no hurry to change them. Look at the one on the left. We brought it here from England in the 1920's, when we imported Burnett's complete distillery. The men who mind our old Pot Stills know them as a good cook knows her seasoned pots and pans. They'd never forgive us if we decided to retire these old-timers.

Switching to modern, monster stills would save us trouble, time and money. But our Sterling Gin would no longer be a "slow" gin. And you'd be quick to tell us that it didn't taste the same.

Chapman Lifts Rocks Over Bionda and Co.

SPORTS

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

LOOKS AT SPORTS

This was the first 1964 visit of New Westminster to Memorial Arena, the first opportunity Victoria Shamrocks had to make an exhibition of themselves against the bluebloods of the Intercity Lacrosse and Assorted Mayhem League.

It was a brisk evening, the kind when a crisp wind sends chilly fingers up your back and makes you wish you hadn't committed the heavy underwear to storage so early.

But inside the athletes kept warm. They managed it by beating each other vigorously and otten. Nothing like a good crack across the back of the neck to keep the blood at room temperature.

JACK BIONDA
. . . arouses the savages

If Memorial Arena had pari-mutuels, the money would have been on New Westminster. They are the leaders of the chase so far, bold and brutal. And they have Jackson Bionda, the Gordie Howe of baggataway.

There are historians who claim the Indians invented lacrosse and Bionda perfected it. After watching him, the story goes, the Indians gave up the game for something quieter, like shooting Niagara Falls in a barrel.

Under a new ordinance requiring the players to wear helmets, many are not readily recognizable. Not Bionda. Such is his skill and style that you could pick him out if he showed up in a Beatle toupee.

He has won the scoring spittoon six times—the times he has played a full season. In New Westminster he is revered but in other outposts his very appearance arouses the savage in the peasants.

Part of their warm feeling for him stems from his younger days when he practised surgery on opposition players without a licence. Time has dulled his malevolence but the memories linger on.

'Little Darlings' Weren't Intimidated

Before Wednesday, the Shamrocks had earned their role of underdogs on the strength of their play. Gently put, it reeked. Two wins, four losses.

True they had won their last two contests. But the opposition was Nanaimo, fangless foes without Tom McVie and John Ferguson who pooled their muscle for a total of 92 goals last year.

This could have taken the starch out of the pants of Don Ashbee's heroes. Before Chapman, much of Victoria's woes stemmed from goalkeeping which was usually consistent and sievelike.

But thereafter the Shamrocks declined to be intimidated by Bionda and his buddies. They hung tough, and engaged in Tong war reciprocity, welt for welt.

Their muscular demonstration was hardly in keeping with the tag of "little darlings" hung on them by Harry Fulton.

Mr. Fulton is the New Westminster manager, gifted with a loud set of lungs and a tongue which holds the Canadian freestyle record for flapping.

'Spots' Had Trouble With His Swing

Considering the combustible circumstances it was rather surprising that none of the players lost their heads until nearly the end of the first quarter.

Joseph Morneau struck the first blow, a backhand smash across the chops of Victoria's Billy Gray. Since Morneau had his stick in his hands at the moment of impact Gray picked wood out of his teeth for sometime thereafter.

Referee Whitey Severson put an armlock on Spotswood, temporarily restraining him from all-out assault and battery.

Meanwhile, referee Harry Wipper attempted to placate Shuttleworth. Wipper lost in straight falls (one), proving that he is no relation to another Whipper named Watson, a professional wrestler with impressive won-lost credentials.

Ultimately the principals locked in mortal combat which ringsiders called a draw. Spotswood said later he was not at his best since he had difficulty disengaging himself from the octopus-like tentacles of Mr. Severson.

Try Holding Sandy With Bare Paw

There was one other match of weighty portions—involving the usually placid Ron Jay and Westminster's Don Boyd—but they were disqualified pending a rematch.

In and around this action the teams played lacrosse occasionally. Or rather Victoria did. Don Ashbee, their tireless leader, gave direction and the troops performed near flawlessly.

That Chapman, a man said, he looks the blue plate special in goal, wot?

Mr. Ashbee is not given to sudden spasms of unrestrained glee.

"He moves well," Ashbee said. Then, in an aside: "You see that shot of Bionda's he stopped in the last quarter? Caught it with his hand."

As compliments go, this was it. You ever see John Roseboro catching Sandy Koufax without a mitt?

Youthful Goalie Brightest Star In Victoria's Galaxy

New Westminster 4, Shamrocks 9

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Hop aboard early and avoid the crush.

Victoria Shamrocks have a bright, new star pulling the bandwagon, and you have to admit that some time has elapsed since a Victoria entry in Inter-City Lacrosse has generated so much enthusiasm.

It 's a big edition, and a tough one. The Rocks also are bubbling with a sudden injection of spirit, and they've acquired a dash of poise.

It is no coincidence that the vital ingredients came to be noticed after Skip Chapman arrived on the scene.

Chapman is a goaltender. If he isn't, then somebody's been cheating the public for three wonderful games.

The Shamrocks rang up their third straight victory Wednesday evening, but none of the previous ones was as impressive as that 9-4 decision over New Westminster.

Their goals were good ones and the Shamrock checking was brilliant. They ran when they had to run, and stalled when presence of mind demanded stalling.

Skip Gives Defence Full Marks

The Shamrocks go gunning for No. 4 in New Westminster tonight, and there are a few folk about who will NOT be surprised if the Irish achieve success. These would be some, perhaps many, of the 3,184 fans who surveyed Wednesday's offering at Memorial Arena.

Chapman was the chap that kept the Rocks glued together, but victory has to be regarded as a solid team effort. The goaltender was the first to say it in the dressing room.

"Boy," he said to the man, "it's a pleasure to play behind checking like I had in front of me tonight. It was great."

The heavy penalty toll seems to indicate that nobody shirked their checking duties. The best, however, had to be Barry Ashbee, Billy Gray and Ed Kowalyk.

Gray deserves special mention. The crowd-pleasing hardrock was hit in the face with a hard slash at the end of the first quarter. He retired to the dressing room but returned to play a standout game.

Big Bionda Had a Gray Shadow

Gray's opposite most of the game was Jack Bionda, and it should be mentioned that the league's leading scorer managed only one point—a goal—for his night's effort.

Paul Parnell, Charlie Saunders and Cliff Sepka, all sure-shots, were the only other players to beat the peppery Chapman.

Such was the Shamrock checking that only one goal—by Sepka—came while Westminster tried its odd-man play.

Playing-coach Don Ashbee, Jim McNeill and Bill Munroe led the Victoria offense, which counted four of its nine goals while the Westminsters were playing a man short.

Don Ashbee scored twice and picked up two assists, one on a particularly delightful play finished off by McNeill. The latter, finally finding the range after a frustrating feud with goalposts, then broke it wide open with two power-play goals within 16 seconds in the final minute of the third quarter.

FOUR FOR McNEILL

McNeill added a fourth goal in the final quarter to complete scoring.

Munroe, rounding into shape, displayed plenty of aggressiveness and figured in four goals, scoring once and setting up McNeill three times on the power play.

Two great shoulder saves by the 22-year-old Chapman on breakaways were the game's turning points.

"Neither were lucky. Chapman played it that way. He gives his man an opening but when the shooter makes his move, Skip just lifts that shoulder."

Referees Whitey Severson and Harry Wipper doled out 139 minutes in penalties, including two match misconducts, three misconducts and four five-minute majors and 33 minors.

Victoria's Bill Spotswood, 216, took on Westminster's Wayne Shuttleworth, about 190, in the first in one brawl. The second, marred by stick-swinging, was between Jay and Westminster's Don Boyd.

Both Jay and Boyd drew match penalties and will automatically sit out tonight's game in Westminster.

Lowliest Paid Top Producers —For One Day

UPI

Sometimes the guys who are paid the least are the ones who produce the most.

That was precisely the case Wednesday night when John Kennedy of the Washington Senators and Dalton Jones of the Boston Red Sox, a pair of bench-warmers who are working for approximately the $7,000-a-year minimum, both came up with maximum performances.

Kennedy, given a chance at shortstop only because regular Ed Brinkman had slumped to .157, blasted two homers and a single to drive in three runs and pace the Senators to a 10-3 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Jones earned his letter with the Red Sox in similar fashion.

Named to the starting line-up largely because of his pinch three-run double in the ninth inning the night before, the rookie second baseman drove in the tying run with a key seventh inning double and set up the winning one in Boston's 4-3 victory over Los Angeles Angels.

LEE'S LOOK ALIKE

The 22-year-old Kennedy started Washington's 12-hit attack with his first homer of the game in the opening inning off loser Ed Rakow, hit his second circuit in the fifth at the expense of Julio Navarro and then singled home another run during a five-run seventh after homers by Bill Freehan and George Thomas had narrowed the Tigers' deficit to 5-3.

Jones, who beat the Angels, 4-3, on Tuesday night with a pinch double off Don Lee, picked on Bob Lee with the Red Sox trailing 3-2 in the seventh.

He drilled a double with runners on first and second to tie the score and moved Roman Mejias to third, from where Mejias scored the winning run on Ed Bressoud's infield hit.

KILLEBREW BASHES PAIR

Harmon Killebrew crashed a pair of 400-foot homers to power Minnesota Twins to a 7-4 win over New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City A's, 8-3, in the only other American League game scheduled.

Philadelphia Phillies regained first place in the National League with a 7-2 win over San Francisco Giants, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Chicago Cubs, 1-0, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Houston Colts, 4-3, Milwaukee Braves raced up Cincinnati Reds, 7-3, and Los Angeles Dodgers downed New York Mets, 4-1.

Killebrew's 10th and 11th homers of the season plus rookie Tony Oliva's eighth raised the Twins' home run total to 61 in 32 games in their assault of the all-time record of 240 set by the Yankees in 1961.

JACKIE ROBINSON

Fire Casey Suggests Robinson

MOOREHEAD, Minn. (AP)—Jackie Robinson says New York Mets would do well to get rid of manager Casey Stengel.

The former Brooklyn Dodgers star, here to speak to a college group, said Wednesday a manager must be alert on every play of the game "but at 74 or so you're not too alert."

"In my view, one of the problems of the Mets is Casey Stengel."

Robinson, the first Negro to play major league baseball after going to Brooklyn from their International League farm club, the old Montreal Royals, criticized Stengel for statements about his players.

"You can't ridicule your ball players day in and day out," he said.

The manager of the Mets, again in the National League cellar, commented in Los Angeles:

"I'm not concerned with anything he says. Mr. Robinson is not working for me and I'm not working for Mr. Robinson. Whatever he says doesn't disturb me one bit."

Houser Quitting

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Defensive lineman John Houser of the St. Louis Cardinals is retiring from pro football.

Houser has been in the National Football League since 1958 and spent the latter part of last season with the Cardinals, who obtained him from the Dallas Cowboys.

Two Erics Deliver Mail; Uplands Gets Fast Start

Eric Wright and Eric Hibberson fired spectacular shots at Uplands Golf Club Wednesday night to get Uplands away to a flying start in its defence of the Inter-Club Golf League title.

Uplands, which won the Willie Park Driver trophy for the first time last season, downed Victoria Golf Club 6-3.

In the other match as the sixth league season was launched in cold, windy weather, Gorge Vale squeezed out a 5-4 triumph over Colwood on the Gorge course.

Wright, who joined his club team in the third match last year and won all his singles and four-ball contests, added to his perfect record Wednesday by trimming Oak Bay assistant-professional Roy Chappell 5 and 4.

Wright fired four straight birdies to nail down the win and barely missed a short putt as he attempted to make it five in a row on the 17th green.

His fine play made the difference as Wright and Frank Scroggs won their four-ball point although Scroggs dropped a decision to Oak Bay pro Paul Trapp on the final hole.

Hibberson, playing with Bob Hunt clinched a singles win over Bill McColl and put his team ahead with an eagle on the par-four 17th. Past the pin on his tee shot on the 270-yard hole, Hibberson dropped a 35-foot putt for his eagle to beat McColl's birdie.

In the other match at Uplands, Oak Bay veteran George Bigelow used a hot putter to beat Gordie Pellow, 2 and 1, and produce a four-ball win as his partner, Ron MacLeod, lost, one down, to Gary Smith.

KENT UNDER PAR

Youthful Ricky Kent of Colwood highlighted the match at Gorge when he fired a two-under-par 72 to beat Gorge veteran John Carlow, 6 and 5. Kent's partner, George Graham, lost to Gordie Jones, but the Colwood pair took the four-ball point.

Laurie Kerr's win over Bill Wakeham helped the top Colwood pairing of Kerr and George Andrews to two points against Wakeham and Al McLeod.

COLWOOD 4 AT GORGE VALE 5

Laurie Kerr defeated Bill Wakeham, 4 and 3; George Andrews lost to Al McLeod, 3 and 2; Kerr and Andrews won four-ball, 1 up.

Vic Painter lost to Art Donaldson, 2 and 1; Joe Evans lost to Noel Pumfrey, 1 down; Painter and Evans lost four-ball, 4 and 2.

George Graham lost to Gordon Jones, 2 and 1; Ricky Kent defeated John Carlow, 6 and 5; Graham and Kent won four-ball, 4 and 3.

VICTORIA 3 AT UPLANDS 6

Ron McLeod lost to Gary Smith, 1 down; George Bigelow defeated Gordie Pellow, 2 and 1; McLeod and Bigelow won four-ball, 3 and 2.

Paul Trapp defeated Frank Scroggs, 1 up; Roy Chappell lost to Eric Wright, 5 and 4; Trapp and Chappell lost four-ball, 5 and 3.

Bill McColl lost to Eric Hibberson, 3 and 1; Clif Horwood lost to Bob Hunt, 1 down; McColl and Horwood lost four-ball, 2 down.

RACING QUARREL

Clark Could Miss Indy Race in '65

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—World auto racing champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland and all other foreign drivers may be barred from the Indianapolis 500 race next year because of a quarrel between racing organizations.

Clark was second in last year's race and won the pole position for the 1964 Memorial Day classic May 30.

The feud involves the United States Auto Club's suspension of driver Paul Goldsmith.

USAC officials said Wednesday they had been told by the Automobile Competition Committee of the United States that it would not be able to ask sanction for the Indianapolis race from the International Automobile Federation unless Goldsmith is reinstated.

Goldsmith, from St. Clair Shores, Mich., was booted out of the USAC when he competed last year in a Riverside, Calif., race not sanctioned by the national group. Goldsmith later changed his address to Mexico City but failed in a court effort to force the USAC to allow him to enter the Indianapolis race.

WON'T GRANT REQUEST

Thomas Binford, USAC president, said Wednesday he does not intend to grant the ACCUS request.

The squabble could prevent ACCUS and international sanction of the Indianapolis race and all other USAC events next year. Without international approval, such champions as Clark and Jack Brabham of Australia would be unable to enter the Indianapolis race.

The international body is to study the Goldsmith incident at its meeting in Paris next October.

JALOPIES HIGHLIGHT RACE CARD

Dick Miller will lead a field of wild and woolly jalopies into competition at Western Speedway Saturday night.

Miller set a new track record for jalopies during the time trials last weekend and showed he can move his car just as fast when the traffic is heavy by winning the main event.

Five events are scheduled the program, with time trials starting at 7:30.

INTER-HIGH MEET SLATED FRIDAY

Oak Bay Defends Title

Close competition for the Jones Memorial Trophy is expected Friday as the prep track and field set engages in the annual inter-high school competition.

The meet, between Greater Victoria high schools, is slated to start at Victoria High School's cinder track at 1 p.m.

Last year's champion Oak Bay, and perennial rival Victoria High are expected to tee off again in another point-for-point duel for top honors.

Ron Stubbings and Vicki Sargent, senior aggregate winners at Vic High's inter-house meet last week, will be the pair to watch from the host team.

Cassius Has Advice

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — Mohammed Ali, otherwise known as world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay, today said he plans to spend three months in each year in his second home, Ghana.

"It is time for all people of African descent to return home," he said.

Clay added that he would acquire a plot of land to build a house, where he will spend the winter of each year and train Ghanaian boxers.

He said he will not defend his heavyweight title until early next year.

The champion told newsmen that the 22,000,000 negroes in the United States did not command respect because they had no culture of their own, no flag, and they did not know what religion they belonged to."

Clay said that immigration to Africa was the best salvation for negroes in the United States.

Ahearne Flaps Convincingly—Or Did He Now?

By JACK SULLIVAN

OTTAWA (CP)—John Francis (Bunny) Ahearne never learned to skate but he proved Wednesday he knows more about the operations of hockey on an international basis than any man in the business.

The ubiquitous 63-year-old Irishman stepped into the lair of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and tied its delegates in knots with a hard-hitting 30-minute talk that left them speechless and wondering what all the fuss was about. If they want to criticize this bogey man in the future, they had better polish up on their studies.

Bunny came here from England as a man on trial. He was supposed to have deked Canada's hockey team out of a medal in the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, last February, with some fine manipulation of the regulations.

As president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, he was a bum in spades to Canadians who have heard about this controversial figure for years.

NO HANKY-PANKY

But in simple language he told Canadians, specifically delegates to the golden jubilee annual meeting of the CAHA, that they didn't know what they were talking about—that they had better read the book.

The book is the IIHF statutes and bylaws and the fine print showed there was no hanky-panky in Innsbruck, that Canada indeed finished fourth according to the rules.

Secretary - Manager Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., and CAHA President Art Potter of Edmonton took other views—after the meeting.

"I'm glad that the delegates saw him act," said Potter.

"A lot of gas," said Juckes. "And what's the point of trying to argue with him?"

Past-president Robert LeBel of Chambly, Que., said he told CAHA officials when they returned from the Winter Games that Ahearne was correct in placing Canada fourth in the Olympic standing.

A former IIHF official, LeBel said, however, that Ahearne was wrong when he said Canada has made no proposals to the international body since 1947.

CRITICIZES REFEREEING

He reminded the association that its delegates had come up with only one proposed change in the statutes in the last 17 years, and that was one in 1947 to take over the federation. And he rebuked them for their criticisms of him, and of the IIHF over the years.

Potter opened the discussion and had his say — the refereeing at Innsbruck was "lousy" and "as far as I am concerned, our team tied for second place."

But Bunny, waving the rule book, had the final word.

Under the rules Canada finished behind Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia in that order.

He cleared that up here with the declaration: "Read the rules. They've been in the book since 1908 with only minor changes in 1960 and 1963."

He touched on the subject of playing rules, noticed that the CAHA wanted its rules to apply in international hockey, and told the meeting bluntly that "you haven't any."

"You have only National Hockey League rules. And the NHL isn't a member of the IIHF."

Teeing the ball almost as high as possible for the driver enables me to hit slightly on the upswing and catch the ball flush near the top of the clubface.

The result is a high carrying ball which, in my opinion, will cover greater distance than one teed short and hit low.

By contrast, iron shots should be teed low, since the ball must be struck near the bottom of the face with a more descending blow.

EXHIBITION PARK UNDER GUN

Point Grey Should Enjoy Flies and Aroma of Barns

Times News Service

VANCOUVER—Pity poor Exhibition Park!

The east-end Vancouver racetrack is smack-dab in the centre of one of the town's biggest sports controversies in years.

And just about everybody is having his say, including city aldermen, labor leaders, the B.C. Racing Commission and, of course, the B.C. Jockey Club—the park lessee.

TERMS NOT SUITABLE

A spokesman for the Jockey Club said Wednesday the club cannot operate at Exhibition Park if its lease is subjected to city council scrutiny every five years.

Council Tuesday tentatively set the lease terms to include provisions for renegotiating the lease at five-year intervals. It indicated it is willing to give the Pacific National Exhibition a 19-year extension of the lease on the park after the present expiry date of 1975.

The PNE, in turn, would grant a 30-year lease to the Jockey Club which would pay half the cost of a $1,300,000 racing plant and lend the PNE the other half required.

But council said it wanted to review the terms of its lease in 1975 and at five-year intervals thereafter.

"We couldn't go for anything like that," said Jack Diamond, one of two operators of the Jockey Club.

The club could not be certain that future councils might not insert unreasonable restrictions in the lease at review times.

Ken McConnell, commission secretary, said:

"Racing dates for 1965 will be reviewed and finally approved on the basis of what improvements have been made. Lansdowne is available and is considered one of the finest tracks on the continent. There are also feelers in regard to the construction of a racetrack in Burnaby."

VIOLATING ACT?

Vancouver's labor council got in the act Tuesday night. It voted to see whether the Jockey Club is violating the Combines Act by scheduling 80 days of racing at Exhibition Park.

Paddy Neale, secretary of the council, said the club was given 80 days of racing, although the government limits racing to 14 days at any agricultural fair.

"During the Second World War, the Jockey Club was allowed to use racing dates given to other fairs because there was not the gasoline available for the public to attend them all," he added.

Anyway, added delegate Ben Morley, the racing at the east-end park should be moved to the west-end Point Grey district so that the mayor and aldermen "will have to put up with the flies and smell of the horse barns."

WAGE DISPUTE MAY CANCEL RACING MEET

SEATTLE (AP)—A strike of 176 parimutuel clerks may force cancellation of a 64-day horse racing season scheduled to begin May 29 at Longacres race track near here.

The U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service has been asked to aid in resolving the dispute between the Teamsters Union clerks and the Washington Jockey Club, a union spokesman said.

Workers Fall In Extra Frame

A double by Larry Montgomery in the first extra-inning sewed up Greaves Movers' first win in Senior Amateur Baseball League action at Royal Athletic Park Wednesday.

It was their first win of the season after two losses.

Montgomery's hit came with two out in the eighth, after Weatherall got on base with a walk and reached second on a fielder's choice. It was Montgomery's second hit of the night.

Des Moseley, pitching for the winners, struck out nine and gave up only four hits, while Brent Siddons, going all the way for Workers, struck out ten and allowed six hits.

PEARSON TO CAHA:

'Near Time Canada Sends Her Best'

OTTAWA (CP) — Professionalism raised its ugly head Wednesday in deliberations of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Delegates to the governing body of amateur hockey in Canada agreed to begin a four-year push for a national team but only after a sharp debate on whether it was possible to make it "a truly amateur team."

Past - president Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, Ont., advised delegates to "forget about straight amateurism" when it came to recruiting players.

He said Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia had professional teams. It would be impossible for Canada to form a strong national team capable of beating these countries "without bypassing the Olympic oath."

Secretary - Manager Gordon Juckes said the CAHA doesn't intend "for one moment" to pay players just for playing hockey. Some compensation would have to be paid—either in cash or in scholarships—but the association had no intention of creating "hockey bums."

Juckes said the CAHA hoped to build up a strong desire among players to do their best for Canada in international play. Paying big salaries would defeat such an aim.

'SEND BEST ATHLETES'

Prime Minister Pearson said the time may be near when countries should send their best athletes — amateur or professional—to international competitions.

Mr. Pearson told the CAHA's jubilee dinner there is tremendous political pressure on athletes to do well for their countries in international sport.

Mr. Pearson said the distinction between amateurs and professionals is becoming dimmer.

"One of these days we may have to recognize this if we are to get the best men we can to represent their countries."

He said the CAHA faced that problem in setting up a national team to take part in world hockey championships and the Olympics.

The meeting decided to move slowly towards a full-fledged national club. A start would be made by having the 1965 world championship team composed of players from Winnipeg Maroons, 1963-64 Allan Cup champions, and the 1964 Canadian Olympic team.

GRASS HOCKEY

Coast Girls Best Alberta

A representative B.C. women's field hockey team, captained by Gillian Scott-Moncrieff of Victoria and Vancouver, defeated an Alberta select in an exhibition series in Calgary.

B.C. tied Alberta 0-0 in the first game, then went on to blank the prairie squad 3-0 and 4-0.

Grid Coach Dies

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP)—K. V. Sikes, long-time head football coach at East Texas State College and former Texas A. and M. athletic great, died of a heart attack Wednesday. He was 59.

Firefighters In Cup Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Firefighters moved into the final of the Province Cup competition for the provincial soccer championship Wednesday night, edging a surprisingly-strong Westminster Royals team 3-2 in a game played in heavy and muddy condition.

The Firemen will now meet Columbus in the cup final here May 31. The same two clubs will clash this coming Sunday, May 24, in the final of the Pacific Coast League playoffs.

Firefighters had to fight all the way to win Wednesday over the underdog Royals. Jim Blundell gave the Firemen the lead at the six-minute mark, but right-winger Don Wilson tied the score just before halftime.

Bill Cooksley put the Firefighters ahead 2-1 with three minutes gone in the second half, but three minutes later Les Wilson tied the score again and it was not until 15 minutes from the final whistle that Eddie Bak scored the winner.

1060 YATES AT COOK EV 4-1144

It delivers its message in 60 seconds.

In the next day or so, you may learn something new about the taste of rye whisky.

The message takes one minute.

And no more than one taste of a whisky called Time. A gentle whisky. The taste is light, warm, smooth.

You will find you have never known a whisky with a taste like this.

You will find yourself comparing it with the whisky you usually buy. And you may find yourself changing your mind about whiskies.

The whisky in the hourglass bottle does that. The message comes through. Not loud. But clear. 60 seconds. Time enough.

Rival Gangs Battle In 10 London Suburbs

LONDON (AP) — The Mods and Rockers, Britain's rival teen-age cults, battled in main streets of at least 10 London suburbs Wednesday night. More than 50 youngsters were arrested.

Fighting between the Mods and Rockers began during the Easter weekend and erupted in full force at south coast resorts during last weekend's three-day Whitsun holiday.

STAR of Tom Dooley Story, Dean Jones considers role best chance in his career. But he was reluctant to accept it. "How do you portray a saint?" he asked. Dooley was dedicated navy doctor who brought medical aid to Vietnamese.

Dan Campbell Opposed To Forced Metro

Greater Victoria municipalities should aim at charting a new course towards the establishment of joint services, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday.

"I am not in favor of metro or amalgamation or anything which may be termed a forced proposition," said Mr. Campbell, interviewed between sessions at the 25th annual meeting of Municipal Officers' Association in the Empress Hotel.

"It is my feeling that problems which are recognized by the entire area can be isolated and some kind of technical solution found for them."

Mr. Campbell said he will soon hold a conference of all Greater Victoria municipalities and representatives of unorganized territories in the area.

"This move is designed to bring the local authorities fully into the picture," the minister said. "I am just completing a series of informal discussions with heads of local municipalities covering a wide variety of topics.

"These talks have not been limited to sewers. Now I am hoping to move a little further and bring the councils more fully into the discussions."

CAPTAIN NEWMAN, M.D.
Gregory Peck Again
Odeon Theatre

This is Gregory Peck's first major performance since he won the Academy award as the big, shambling lawyer in "To Kill a Mockingbird," and it is a role worthy of his capabilities—a doctor whose sense of vocation is as high as that of the lawyer who defended the negro against race persecution.

The story, adapted from a novel by Leo Rosten, does not have the depth of "Mockingbird" but is an interesting blend of off-beat humor, drama, realism and make-believe.

* * *

Captain Newman is chief of the neuro-psychiatric department of a U.S. army air base in the southwest desert. He is often a thorn in the side of the top brass since, by dedication, he must always be a doctor first and an officer second.

His chief battle is with orthodox military types who are so concerned with keeping the fighting fronts supplied with men that they do not recognize mental illness.

Captain Newman's chief orderly is Tony Curtis (The Great Imposter), who works miracles in psychiatric therapy. Jane Withers is appealing as a motherly nurse and Angie Dickinson, another nurse, wants to be a "mother" to Captain Newman—it's all in the way you split up motherhood from wifehood!

It's fairly certain, too, that a man of Captain Newman's type will be plagued with doubts and Gregory Peck does full justice to the concept of a noble army doctor who is worried because the men he cures are sent out to be killed.

But there is no re-shaping his fate. His mission is to heal and must continue regardless.

MUSCLE BEACH PARTY
Atlas Theatre

Young John Ashley, who took part in our Victoria parade and visited the Queen Alexandra Solarium, is a personable asset to this very lightweight story of love and drama on the beach.

He is one of a number of enthusiasts who take life and the surf as it comes until a party of muscle-men, headed by Paul Lupus, move in on them.

Adults may find some of the situations hard to take, but it's all in good fun and the younger folk will meet kindred souls among the enthusiasts for beaching, partying, necking and riding the waves.

Green Belt Talks Pass First Phase

A civic delegation led by Mayor R. B. Wilson and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan agreed to pursue the subject and designated the Capital Region Planning Board as a liason body.

The board will prepare a detailed brief on the Greater Victoria parks situation as it exists and as it should be developed.

PRINCES WRESTLED

Airline Stewardess Lauded by Kiernan

A Calgary girl was lauded Wednesday by Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan for her work in promoting tourist attractions in B.C. to Americans of the Southwest.

Marlene Blackburn, a Western Airlines stewardess living in Los Angeles, was presented with a trophy by the recreation minister at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel, attended by local businessmen, civic officials, travel agents, Premier Bennett and members of the legislature.

The airline stewardess was one of six girls who travelled through the Southwest on a tour sponsored by Western Airlines.

On tour through California, Nevada and Arizona Miss Blackburn met with various civic clubs and travel agencies to promote tourism in western Canada.

NARCOTIC ADDICTS

The federal health department estimated that there were at least 3,656 narcotic addicts in Canada in 1962.

VOTE O'KANE AND KNOW IN ADVANCE

The 36-year-old restaurateur has paid a $60 filing fee in $2 bills to qualify him to challenge incumbent Thompson J. Hudson in the June 2 election. A third candidate is Harold MacLean, a retired clothing store operator.

"A supervisor's job pays $6,000 a year for practically no work," O'Kane declares in his campaign through the county. "I can't hardly pass up a chance to get a little piece of that action."

NORTH BREEZES

Our Friday luncheon guests dawdle over dessert—but we encourage them. We send two fetching models through our poolside dining room—Hudson's Bay Company models displaying finery suited to the season, beach wear, afternoon wear, evening wear — exclusive items from HBC fashion centre.

Our lady guests chat with them about sizes and materials and designs. Our gentlemen guests spill things all over our fine linen tablecloths.

Our lady guests love it. Our models love it too. Our gentlemen guests don't say much but they come back often and we're so glad we keep putting out clean tablecloths.

Come in and dawdle this Friday. You'll love it too.

DEMANDS SAFEGUARDS

Legion Accepts Hospital Change

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion Wednesday eased its stand against operational transfer of veterans' hospitals to local civilian control, but called for safeguards in the event of changeover.

A resolution approved at the national convention asked the legion be consulted by the veterans affairs department at the outset of any negotiations for transfer.

The department runs the 11 veterans hospitals in Canada. The resolution said the legion and the department should reach "mutual agreement" on any transfer.

At the same time the resolution asked that no transfer be effected until adequate domiciliary care elsewhere is actually in being.

Moreover "if and when any active treatment hospital facilities are shared with civilian authorities, the department of veterans' affairs must control the admission, the care and the discharge of all veterans and provision must be made for their admittance regardless of the pressure of civilian demands."

The resolution was approved in a voice vote by the 1,500 delegates.

BROUGHT PROTESTS

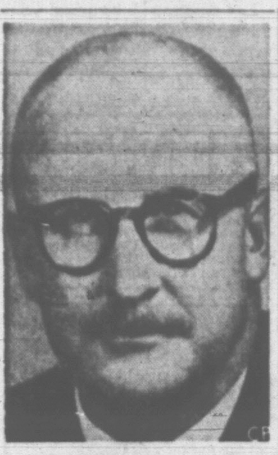
Veterans Minister Roger Teillet first announced federal plans to transfer some hospitals March 16. The disclosure brought strong legion protests against the plan.

At the convention a resolution was proposed to place the legion against any changes, but delegates shelved it in the wake of an explanatory speech by Mr. Teillet Monday.

A special committee formed to consider the question finally went through with only minor brought in the resolution that changes. Nowhere did it say the legion was opposed to the transfer principle.

Dr. C. B. Lumsden, chairman of the special committee, said it considered the fact that veterans hospitals would some day go out of business anyway if there were no more wars.

At the same time if adequate domiciliary care is available elsewhere the veteran might be better off than in a veterans' hospital. Members said veterans' pavilions in civilian hospitals were working satisfactorily.



ECONOMIC GROWTH enjoyed in Canada at present can be maintained for some time "barring an extraordinary national disaster or an excess of human stupidity," H. Roy Crabtree, president of Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said in Montreal Wednesday. Business activity is healthy rather than hectic, he said, and current three-year expansion "has certainly created a justifiable atmosphere of optimism."

ST. ANN'S

Lose Selves In Service, Grads Told

Thirty-seven St. Ann's Academy girls were advised at graduation exercises Sunday to lose themselves in Christian service.

The class and more than 700 guests at the Royal Theatre were addressed by A. J. Cartier, director of adult education for the provincial education department.

"If you are self-seeking toward others, you will lose yourselves in loneliness; if you lose yourselves in kindness to others you will find yourselves among friends," Mr. Cartier said.

Teresa Forslund won three prizes: the Royal Commonwealth Society essay contest certificate of honorable mention, Our Lady's sodality prize for spiritual leadership, and perfect attendance and punctuality prize during 1963-64.

Susan McCooey won the religion prize and the Charles Palmer Davies medal and $200 scholarship from an anonymous donor for honorable mention in the Our Times current affairs scholarship program; Glendar Fraser won the parents' association prize for leadership, and St. Ann's school spirit award; Colleen Campbell won the Readers' Digest subscription prize and St. Ann's school spirit prize.

Leona Pearce won student council recognition for editing the year book and an attendance prize; Gladys Diggon, bursary for highest Canadian history marks; Susan Lingard, Catholic Women's League prize for application.

1,400 Coming For Assembly Of Witnesses

Some 1,400 Jehovah's Witnesses from southern areas of Vancouver Island will hold their spring circuit assembly in S. J. Willis Junior High School in Victoria, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

A two-hour color film, "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World," will be shown Saturday at 7 p.m. It was produced by the Watch Tower Society because, as a spokesman said, "false religion has brought our civilization face to face with the gravest tribulation this world has ever seen."

On Sunday afternoon, Richard Arnett, newly-appointed district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, will address a public meeting on "Facing Up to the Urgency of Our Times.

Ernest Adamson, newly-appointed circuit supervisor, will then address the assembly on "Protecting the New Generation."

All sessions are open to the public, Local church meetings of Jehovah's Witnesses have been cancelled so that all Witnesses can attend the assembly.

CAR PLATES WILL GLOW

QUEBEC (CP) — Gerard Cournoyer, Quebec transport minister, announced following a cabinet meeting Wednesday the province's automobile licence plates will be luminous next year.

HIS WIFE THE FIRST TO DIE

Berserk Gunman Slays Six, Then Suicides

NASSAU (AP)—A man with a shotgun rampaged through Nassau's southern suburbs Wednesday night killing seven persons—including himself—and wounding six in a two-hour automobile foray.

Dozens of police, who had cordoned off a two-square mile area and searched it in vain for the slayer, found Ruben Rolle, 30, dead of shot gun wounds in his home with the big - bore weapon lying nearby.

Police commissioner Nigel Morris said authorities did not establish a motive immediately but "the first person he shot was his wife."

Police said Rolle went berserk, took a friend's automobile and sped through south Nassau, leaving a wake of bodies and terrified telephone callers beseeching police help.

All those slain except Mrs. Rolle were men. The persons taken to hospital all were neighbors and police hoped some would be able to give them an inkling of what touched off the shootings.

The bloody shooting spree indirectly brought about one additional death. Alfred Glinton, a resident who went to the aid of wounded victims, dropped dead apparently from a heart attack induced by excitement.

The first systematic experiments in weather telegraphy and forecasting were started in 1860.

Navy Ends Slowdown, Starts Recruit Drive

HALIFAX (CP) — Lt.-Cmdr. Ben Weber, navy recruiting officer here, said Wednesday night the slow-down in recruiting for the Royal Canadian Navy now is over, and a spring recruiting drive for officer cadets and seamen entries has been launched.

Lt.-Cmdr. Weber said "the purpose of this slow-down was to enable the navy to cut back to a personnel strength of 20,700."

He said the navy now had increased its monthly seamen intake from 130 to 240, the estimated number needed to balance retirements and releases and keep the fleet at full strength.

JOHNSON

LBJ RIDES HIGH

Willing To Stick Neck Out

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson, who will be in the White House six months Friday, is the bounciest president since Theodore Roosevelt and more willing to stick his neck out than any president since H. S. Truman.

He went into the heart of the segregation country — Atlanta— to make a speech on civil rights and was almost mobbed by happy Georgians.

He promised to shut down needless military bases and got surprisingly little bad reaction, although if there's anything a congressman doesn't like it is a base shut down in his district.

He asked business and labor leaders to dinner at the White House—but not at the same time —and asked the former to keep down prices and the latter to keep down wage demands.

He is pushing a health care program and an anti-poverty program. He got Congress to approve a tax cut and hopes to have a man on the moon by 1970.

SEEKS MINIMUM WAGE

He has put women in good government jobs, asked Congress to broaden the minimum wage law and in some cases require double-time pay for overtime, put Stan Musial, a baseball great, in charge of a physical fitness program and cut the budget.

In one spurt he made 30 speeches in two weeks.

With all that said, the next question is: How's he doing? Fine, from all accounts. He's riding so high in popularity polls the Republicans, in this presidential election year, seem to have had some of the steam taken out of them.

Perhaps his greatest achievement—in the sense of working at it personally—was getting the U.S. rail dispute settled.

But his major programs are still hung up in Congress, like civil rights and health care.

SUPPORTS $6 MILLION SCHOOL VOTE

Labor Council to Seek End of College Fees

Victoria Labour Council will call for an end to tuition fees for certain students at B.C. universities, it was decided Wednesday night.

The appeal will be made through the B.C. Federation of Labour.

Education committee spokesman Allan Baylis told the council that the $50 fee increase at Uvic has made it increasingly difficult for students to finance their own higher education through summer and part-time jobs.

"It adds a burden on their families, and tends to exclude the able and capable students of lower income families from attending university," he said.

In calling for an end to fees for students "able to assimilate higher education," Mr. Baylis said the pressure of study is such that the students should be relieved of the problem of financing his education.

Mr. Baylis said the education committee does not agree with the present system of raising money for education in B.C., but recognizes the need for further school facilities.

He moved successfully that the council support a referendum Saturday on the raising of $6 million for expansion in school district 61.

ANNUAL DINNER

Fight Pay Hikes Builders Urged

Victoria builders should resist union demands for higher wages and keep wages at a "reasonable level," says the vice-president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

Victoria doesn't have to follow mainland trends in wage hikes, George Farmer told the annual dinner of the exchange on Wednesday evening in the Empress Hotel.

He said a five-year agreement signed with unions in Vancouver set a precedent, and "coming all in one year, it was quite a drain."

Mr. Farmer said three-year contracts with increases of 12 cents an hour are right for Victoria.

And if a strike does materialize here, the exchange should present a united front against it. "It would be a real test of unity," he said.

Also re-elected by acclamation was George Farmer.

Elected directors were:

Night Court Supported

VANCOUVER (CP) — A city Council committee has recommended that two night traffic courts a week be established on an experimental basis. The recommendation came after a report by two city magistrates about the successful operation of night courts in Toronto and Montreal.

NEW 'CANADIAN FLAG' FLIES OVER VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — The three-maple-leaf flag is already flying over Vancouver.

It was hoisted Wednesday by restaurateur and former alderman Frank Baker over his 22-storey hotel in Vancouver's west end.

He made the flag out of a four-by-eight-foot tablecloth on which was stitched three red maple leaves and a bar of blue at each edge.

Youth Tried in Error In Open Adult Court

Magistrate Wililam Ostler annulled his own Saanich police court judgment Wednesday when he discovered too late the true age of the accused man.

The prisoner had been arraigned in open court on a charge of escaping lawful custody at the Colquitz prison.

He pleaded guilty to the charge, and had four months added to the sentence he was serving for possession of a stolen car.

Then the magistrate discovered the accused was only 17.

"It is a pity this wasn't investigated," he said, transferring the youth to juvenile court and annulling the adult court judgment.

At one time, Wales enjoyed a virtual world monopoly in the manufacture of tin plate, but the industry was hard hit by the 1890 U.S. McKinley tariff.

Arthur Mayse

A while ago I found tucked into the bulky manuscript of a first novel that never saw print, two notices black-lettered on tattered cotton rectangles.

'NO SMOKING IN THESE WOODS,' the top one sternly ordered.

The other warning was equally blunt: 'RENEW THOSE CAULKS BEFORE THEY BREAK YOUR NECK.'

I waste no time yearning for vanished youth . . . one depression in a lifetime is plenty. But, studying those weathered signs, filched from their Menzies Bay stumps, I was for a moment pitchforked back through the years to my first payroll job as a logging company fire patrol.

That's what they called us on the timesheets. To the loggers, we were "those goddam spark-chasers," present in the woods only as a gesture to government regulations, and a fire hazard worse than any we were paid to ride herd on.

This was a harsh judgment, and not fully deserved. As a group, we spark-chasers probably doused at least as many spot-blazes as we started.

We had other duties beside guarding the company felled-and-bucked from the Red Demon. On rainy Sundays, our push set us to work at various useful projects. He had a settled dislike for college boys, and used to raid the pie out of our nosebag lunches while we toiled at whatever wet, miserable and frequently dangerous job he had chosen for our entertainment.

At this distance I think better of him, because he did teach us various useful skills that don't figure in a university curriculum. We hated him joyously and completely then, though, and longed for the day when his foot would be lifted off our necks.

* * *

He had set us to the unglamorous task of digging a communal latrine pit for a new campsite.

We slaved with mattock and spade until we were slithering about on greasy blue hardpan eight feet down, at which point our tyrant strolled over from the neighboring watchman's shack.

"Jeez," he remarked, "that took you long enough!"

Then he ordered us out, and sent the sparky whom he knew was scaredest of dynamite to fetch a case of 60 per cent from the powder-monkey's cache.

The boss descended into our pit by a rickety ladder. We handed down the explosives and watched him rig half-sticks with detonators clinched to fuses of graded lengths. While he nipped each lethal little cap to its fuse with his teeth, one of our band expressed the wish that he'd bite too far back.

He didn't, however, and presently had bedded his dynamite in the hardpan.

"You collitch punks git the hell off amongst the stumps," he bid us, and popped a match on his thumbnail.

* * *

We waited behind a tangle of fir roots, smoking forbidden tailormades smuggled in from Campbell River, a firing offence even in an all-day rain.

He, or rather the ladder, did. Head and shoulders receeded slowly into the trench. We heard a slight thud and a heavy thump, the latter followed by a yell.

One sparky — the kid who had been bawled out a week earlier for cutting his foot with a machete — began softly to whistle.

The ladder-top re-appeared. We heard a frantic scrabbling. Our boss soared over the lip, landed running, and flung himself behind the nearest stump as his charges let go with a thoroughly satisfactory boom.

He limped in to us, dusting pulverized hardpan out of his hair.

We thought about that for a moment. Then someone asked, quietly and bitterly, "Why?"

Car Driver Test No Big Problem To 90-Year-Old

By MARGE GILROY

Still in the driver's seat is an old-time Saanich farmer who will celebrate his 90th birthday, Friday.

John Brooks of 422 Menzies came to British Columbia in 1885 and helped his father clear a 100-acre farm on Stelly's Cross Road. He later cleared another 50-acres and continued to farm there until 1944, when he sold out and bought another farm at Crofton.

Not only was he a pioneer farmer but he was among the first to own and operate a motor car on Vancouver Island.

It was 1912 when he bought a two-year-old Buick for $600, and hired a man, for a dollar a day and board, to teach him how to drive.

Toured Saanich

After three or four days of instruction he got up early one morning and started off in the Buick with a few friends. Together they toured the gravel roads of Saanich.

Everything went well until he returned home and stepped on the gas instead of the brake as he pulled into the garage.

"The thing's blowed up," screamed his mother.

But the thing had not "blowed up" and Mr. Brooks hasn't hit a thing since.

In all his 52 years of driving he has yet to receive a ticket.

Only two weeks ago he had his annual driver's test and he said, "I got nearly 100 per cent."

Music Lessons

In his early days he drove to town in a two-wheeled cart and pony for high school lessons and violin instruction once a week.

He continued his violin lessons with Prof. Ernie Wolf for three years and later joined his 10-piece orchestra. Today Mr. Brooks still enjoys playing one of his three violins and a piano which he keeps close by in his bed-sitting room.

During his farming days in Saanich Mr. Brooks served on the School Board for Ward 6 (Central Saanich), and worked hard to have the first high school built in the area. Having six children of his own he knew at first hand what it cost to send a child to school in Victoria. At that time the fare was 70 cents a day on the old Interurban Railway.

High School Built

Before leaving the School Board he saw Mt. Newton High School constructed.

Mr. Brooks also takes credit for having the West Road paved in 1923, which in turn prompted the Mill Bay ferry to go into service. He served as councillor for Ward 6 from 1918 to 1923.

Teetotaller

Although he doesn't take a drink now he has not always been an abstainer.

"When I was younger I used to stay in the beer parlor as long as anybody, but it was different then, we used to always say the car would run better after a few drinks," said the quiet pipe-smoker as he contemplated what he might buy to entertain his friends at the party, Friday.

RED ENSIGN TOO BRITISH FOR MOST

Students Would Fly Maple Leaf Forever

By JIM BIGSBY

Those Canadians who would have to spend most of their lives under a new maple-leaf flag seem solidly in favor of the idea.

"There should definitely be a new flag with a maple leaf on it. What other symbol of Canada is there" said Darlene Herrington.

"It's about time," said Richard Davidson.

"Too many people still cling to the old idea of the British Empire with the Union Jack as its flag.

"I think that if some of these people were offered a choice they'd actually choose the Union Jack rather than the Red Ensign."

NON-BRITISH

Joan Scythes was also opposed to the inclusion of the Union Jack in a Canadian flag.

"Well over 50% of Canadians aren't of British origin," she said.

When Sue Begg said she was in favor of keeping the Red Ensign, her friends broke out with cries of "Oh no, no!"

"It should be the Red Ensign," said Ellen Chong.

"I don't know much about it. I guess it's just emotion."

Nine students said their parents were for a new flag, two reported opposition and nine didn't know.

Generally speaking, the students tended to hold the same opinion as their parents, with some exceptions.

"My father's a member of the Legion but he's not saying too much. I think he likes the Union Jack but I believe we need a new flag to show our independence," said John Wright.

Debbie Brook said she and her parents were strongly in favor of the new flag, but believe the issue should be put to a referendum.

Eric Braden didn't know his parents' opinion and wasn't decided himself, but said "I'd sure like to see a nice big maple leaf on the cadet flag. It's nothing but a white flag with a Union Jack on the fly."

None of the students, pro or con, realized that the Red Ensign has never been designated as Canada's final flag but was only a stop-gap move.

Unidentified Group Holds Half Block

A city lawyer today informed City Hall that unidentified clients have optioned half a downtown block and propose to erect the city's first real "skyscraper" — a 25-storey building.

D. A. M. Patterson asked Victoria city council for permission to exceed the present six-storey limit for downtown buildings.

Property involves three large lots owned by Woodward Stores Ltd., bounded by Pandora, Blanshard and Cormorant—across the street to the west from the former B.C. Electric Building.

Preliminary designs indicate that the proposed building would somewhat resemble the former BCE building but would be four times as high.

APARTMENTS

It would be a low-rent apartment block of 163 bachelor and one-bedroom suites in a 23-storey glass-and-reinforced concrete tower rising from a broad two-storey base that would house 15 stores on the ground level and 300 cars on the second storey.

This would be the first stage of an overall plan involving subsequent construction of an office block and extension of the two-storey retail and parking decks.

Immediate reactions from civic officials indicated considerable interest but also wariness. The plans will be carefully examined to ensure that the proposed development does not spoil the appearance of the civic precinct and downtown area by dominating it too much.

TESTING STAGE

Indications were that the proposal was not on a completely firm footing and was still in the feasibility-testing stage.

Mr. Patterson declined to identify his clients but there was speculation that they involved a combination of local, out-of-town and British interests. Woodward's Stores Ltd. was understood to be in the picture only as owner of the land being optoined.

Mr. Patterson said there was no target date for starting or completing the project yet and it was not determined what size of office building would be constructed because this would not be built until there was a demand for the space.

NO PRICE TAG

Value of the 25-storey apartment block alone likely would be in the $2,000,000 range. There was no indication of what price tag was attached to the land.

Mr. Patterson's application said the building would have covered pedestrian malls within the ground floor with access to all three streets and the apartment tower's lobby. There would be three elevators, a swimming pool, restaurant and roof garden.

Availability of the pre-assembled and largely undeveloped land in the heart of the city and considerable off-street parking space nearby were obvious reasons for choice of the location.

PERSUADED CLIENTS

But Mr. Patterson also indicated that construction of the civic precinct a few feet away persuaded his clients that "this area is going to grow as the centre of the downtown area."

His application told council that his clients were anxious to plan the development carefully because of its proximity to Centennial Victoria Square.

Army Reunion Will Feature Rum 'Ration'

In all there are about 75 remaining of the original 300 of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery.

To be at the reunion they will come from as far away as Winnipeg, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Vancouver, Penticton and up-Island points.

'THE BRIGADE'

Former judge Joseph B. Clearihue will propose the toast to "The Brigade" and the reply will be by 80-year-old Albert Puttick, of West Vancouver.

Mr. Puttick was the brigade sergeant major and served as a major in the Second World War.

Another veteran who has promised to attend is the brigade's former medical officer, Dr. J. M. Fowler, who is also 80.

Inquest Into Girl's Death Adjourned

An inquest on Della Mae Hoegi, 19-year-old Victoria girl killed in a two-car smash-up last Sunday was adjourned until June 16 today because one of the witnesses is still in hospital.

He is the girl's boy friend, Walter Allison, 22, of 631 Kenneth, who was driving the car in which Miss Hoegi was killed.

Leslie Perry, of the Queen's Own Rifles, Work Point Barracks, the driver of the other car, was due to appear in Saanich police court today.

The Victoria coroner, Edmond J. De St. Jorre, heard evidence of identification from the girl's father, Darrel Hoegi, of 3016 Donald.

Pathologist Dr. R. B. Roxburgh said she died of multiple injuries and haemorrhage.

The inquest was held in McCall's Chapel.

(See also Page 33)

They were made idle when machine operators refused to operate machines powered by "hot steam" from the strike-bound pulp mill.

In a statement issued in Vancouver the company said the machines are used in the manufacture of wood chips.

Anti-Beatle Persuasion Spark for Knife Attack

A man was attacked and cut by a knife-wielding youth as he walked through Pioneer Square just after midnight this morning.

Bill Maynes, 611 Vancouver, told city police he was stopped by two teenagers who asked him his opinion of the Beatles singing group.

When he said he disliked them, the questioners evidently considered the answer unsatisfactory.

Then they fled.

A dog search of the area was frustrated by wind, but police later set up a stake-out acting on telephone information.

It was unsuccessful.

Mr. Maynes described his assailants as about 17 or 19 years old, both of them about 5' 7" tall.

The one with the knife was dressed in a light jacket and dark trousers, and had fair hair.

The other man was about the same height, of medium build, and wearing dark clothing.

Scot's Rumored End Scotched by Ottawa

There is no substance to an MP's warning that the Canadian Scottish Regiment may be disbanded, a spokesman for Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's Ottawa office said Monday.

The warning was issued by George Chatterton, Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich who said he had received "indications" that the regiment may "get the axe."

The federal government is currently studying a plan to cut Canada's militia strength by 20,000 to 25,000 men.

There are 800 militia men and 800 associated cadets on Vancouver Island.

Their commander, Col. Peter Ramsay, head of 25-Militia Group, said Mr. Chatterton's statement could only be speculation.

"I don't know what information he had, but I have certainly received no advance word," he said.

UNDER STUDY

A preliminary report is expected this month, but nothing will probably be done about it until Sept. 1, start of the next training season.

Col. Ramsay said commission members visited Victoria in March for talks with local officers, and gave no hint of cuts here.

Brig. E. G. Eakins, of New Westminster, B.C.'s representative on the commission, is currently holding talks in Vancouver.

The militia group here is made up of about 600 members of the Canadian Scottish, squadrons from the signal corps, armored corps, RCEME, a company of the service corps, an army photo interpretation Z section and the fifth medium battery of artillery.

"Certainly the community would be a poorer place without the militia," said Col. Ramsay.

He cited two recent examples of the usefulness of the local militia: The immediate aid to flood victims in the Albernis by a company of the Canadian Scottish; and the role played by the militia in Monday's Victoria Day parade.

Col. Ramsay said he is anxious to know if there will be any militia cuts, but has no reason to believe there will at the moment.

Lieut.-Col. M. W. E. Allen, commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish said he would be "extremely disappointed" if the regiment was the victim of defence cuts, but he had received no advance indication about it either.

The spokesman for Mr. Hellyer's office said there is no substance in fact to Mr. Chatterton's statement, and it would be improper to suggest any unit will get the axe at this time.

2nd Place Win For Local Boy In World Contest

John Morgan, a grade 10 Victoria High School student, has been awarded a second prize in a world-wide poster contest, sponsored by the Latham Foundation of Oakland, Calif.

Purpose of the foundation is to promote humane education, and the poster submitted by John was designed around a United Nations theme.

All who entered the contest will receive certificates from the foundation and John will receive a $25 award.

Some Seats Yet For Army Show At Work Point

Four hundred reserved seats for a ceremonial parade and feu de joie by First Battalion Queen's Own Rifles at Work Point Barracks Saturday are still available.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will review the parade.

The public will also be admitted to the full dress rehearsal to be held at Work Point Barracks Friday at 2 p.m. when the reviewing officer will be Brig. E. E. Danby, B.C. area commander.

No tickets are required for the rehearsal.

Third Suspect In Court Today

Clarence William Kraft, third man arrested in connection with the April 24 holdup of a Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal, was scheduled to appear in Saanich police court this afternoon.

Ask The Times

A.—No. However, the Hudson's Bay Company is required to pay two Beaver pelts and two Elk heads to the reigning monarch whenever he or she visits the shores of Canada. This arrangement dates back to 1670.

Q.—In an argument re the First World War, I maintained that Mons was taken on Nov. 11, 1918, Armistice Day, but my opponent claimed that it occurred on Nov. 9. Which is correct?—H.W.J.

A.—Elements of the Canadian Corps took, Mons, Belgium, in the early hours of Nov. 11. It has been suggested that the reason for this last minute attack was the fact that Mons was the place where the British army had first met the Germans in 1914.

Aluminum Sets the Pace In Summer Camping Gear

By PENNY SAVER

Fellows! When you go on a weekend camping or fishing trip, does the woman of the house complain about the condition of her pots and pans when you return?

Next time you plan such a trip (or even a family outing) take along a set of cookware and dishes earmarked especially for the occasion.

Sets I'm talking about are priced at $9.95 and are made of light-weight durable aluminum.

Included in set are four cups and plates, a pot for tea or coffee and two stew pots. The lid of the largest pot also converts to be used as a frying pan. All items fit together for easy packing and carrying.

If you'd rather not invest in a complete set, a campstove griddle will protect your ordinary cookware. Griddles can be used over both campfire and stove and are an ideal way to prepare quick outdoor meals.

They are unbreakable, light and easy to pack and clean. Price is $3.98 and they can be used under pots and pans or as an ordinary griddle for frying such things as hamburgers, bacon and eggs or sausages.

Another practical investment is a campstove stand priced at $4.95 and $7.95. These are also made of aluminum. They fold down accordion style for easy packing. Stand is equipped with two units for hanging towels. They are suitable for two or three-burner stoves.

For further information on where to find these items, call 382-3131 and ask for Penny.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Fabulous Saris and Furs

By Nona Damaske

Damaske

"Fashions International", the sparkling trade fair show is creating quite a stir in Vancouver. The Garden Building in the PNE grounds, which seats 2,000 people rings with applause each night as Winifred Mather, co-ordinator and commentator, takes the audience around the world.

One of the most colorful scenes is the sari sequence when three velvet-eyed East Indian beauties demonstrate the various ways a sari may be draped. Brilliant yellow, green and purple saris trimmed with gold and silver embroidery are worn by Judy and Lucidea Poran and Mindy Blin.

The Fur Sequence introduces the "total look." Six models, each in a differently styled mink garment from the Canadian Fur Association, wear dresses, hats, shoes and gloves in the same warm maple shade but each in a different design.

Maddest corner of the whole building is backstage where Reg of PHILLIPP rules. This talented hair stylist is taking care of coiffures for 16 models and how he has managed this far to maintain his sanity is a mystery. He remains completely unruffled and sends each model on stage with every hair in place.

As a change from world fashions I went to a smorgasbord luncheon show in the Beau Geste Room at the Ramada Inn, featuring summer wear from local Vancouver stores. With me was Mrs. W. H. Yardley, formerly of Victoria.

Folks in fashion are really thinking pink in Vancouver at this moment. There were a number of pink outfits in the strolling show and the shop windows are full of pink, pink, pink.

My fellow models in the Fashion International are determined that I see a few of the interesting sights while I am in the city.

One night, after the show, they took me to the Wilde Boar, one of Vancouver's coffee houses. It was crowded and so smoky I never did really see the decor but I did see a somewhat different aspect of current fashion. The beautiful girl folk singer sitting on top of the piano, was wearing a man's heavy knit red cardigan sweater, a very short tight grey skirt and intricately woven long black stockings. Many of the girls in the coffee house were in solid black skirts and turtle neck sweaters with their long straight hair completely covering one side of their pale, unsmiling faces. Palest of pink lipstick seems to be the only make-up worn.

I could understand why they would be pale if they spent much time in the murky atmosphere of the coffee houses.

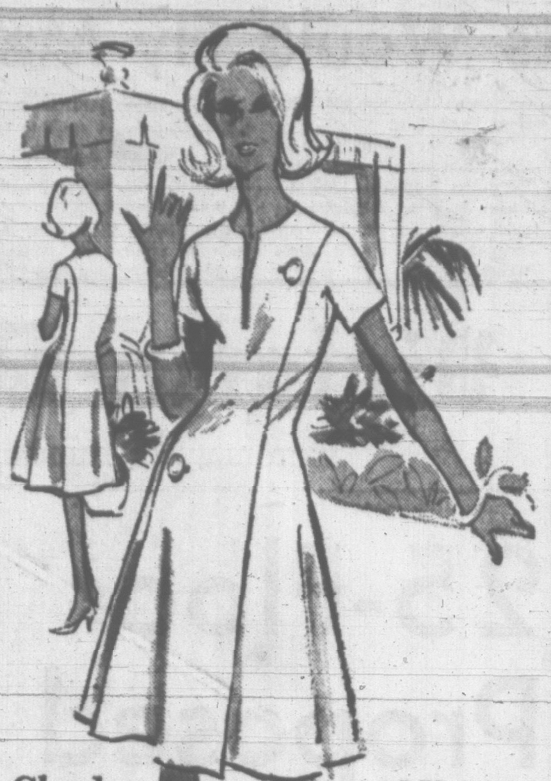
SPADEA DESIGNER PATTERN



Charles Montaigne NS-316

Charles Montaigne, the Paris designer, feels there's nothing more comfortable and pretty to wear in the summer than a not-too-tight "Princess" dress. Here he deeply slashes the neckline just low enough and sets the pockets with button detail in the princess seams of the left bodice and right skirt. The panel seams of the skirt open into deep pleats in front. The raglan type sleeves are gussetted for good fit, and the zipper is placed on the left side. To really feel smart, yet crisp and cool this summer, make this dress in linen, novelty cottons, pique, plain or printed rayons and silks, shantung, faille or raw silk. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	*Length

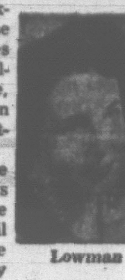
WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hands Stiff This Morning? They Need Exercising Too!



Lowman

We take our hands for granted because they are always with us. We never lose them like we do a pair of gloves, for which we should be thankful. Do you lose as many gloves as I do? I usually only lose one, which is even more frustrating.

Because we take our hands for granted, we sometimes fail to give them the attention they deserve. Any woman who is interested in good grooming is careful about regular manicures, whether she gives herself one or has it done by a professional. She also uses a hand lotion once a day—several times is better.

Exercises for the hands can be extremely helpful in several ways. Many women and men find that their fingers are a little stiff upon awakening in the morning. This usually happens around middle age. The following exercises will give your fingers more flexibility if you have had this experience and will make your hands and their movements more graceful even if you haven't.

1. Clench your fists. Then extend and stretch your fingers backward as far as you can. Clench and extend. Do not do this exercise rapidly, but SLOWLY. Take time for the stretch and pull back with the fingers.

2. Raise your right hand up in front of you. Touch your little finger to your thumb and raise the little finger. Touch the next finger and so on until all fingers have touched your thumb. Make each finger a separate movement. After a while, do the same thing with the left hand and fingers.

3. Hold your hands up in front of you. Spread the fingers of each hand as widely apart as you can. Bring them together. Continue, spreading and bringing together.

If you would like to have my exercises for the hands send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 12 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Costume Design Described

Effect—with the least amount of expense—was the maxim presented by guest speaker Mrs. Carl Hare when she explained the art of costume design for the amateur stage, at annual dinner meeting of the University Women's Club of Victoria.

Gathering, in the cafeteria at the Gordon Head campus of University of Victoria, was held Wednesday evening.

Chicken wire, foam rubber, remnants of materials, kitchen utensils, bits of jewelry, and even washing machine lids, all had a place in creating an effect of authenticity, Mrs. Hare explained.

Color plays a big part in creating costumes that will blend and tone, not only with each other but with the ideas of the set designer.

MUSIC, SONG

Neville Haddock, member of the University of Victoria Faculty, played Elizabethan piano selections and Erica Kurth sang Elizabethan songs. They also acted as models for Mrs. Hare. The speaker was introduced by Miss Maimie Simpson and the trio was thanked by Mrs. E. M. Taylor. Program was arranged by Mrs. J. W. McCammon.

Mrs. J. L. Andrews presided. A special guest was Mrs. Rupert Neil, Vancouver, provincial director of the Canadian Federation of University Women. She replied to the federation toast proposed by Mrs. Olga Bowes.

Toast to the Alma Maters was given by Mrs. J. A. Henderson; grace was said by Mrs. M. Stewart and vote of thanks to the retiring executive given by Mrs. J. F. Brunton.

Officers for the 1964-65 term are Mrs. Andrews, president; Mrs. R. A. Fraser, first vice-president; Mrs. McCammon, second; Mrs. J. F. Muir, recording secretary; Mrs. P. H. Thomas, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. W. Hobbs, treasurer; Miss M. Lowe, federation representative; Mrs. D. M. Cox, study groups; Mrs. A. H. Cameron, publicity, and Mrs. F. M. P. Warren, social.

Reports showed the club now has a membership of 248 with 58 universities represented. There are five associate and six honorary members.

High Commissioner's Wife 'Bones Up' Before Coming Here

Lady Margaret Lintott, wife of Britain's new high commissioner to Canada, has come to the Pacific Coast — and to Victoria — well prepared to answer questions about her country.

After eight years in France, while her husband served with the organization for European Economic Co-operation and seven years as a busy housewife and mother in London, she was suddenly faced with the move to Canada.

She has said on several occasions since her arrival in Ottawa, late last year: "I found that I had to re-learn a great deal about my own country before I made that move."

Never one to let her knowledge get rusty—not too long ago she was doing spare-time historical research on Talleyrand, the 19th century French statesman — Lady Lintott decided to accompany her husband on one of his final visits to Britain's industrial areas.

When she arrived in Ottawa, she told reporters: "I wanted to see things that might interest Canadian women, such as hospitals, housing developments and new social welfare installations."

She was particularly interested in a new prison for women where the inmates live in small communities of 16, each group to its own house. Two do housecleaning and two cook meals while the rest go to work in the various industries run by the prison.

"It was encouraging to learn how small the number of female criminals is in Britain and also to see the excellent organization of the prison," she said.

"The prisoners had to learn to live together and develop personal relationships. This forced them to come out of their shells and helped rehabilitate them."

Lady Lintott also visited the Jamaican communities on London's fringe to see the welfare work going on there and found "most of the people seem to be adjusting fairly well to life in Britain now."

A hospital caring for babies deformed by the drug thalidomide and homes for mentally retarded children were also on her crowded itinerary.

SPEAKS FRENCH

The trip was doubly satisfying to the 45-year-old Lady Lintott who has long been interested in welfare work and continues to have an almost insatiable thirst for knowledge of all kinds.

A graduate of London University with an honors degree in history, Lady Lintott who, like her husband, is bilingual, had to drop her research on Talleyrand when she came to Canada because the material she needs is not available here.

However, she now hopes to turn her attention to another "fascinating study"—the history of Canada.

During these first months in Canada she has been helping her children to become accustomed to their new schools and in putting her home in order.

Both the children—John, 13, and Harriet, nine—were keen to come to Canada and Harriet especially has enjoyed the winter, as she loves to skate.

As for Earnscliffe, the home of the British high commissioner in Ottawa, Lady Lintott is gradually making changes to suit her own taste. She feels strongly about having "lots of books around the place."

A number of family portraits by Sir Henry's father, Henry Lintott, a member of the Royal Scottish Academy, have been hung in honored places on the walls.

Both Sir Henry and Lady Lintott are fond of the theatre and in the months since they came to Canada, they have attended productions of the Ottawa Little Theatre when time permitted.

They both admire Canadian comedian Dave Broadfoot whom they saw in the London production of "Clap Hands."

Sir Henry and Lady Lintott arrived at Government House late this afternoon, where they will be guests during their visit here. Here with them is Miss Marion Ward, a friend of Lady Lintott, who is visiting from England at present. She is also a guest at Government House.

This evening His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes are giving a dinner in honor of the distinguished visitors.

Friday evening, the High Commissioner and Lady Lintott will be guests of Vancouver Island branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society at its annual dinner in Victoria Golf Club.

On Saturday afternoon they will attend the ceremonial parade of firing the Feu-de-Joie by the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, at Work Point Barracks, with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes.

Saturday evening they will accompany the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes to a ball at Work Point Barracks, given by the Queen's Own Rifles.

WINS AWARD

Miss Judy Mauro is one of 37 British Columbian teenagers who has received an "award of merit" for entries in a Young Canada Bake-Off contest. Announcement was made in Montreal this week. The Victoria winner is 16 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mauro, 864 Selkirk Avenue. Her winning recipe was for a favorite cake. Contest also included completion of a four-part questionnaire on general baking knowledge. Other Vancouver Island winners were the Misses Valerie and Linda Weismiller, both of Duncan; Miss Mary Crowe, Ladysmith, and Miss Mary Lou Mould, Campbell River.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, 3279 Anchorage Avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Deanna, to Mr. William James Langford, only son of Mrs. John Herbert Langford and the late Mr. Langford. The marriage will take place in St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Anglican Church, Obed Avenue, on Saturday, June 6, at 7:30 p.m., with Rev. B. A. J. Cowan officiating.

Serves for 50 Years

Fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Lady Minto Hospital at Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was celebrated last Friday when the women's auxiliary sponsored a hospital day and tea.

Guests were received at the hospital entrance by the auxiliary president, Mrs. Douglas Cavaye, also the chairman of the hospital board, Mrs. G. A. Scott, Pender Island, and the matron, Miss Catherine Ferguson.

After signing the guest book, which was in charge of Mrs. E. Richardson, visitors were taken on a tour of the hospital by members of the staff.

Tea, convened by Mrs. Finn Lepsoe, was served in the board room where an arrangement of golden flowers — roses, tulips, calendula and alyssum—centred the head tea table. Mrs. Warren Hastings, Miss Emily Smith, Mrs. Edward Parsons and Mrs. Scot Clarke presided.

A special anniversary cake, decorated with gold roses and lettering, was cut by auxiliary charter and life members, Mrs. W. M. Mouat and Miss Mary Lees.

Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crofton of Victoria; Mrs. Percy Lowther, charter member now living in Duncan; guests from Galiano and Pender Islands and other out-of-town guests. Donations to the hospital auxiliary funds amounted to more than $200.

Party for Women Graduates

Women graduates of the class of 1964, University of Victoria, will be honor guests at a coffee party, arranged by the University Women's Club of Victoria, in the Mayfair Drive home of the president, Mrs. J. L. Andrews, on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Presiding at the refreshment table will be Miss Maimie Simpson, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Mrs. W. H. Hickman and Mrs. Phoebe Noble. Party is convened by Mrs. R. N. Samson and recent graduates' group of the club. Invited to attend are Olivia Barr, Eva Bligh, Sandra Came, Joanna Curtis, Paula Day, Patricia Donald, Victoria Drader, Diana Dron, Marjorie Franklin, Julia-Anne Gibson, Valerie Hall, Wendy Hocking, Margaret Hooper, Marjorie Howell, Eileen Jacobsen, Sharon Kirk, Iris Shannon, Pearl Maas, Julia McDiarmid, Judith MacKay, Gillian Pearson, Margaret Ritchie, Sarah Rose, Lorraine Saunders, Sandra Shaw, Judith Taylor, Jacqueline Thurston, Helen Davey, Maida Dunkley, Linda Krebs, Muriel McIvor, Patricia Marshall, Beverley Ranniger, Marilyn Wilson and Janet Rodgers.

Dinner Tonight

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, RCN, and Mrs. Landymore will entertain at a dinner in Admiral's House this evening in honor of Rear-Admiral L. W. Murray, RCN (Rtd.) and Mrs. Murray, instead of Friday evening as previously announced. The Murrays are here on a short visit from their home in England.

Summer In Germany

Miss Judith Brown, 2096 Falkland Place, will leave Vancouver this evening by train for Montreal where she will spend five days before boarding a chartered flight for Germany. Miss Brown is one of 148 students from universities across Canada chosen to work in Germany during June and July. Before returning home in September, the students will spend a month touring Europe.

Journey's End

Mrs. R. D. Hall has returned to her home on Epworth Street after an extended journey that took her to Nova Scotia, England, Africa, Spain, Switzerland and France. In Africa the traveller was the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall at Johannesburg, and was present for the graduation of her granddaughter, Norma, from Johannesburg University. While she was there, the family group spent a month motoring to various places of interest in South Africa.

Pensioners Make $240 For Hall

A sum of $240 for the new Government Street hall was raised when members of the auxiliary to the Old Age Pensioners' Association, No. 1, provided luncheon for pensioners following the parade last Monday. The meal was served in the hall. Mrs. E. Cownden was convener. Association president, R. H. French, thanked those who had worked on the luncheon. The first vice-president, Mrs. G. Sherwood, was in charge of door receipts. Pianist was Mrs. E. Hawkins. Carving turkey and ham were Messrs. C. White, H. Inman, A. Cownden, S. Westwater and R. Vermiere. Andy Campbell served tea and coffee.

ARE FACE CREAMS OVER-RATED?

Sometimes no, sometimes yes! A cream with fancy price, fancy package, plus extravagant promises of a "miracle," is obviously over-rating itself. There are no easy "miracles" in skin care — but you can get results with regular use of a cream that offers consistent quality and honest, pure ingredients. POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM, for instance. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, is made specifically to repair dry, aging skin. Allantoin (long known to doctors as a tissue-builder) floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin into thirsty tissues. Used regularly, POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM keeps skin smooth, soft, young-looking. Get POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM today. Reasonably priced, buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

A new soup made from two Campbell's Soups

Mix two Campbell's Soups together with regular amounts of water or milk — to create a new soup all your own.

For example, mix Campbell's Vegetable Soup with Campbell's Tomato Soup. Get a soup that's hearty, nourishing: rich in vegetables—16 of them. With the sweet, tangy flavour of the Campbell Tomato.

Or try mixing Campbell's Chicken Noodle Soup and Campbell's Vegetable. A combination children love: tender chunks of chicken — both white and dark meat. Juicy, fat noodles. And, of course, 16 wholesome vegetables.

There are so many good Campbell's soupmates. Why not experiment? Choose two Campbell's Soups to create a new soup all your own.

A delicious way to surprise your family.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Don't Be Petty!

By ABIGAIL VAN BURtN

DEAR ABBY: Who is supposed to give the corsage on Mother's Day? The husband or the children? I married a widow, and on the first Mother's Day after our marriage I sent her a lovely corsage. Her son sent her one, too. (This happens to be the first thing this son of hers ever gave her besides trouble.) Well, she must have thought more of her son's corsage than she did of mine because she wore HIS, and left mine home in the ice box. I was very hurt although I didn't say anything, but the next year on Mother's Day I didn't send her a corsage and neither did her son. She was sulking all week. Do you blame me for not sending her a corsage after what happened to mine last year?

HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Posies on Mother's Day mean less than understanding and love the other 364 days of the year.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years old and am in love with a married man who is 33. He married very young and has one child. I have been in love with him for six years and seven months. When I met him he told me that his marriage was all washed up, so I had nothing to do with his miserable situation at home. He says as soon as his little boy is able to take care of himself he will get a divorce and marry me. His son is in the second grade now. I get awfully tired of waiting, Abby, and I'm not sure I could ever love another man. Can you give me some good advice?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: Yes, lose him. The chances you're taking aren't worth the chance you have of marrying this man. And if you CAN love a man other than another woman's husband, you had better find it out — while you're still in the 20's.

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of naming children unusual names: I once heard of a woman who named her three daughters, PEARL, SAPPHIRE and ONYX. The first had a skin as smooth and white as a pearl. The second had eyes that shone like two blue sapphires. And the third was "onyx-pected."

CARL ON BASSOON ST.

DEAR CARL: Thank you for your contribution to my collection of unusual names. Where were YOU when vaudeville died?

DEAR ABBY: In November of 1958 I wrote asking your advice about my husband, who cheated on me, beat me up and refused to take the responsibilities of a husband and father. At the time I had only one child. Today I have five and I am kicking myself because I didn't take your advice. You said, "Don't take him back until he has proved that he can stay away from other women, treat you with respect and hold a job." Well, each time I took him back I got pregnant. He continued to cheat on me and slap me around, pregnant or not. He also lost one job after another. How I wished I had listened to you. Print my letter to let other women know what can happen when they take a man back before he improves.

MONTREAL REPORT

Mail Robbers' Identity Known

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette says Montreal detectives now know the identities of the seven men who staged a daring downtown mail truck robbery here March 30, and arrests are expected soon.

The newspaper quotes a post office department spokesman in Ottawa as saying the bandits got away with a total of $1,337,575 in cash and negotiable bonds.

Part of the loot, cached in safety deposit boxes in Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa shortly after the holdup, has already been recovered by post office authorities, The Gazette says.

Warrants had been issued for the seven men, all Montrealers, who carried out the precision raid at about 7:30 p.m.

"They've discovered that $10,000 of the loot was earmarked for one of our employees. We also have reason to believe the money was paid to him less than a week after the robbery."

The newspaper story says police got their first break in the case when marked $10 bills began turning up in the Montreal area.

12-Mile Limit Debate Calm

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The proposed 12-mile fishing zone, a hot issue in the 1962 and 1963 election campaigns on the East and West Coasts, was discussed in the Commons Wednesday in cool, almost non-partisan tones.

External Affairs Minister Martin opened the debate by praising the former Conservative government for its "most strenuous efforts" to enlist support abroad for the 12-mile zone.

J. Angus MacLean, former Conservative fisheries minister, responded with general support for the objectives of a government bill giving the cabinet authority to extend the fishing limit to 12 miles from three.

They were the only two speakers as debate began on the bill's second reading, approval in principle.

New Democrats have attacked the bill outside the House for giving the cabinet too much discretion in drawing the baselines from headland to headland. The existing limit is three miles from the shoreline, with no account taken of bays and inlets.

Today, the Commons, considers an interim supply bill to pay the government's routine expenses in June. Next on the order of business is a measure to extend the charters of nine commercial banks for a year from July 1 and the fishing limit bill.

BLOCK APPROVAL

The banking legislation was given first reading Wednesday but second reading was blocked by Creditiste and Social Credit MPs who are pressing the government to apply Social Credit monetary theories.

The House gave final approval to budget changes in the Income Tax Act over the opposition of Gilles Gregoire, Creditiste financial critic. He again accused income tax inspectors of persecuting Quebec taxpayers who claim deductions for charitable donations to the Roman Catholic Church.

Mr. Martin said the government has been accused of both moving too fast and too slowly on the territorial and fishing limits. Some critics opposed unilateral action while others wanted the key baselines inserted in the bill.

Canada was forced to resort to unilateral action, he said, because intensive discussions with other countries dating back to 1956 had not produced a treaty or agreement on universal limits.

The baselines could not be proclaimed immediately, on the other hand, because this would harm current negotiations with the United States and several European countries with historic fishing rights off the East Coast.

He reiterated his hope that the baselines will be proclaimed for some sections of the coasts before the end of 1964. Historic fishing rights likely would be phased out gradually but the treaty rights of the United States and France would not be touched.

WOULD LIMIT U.S.

The negotiations with the U.S. had been based in a general way on a 1963 brief from the Fisheries Council of Canada. This would close to foreign fishermen the following bodies of water: Gulf of St. Lawrence, Bay of Fundy, Strait of Belle Isle on the East Coast and Queen Charlotte Sound, Hecate Strait and Dixon Entrance on on the West Coast.

Mr. MacLean (PC—Queens) said the former Conservative government was accused unfairly in the last two election campaigns of sitting on its hands. The Liberals had promised immediate action to extend the limits, but everything depended on long, hard negotiations with other countries.

The government had exaggerated the importance of its enabling legislation. "It is trying to make a shadow look like substance," he said.

The former minister warned that other countries likely will fight the validity of the bill in court unless complete agreement is reached in current negotiations.

The U.S. still held firmly to the traditional three-mile fishing limit and might boycott Canadian fish exports if arbitrary action was taken, he said.

NEW!

Today across Western Canada, a new refinement in the cherished enjoyment of good coffee begins – with Boban. The supreme flavor and higher cost of new Boban Coffee are explained by a single fact: Boban is the only blend of pure Colombian Coffees ever offered in Canada. Colombian Coffees are the finest in all the world, hand grown and harvested on the steep slopes of the Andes Mountains, where the rich earth and mild year 'round temperatures create a paradise for coffee. Infinite care makes Boban possible. First the grower must plant tiny seedlings by hand and tend these constantly until their fifth year, when the plump red berries containing coffee beans appear. Harvesting at just the right time is essential. But the berries do not ripen all at once, so each tree is hand-picked several times. The crop is incredibly small: a good tree yields enough berries for little more than one pound of coffee each year. But what superb coffee!

A little more expensive . . . but worth it!

Experts judge the quality of many coffee brands by the amount of Colombian in the blend. Pure Colombian Coffee is a rarity. And Boban is a gourmet blend of 100% Colombian Coffees; brought to you fresh in vacuum sealed tins. You can't imagine how good it tastes. So try it today.

We Miss Collectors Of Useless Things

Say, whatever happened to the Collectors of Useless Things among us?

You know who I mean, the fellows or girls whose eyes light up at the sight of a torn bus stub from Amsterdam, a 1941 car licence plate, a matchbook cover from Cairo or a lock of Bob Goulet's hair?

I remember hearing about a fellow whose own family wondered about him because he collected old cash registers. The last I heard was that he was suddenly offered $1,000 for the collection—and turned it down.

That's the kind of dedication I mean.

Do girls still keep corsages between the pages of thick books until they turn mouldy and fall apart (the corsages, not the girls); do fellows still fill family closets with rocks that fill the house with the smell of the outdoors?

Often Gain Value

The crazy part about offbeat collections is that they often become valuable later. Who else has a set of menus representing the last 50 years? Even if you only have the footprints of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, some other nut will want to buy them.

I've listed below some of the more common collections that may give you ideas for the summer. Or perhaps you've a private collection we should hear about.

1. Autographs. These fall into two categories: (a) autographs of friends, or (b) autographs of celebrities. Did you think about filing away the signatures of this year's classmates?

2. Canadiana. If you're travelling this summer, watch for inexpensive but old reminders of our past—lamps, glass, milking stools, old telephones, even old nails. They're all rapidly becoming more valuable.

Easiest to Collect

3. Experiences or impressions. These are easier to collect but hardest to recollect. The best aid is a diary. But also tuck away menus, letters, travel folders or other reminders of good times.

4. Butterflies and moths. A minimum of inexpensive equipment can launch you in this fascinating hobby that inevitably leads into other areas of biology. Your science teacher can supply ideas for the summer.

5. Records or sheet music. Just try buying some records or sheet music issued even 10 years ago and you'll realize why it's wise to carefully file away what you're enjoying today.

6. Books. Browsing in bookshops is a habit that will repay you all your life. A tip for summer browsers: books on any part of Canada's history will inevitably increase in value as our Centennial approaches.

Collected Stamps

7. Coins or stamps. Listen to a fellow who chats knowledgeably about unknown corners of the world and you can safely bet he collected stamps sometime during his life.

8. Leaves or wild flowers. I've promised myself for years that I'd wax interesting leaves or flowers that summer. Perhaps you'll succeed in my place this summer.

9. Someone once remarked that anyone is the product of what he or she has experienced and where he or she has been. Don't be shy about sticking in a drawer anything you want to remember.

10. Some people enjoy collecting the "free samples" they read about in advertisements. This can be a dangerous hobby unless you read all the fine print.

Let us know if you have a personal collection you'd like to add to the list.

Male Cooks

Hats off to 15-year-old Pauline McCardle of Kinkora, P. E. I., who won Canada's national bake-off championship last week with her cherry winks recipe.

But I've got a question: are there no fellows to uphold male honor in this kitchen contest? It is a well-known fact that fellows are superior cooks when they roll up their sleeves.

I've only baked two pies in my life, but I took second prize with one of them (the first) in a school contest. And I'm sure any of my buddies could have done the same thing.

Maybe that's why they didn't come near me for a week.

TIDES RISE HIGH

The tides at Inchon on the central west coast of South Korea are the second highest in the world, exceeded only by those of the Bay of Fundy in eastern Canada.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—To our fascinating megalatropolis, there'll soon be added a kooky new street scene . . . Jack Lemmon, Terry-Thomas and the Italian sexpot Virna Lisi on a terrace overhanging 52nd St. and 6th Av., filming part of a movie called, "How to Murder Your Wife."

So if you're around mid-Manhattan and look up at a terrace and think you're seeing Jack Lemmon there with a blonde beauty, it could be!

"That's what I like about New York . . . everybody running every place . . . so frenetic, gorgeous Miss Lisi just told me.

"Rome is too relaxed . . . so many siestas. When a pretty girl goes down the street there, the men put two fingers to their lips and wheestle. But in New York, the men are rushing so, they keep their eyes straight ahead and not even look!"

Lemmon arrived here full of sleep from LA just in time to attend a big party Georgia Brown gave at the Rainbow Grill saluting the Dudley Moore group opening there. I asked him what he and Miss Lisi'll be doing up on that terrace. He candidly answered:

Sounds like an interesting little summer ahead.

The Folies Bergere French beauties rehearsed in the lobby of the Broadway the other day! Walter Wager says "they're dedicated to the proposition that all girls aren't created equal" . . . A famous playwright fired his headshrinker claiming he was "interfering with my private life."

How to Write for Newspapers: At the tremendous testimonial for N.Y. Times circulation chief Nat Goldstein, observing his 40th year on the job, the toastmaster, Patrick Reynolds, quoted Times managing editor, Turner Catledge's instructions to staffers . . . "Write the story so even I can understand it, or like you're writing a letter to your dumb brother."

President Johnson, having survived a heart attack for 10 years, and with the best medical care in the world, could well live a normal life span—around 75 or even more. So says Dr. Menard M. Gertler, author of "You Can Predict Your Heart Attack and Prevent it." Constantly asked whether the President isn't going at too fast a pace, Dr. Gertler says, "He's watching himself."

* * *

To understand its dramatic comeback, 20th Century-Fox is running a $100,000 one-week junket for 132 people to Europe June 7-14. They'll visit Munich ("The Sound of Music"), Pisa ("The Agony and the Ecstasy") and London ("Magnificent Man in Their Flying Machines").

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Sammy Davis Jr. introduced Sidney Poitier and Harry Belafonte from the Copa audience and said, "I was supposed to have Sidney's role in 'Lilies of the Field'—but how would I explain to my rabbi about being with all those nuns?" . . . Millionaire Huntington Hartford visited the Fair's Transportation and Travel Pavilion—and had to borrow 50c to buy a souvenir . . .

A playwright-producer's wife was almost bounced from a local cafe for shouting during the show (while her husband sat there sighing sadly) . . . Manhattan cafe and restaurant owners, who say the fair has ruined business, think things will be better in June, July and August when vacationers flock into town (they hope). . . . Juliet Prowse rolled the dice as a favor to friends at the Las Vegas Flamingo and hit nine straight numbers.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Rockefeller booster said kiddingly at the Goldwater rally here, "Barry hates to take a long sea voyage — he's afraid he'll sail over the edge."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: That rumor about a dog being man's best friend was probably started by a hungry dog. — Harold Coffin.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Being positive is the act of being mistaken at the top of one's voice."—Ambrose Bierce.

EARL'S PEARLS: There is often a difference between good sound reason and reasons that sound good.

Jazz star Eddie Condon, recovering from surgery, says, "I don't know what they use to put you out in the operating room, but whatever it is, I'm taking a fifth of it home." . . . That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jim Marik, age 11, of St. Louis, Mo., for his question:

Do Stars Really Move?

Night after night throughout the year the stars march over our heavens in an orderly parade. In 100 or even in 1,000 years unchanging constellations appear with the seasons. But 100,000 years from now most of them will be unrecognizable to us, and even the stars of the Big Dipper will have moved out of their familiar positions.

Our planet is a giant observatory, spinning around to give us first one, then another view of the starry heavens. Each year it also orbits the sun. In June, our view of the star-studded heavens is from a point in space 186 million miles away from the one we had in January. The daily and yearly motions of the earth cause us to see the heavenly bodies rising and setting and show us a string of constellations with the changing seasons.

But this merely is the apparent motion of the stars, the paths they appear to take as seen from our rotating, revolving earth. However, the individual stars really do move. Many of them are racing through the heavens at fantastic speeds of around 1.5 million miles an hour. They are moving independently of each other, and the constellations are not zooming along in neat formation.

Yet, in a lifetime or a dozen lifetimes, human eyes could detect few if any changes in the familiar pattern of our skies. This is because the individual stars are separated by immense oceans of space, and the changes must be tremendous before we notice any difference in their positions.

Stars Move In Lanes

Our sun, the 6,000 stars visible from our globe, plus 100 billion other stars, belong in a vast, pinwheeling system called the galaxy. All these stars are revolving around the centre of the galaxy in different traffic lanes at different speeds. Stars in the fast lanes overtake and pass those in the slower lanes.

When the stars in a constellation are in different traffic lanes, they gradually change positions in relation to each other. The star at the lip of the Big Dipper and the star at the end of the handle are moving in one direction, the other five stars are moving in the opposite direction. In 100,000 years, our Big Dipper will be pulled out of its present shape.

The true motion of a star is measured by displacement, its changed position in relation to other stars. The record for displacement is held by a dim speck called Barnard's Star. In 90 years, it moves across its star-studded background a distance equal to half the width of the full moon. This is more than 30 times greater than the displacement of most of the stars in our skies.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Sandra Wilson, age 13, of Graham, N.C., for her question:

How far does radio travel in a second?

You receive a program on your radio set at almost the same time that it is being broadcast from the station. If there is a time lag, it is no more than an infinitesimal fraction of a fraction of a second. The difference is so slight that for all practical purposes the broadcast and the received program happen simultaneously.

However, radio waves do travel at a certain speed, and over vast distances of outer space this travel time adds up to minutes, days and years. They travel at the speed of light, which is about 186,000 miles a second. If radio beams could travel in curves, they could whip around the world's equator about 7½ times in a single second.

'Arab' Paulin Re-Elected Jaycee Sheik

Although there was no opposition this year, Mr. Paulin entered the annual meeting in grand style—dressed as an Arab sheik sitting on a litter, supported by four faithful henchmen.

And even more important to the rest of the meeting, he brought with him four harem girls, dressed appropriately in scanty harem-type costumes.

After the dancing came Mr. Paulin's presidential speech.

He said: "As new president I will try to ensure that all the community projects we have carried out in the past will be continued and we'll aim at providing the maximum community services we can muster."

During the meeting the branch decided to send a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson supporting his efforts to create a distinctive Canadian flag.

Other officers elected are: Larry Cross, Terry Farmer and Ray Farmer, vice-presidents; John McArthur, secretary; Reg Owens, exhibition director, and commission chairmen Terry Nex, Brent Ewing, Terry Daniels, Ray Cleugh, Bret Belfie, Garry Allen, Joe Richards, Peter Rowat and Bert Tipton.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends who gave their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved brother, and uncle, James Wallace Loudon. Special thanks to Rev. Dr. S. Parsons and the gentlemen who acted as pallbearers.—The Loudon Family.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband, father, grandfather, and brother, Louie George. We especially thank the Rev. Father W. J. O'Brien.—Mrs. Agnes George and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DIROM — In loving memory of my dear friend Isabella Dirom, who passed on May 21, 1960.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past;
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
—Ever remembered by Mary.

DIROM — In loving memory of Isabella Dirom, who passed away May 21, 1960.

Her smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
She had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
—Always remembered by her daughters Marguerite and Kathleen and families.

HAWKINS — In loving memory of my beloved husband, Milton Hawkins, who passed away May 21, 1963.

Love held you captive, love made you mine,
Love in its bondage our hearts did entwine,
Love forged a link that time cannot sever,
Love fettered your fate, with mine forever.
—Fondly remembered by his loving wife, Betty.

BRIDGE LESSON

♦ A 8 3 2
♣ K Q

Both vulnerable
See article for bidding and opening lead.

When South Africa held the North-South cards in a match against England, South did open two spades. North responded two no-trump. South raised him to three and East made the inspired lead of a low heart. Down two.

Strangely enough South Africa gained on the hand. The British South opened an artificial two clubs and North responded with an artificial two diamonds. Then they staggered into six diamonds and worked out a play for down three.

Unless South is using an artificial two club opening, he should open with either a very conservative two no-trump or a slightly optimistic three no-trump.

North might decide to raise three no-trump and South might get to six no-trump if he continued to overbid.

Playing at no-trump, South would have 12 easy tricks against a club or spade lead and the only defence that will positively beat six is so unusual that I doubt if anyone will find it.

West has to open the ace of clubs and then shift to the nine of diamonds. Once he gets off to that start, all he has to do is discard correctly in back of South.

VERTICAL TAKE-OFF - Part 3

THE HELICOPTER, MOVING A LARGE MASS OF AIR SLOWLY DOWNWARD WITH ITS ROTOR, NOW HAS MANY USEFUL APPLICATIONS — FROM ERECTING TRANSMISSION TOWERS AND STRINGING CABLES...
...TO RIDING HERD ON CATTLE RANCHES—ONE HELICOPTER DOING THE WORK OF TWENTY COWBOYS.
ONE OF THE LARGEST TYPES OF HELICOPTER IS THE "SKYCRANE," WHICH CARRIES 10 TONS OF CARGO OR 55 PASSENGERS IN A REMOVABLE "VAN" SLUNG BENEATH IT.
BUT THE HELICOPTER HAS ONE DRAWBACK — IT LIFTS WELL BUT FLIES FORWARD MUCH LESS EFFICIENTLY. IN FACT, IT IS ONLY HALF THE ANSWER TO THE IDEAL VTOL AIRCRAFT.

HAY FEVER PROBLEMS?
Electrohome Springaire with the built-in Carbon Filter and the Permachem Filter gives you fresh, clean, odor-free air all the year round . . . economically and efficiently. The Springaire is light enough to carry and provides fresh air where it's needed, whether it's in the kitchen, bathroom, smoke-filled living room during parties or just to filter out dust, lint and pollen before it can smudge up your home or aggravate allergies. The chores of dusting and wall washing can be reduced. Springaire filters out even the finest dust that settles on furniture, soils draperies, covers mirrors, windows and crystal. ONLY $39.95. Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

Pay television will make its debut in the California cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco July 1 but storm clouds are gathering on the horizon.

Citizens' groups, movie theatre owners and the U.S. National Association of Broadcasters are in the fight already with the federal government, the major television networks and television executives on the sidelines. The main skirmish now is over a new company called Subscription Television Incorporated, which is headed by the former president of NBC, Sylvester (Pat) Weaver. He claims he will turn pay-TV from a novelty into a paying business.

Many viewers take the attitude that why should they pay for something they now see for nothing. Pay-TV backers reply the answer is quality—that they will offer the best of sports events, first-run films, Broadway plays—all uninterrupted by commercials.

The major networks argue that successful pay-TV would buy the best of the talent from free television, making the public pay for what it used to see for nothing. However, NBC and CBS agree that one thing is certain . . . if pay television proves to be an overwhelming competitive force they will join it.

The fight starts July 1 when Subscription Television plans to bring three channels of closed circuit pay-TV baseball to subscribers in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Pay television hasn't proved itself by a long shot. Other pay television operations in Chicago (1951), in Palm Springs, Calif., in 1953, and Bartlesville, Okla., in 1957 didn't last. Two pay-television stations operate today. One, in Toronto, began in 1961 with 5,000 subscribers and now has 3,500; the other, in Hartford, Conn., began in 1962 with 300 customers and today has 5,000.

International Telemeter Corporation, which operate's Toronto's pay telivision station, says the public will pay . . . but only if the attraction is outstanding.

Toronto's most successful pay television program was a live Broadway show two years ago—about 40 per cent of the subscribers at $1.50 a set. In Hartford it was the recent Clay-Liston heavyweight championship fight, watched by 86 per cent of the subscribers at $3 a set.

Weaver describes previous Pay-TV operations as experiments. He says the California operation, formed with a capital of $25,000,000, is a business. California's programs will be transmitted by wire, as in Toronto. But unlike Toronto, where coin boxes are used, the California outfit will place a monitor on each customer's set. The monitor will relay information to a computer centre on the pay programs watched and the computers will figure the monthly bill.

The entire future of commercial television could be at stake in the battle which is shaping up in U.S.

Cannerymen's Wage Dispute Before Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—A three-man conciliation board has been appointed in a contract dispute involving nearly 3,500 shoreworkers in the B.C. fishing industry.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) asked for conciliation after meeting five times with the B.C. Fisheries Association.

The union seeks a 10-cent-an-hour increase for women working fresh fish plants now getting $1.65 to $2 an hour.

It also wants 20 cents an hour more for female cannery workers, currently earning $1.56 to $1.92 hourly, and a 10 per cent boost for all male shoreworkers, now on a basic hourly wage ranging from $1.92 to $2.50.

The union also asked for conciliation in a dispute over 1964 wages and working conditions of about 650 tendermen, covered by a separate agreement with the association.

Named to the conciliation board are chairman B. W. Dysart of Victoria, union nominee Ben Swankey of Vancouver, and association representative D. K. MacRae of Vancouver.

Phone Drive Supports School Vote

About 140 groups of people in Greater Victoria are keeping telephone lines hot this week in a pre-referendum campaign to get out the school vote Saturday.

Groups of people have been given lists of parents to telephone, to urge a good turnout when School District 61's $6.8 million expansion bylaw goes to the ratepayers.

The bylaw will provide for some 170 classrooms in the district over the next three years, helping to meet the 1,000-a-year increased school enrolment.

Soviet Trawlers Off Calif. Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two Soviet trawlers are cruising off the San Francisco coast but the navy says it has them under surveillance.

The vessels were sighted Wednesday near the Farallon Islands, 26 miles west of San Francisco.

A navy spokesman said the craft have been tracked since May 10 when they were first seen near San Clements Island off Southern California.

Heavy Damage From Windstorm In Nelson Area

NELSON (CP) — Damage estimated in the thousands was caused Wednesday night when a severe windstorm slashed through the valley.

The wind churned through Kootenay Lake, smashing boathouses and sinking many boats. Trees were toppled and streets were littered with branches. One hangar of the Nelson Flying Club was wrecked although damage to the aircraft inside was not extensive.

Municipal Woes Grow In All Sizes

The problems of smaller municipalities, like the village municipality of Sidney, are as important as those of the larger municipalities, Saanich clerk Gordon Hayward told the Municipal Officers' Association of British Columbia Wednesday.

Mr. Hayward, who is vice-president of the association, said it was founded 25 years ago with the object of bettering municipal administration and exchanging mutual problems between municipalities of all sizes.

The association has met in Victoria ever since, and some 150 municipal officers from all areas of the province are attending the current two-day conference in the Empress Hotel.

They were welcomed in the morning by Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoira, municipal affairs minister Dan Campbell and deputy municipal affairs minister J. E. Brown.

Speaking on public administration, Thomas J. Plunkett, public administration consultant in Montreal, said:

"For municipal administration to be effective, there must be a relationship of mutual respect between the municipal council and the municipal officer. This cannot be achieved by legislative edict. But it can be developed."

2 Youths Freed, 2 Found Guilty Of Store Theft

Two of four youths charged with breaking into a food market were acquitted in Saanich court Wednesday, and the others will be sentenced next week.

James Erdman, 3835 Saul; Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan; William Gale, 2795 Murray; and James MacGregor, 100 Cadillac, were charged in connection with an April 17 incident at Gibson's Food Market, on the Pat Bay Highway.

Hunt and Gale were acquitted. Erdman and McGregor will be sentenced next week after probation reports are prepared.

The magistrate also said the crown had not proved Gale's participation in the breakin. Gale said he was drunk, and had stayed in the car.

McGregor confessed to breaking in, but later said he had stolen nothing — "not convincing," said the magistrate.

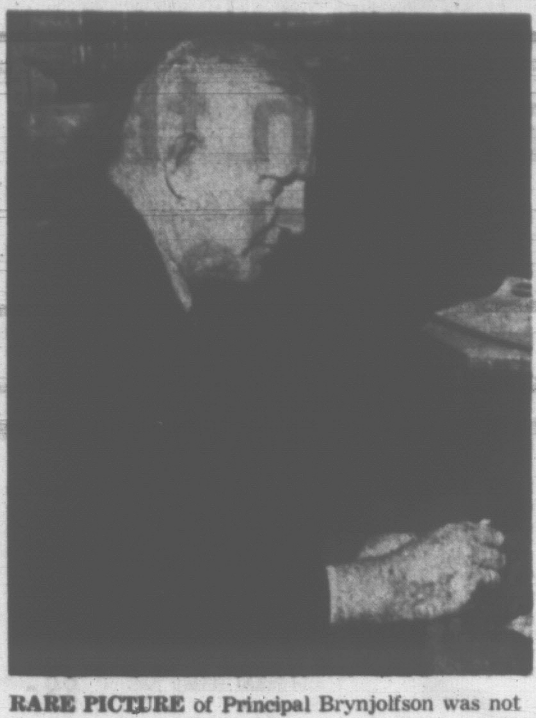
SHY PRINCIPAL FORCED INTO LIMELIGHT

Monterey School Marks 50th Birthday in June



RARE PICTURE of Principal Brynjolfson was not easily obtained. He has worked at staying out of the limelight during long career, claiming this "keeps me out of trouble."

By AB KENT

For 50 years the halls of Monterey have known the tread of Wally Brynjolfson — schoolboy, teacher and principal.

In two weeks, when the school celebrates its half-century June 5, whether he likes it or not—and he won't—Wally will be a central figure.

It will be as much a salute to Walter C. Brynjolfson as the golden anniversary of mere bricks and mortar.

He is only the second full-time principal the school has had; its history is intertwined with his own story, reluctant as he is to tell it.

But more than 1,500 pupils who have passed through his hands will remember him as one of the kindest, sternest, most understanding schoolmasters they ever knew.

He runs into them everywhere—close to home, as in North Vancouver, and far afield, in Ottawa and Minneapolis.

ALL INVITED

All who can come are invited back to the reunion, starting with school sports at 1 p.m. in Windsor Park. At 7 there will be a display of Highland and folk dancing by girls in the auditorium.

For the antiquarians there will be a display of photographs collected and tucked away over the years. A spokesman representing each of the school's five decades will say a few words on behalf of his era.

Ex-pupils and staff will have the run of the building, visiting their old classrooms, renewing old acquaintances, then gathering for coffee and a piece of the huge birthday cake that will be prepared.

It is safe to say no one will find the place as familiar as Wally Brynjolfson. He was there as a boy on the day in January, 1914, when pupils first occupied its classrooms, as he was on opening day, March 2.

He cherishes an ancient, creased and dust-grimed card formally engraved with the invitation to attend the board of Oak Bay school trustees' ceremony for the "opening cf the New School, Monterey Avenue," by Minister of Education, Dr. Henry Esson Young.

WELL BUILT

"They built schools in those days to last hundreds of years," Mr. Brynjolfson remarked, noting the solid masonry, concrete and hardwood put into the original eight rooms designed by Elwood Watkins, Victoria architect.

"You can see his design in several schools. The old Normal School (now University of Victoria Young building) is one," the principal said.

There were two rooms to spare then, two more than regulations permit a school board to plan ahead now.

Within 15 years an auditorium was added, then with the post-war baby boom, three wooden annexes lodged in the schoolyard under the red brick walls. Last year a new six-room wing after the fashion of the original building was added on to accommodate today's 531 pupils.

There were nearly 200 enrolled in the first classes, including such names as Walter, Tom, Bert and Victor Gravlin, and Bill, Freeman and Annie Norman. They had started at the First Oak Bay schools, on Foul Bay Road and Oak Bay Avenue.

WAR YEARS

Monterey took them in mid-winter of the 1913-14 term. When the First World War came along in August, Wally Brynjolfson, himself too young, recalls some boys going to war "practically from the grade eight clasroom."

He said in those days many of the boys were 17, 18 and 19 years old in grade eight. One who joined was Sid Andros. "Poor Sid never came back," Wally said. There were many others killed, as honor rolls of both world wars show.

After his own graduation, Wally went into teaching and was assigned to Monterey under the original principal, Capt. F. G. Dexter, in 1922.

From 1929-33 he was sent to Willows School, then was made first assistant teacher at Monterey, becoming principal when Capt. Dexter died in 1945.

He credits other teachers for their long devotion to Monterey—Miss I. Cathcart, one of the original staff; Elsie Creeden and Miss A. B. Cooke, who taught grade one. "She practically gave her life to the school."

ATHLETICS

Partly because of its compact size, Monterey has "always been in the forefront in athletics . . . and sportsmanship," said the principal, ignoring the fact that he was himself a leading athlete, a tall, blond footballer who played for Oak Bay Wanderers.

He coached the same team, the the Victoria Crimson Tide, Brentwood College and University School teams. Monterey often won at soccer, too.

His interest never slackened, but participation tapered off to allow him to study nights and in summer for his arts and teaching degrees.

And they still talk about Feb. 18, 1925, when Wally Brynjolfson, for Victoria Reps, drop-kicked a 35-yard field goal before 10,000 spectators in Willows Park to become the first Canadian to score against New Zealand All-Blacks.

STRIKE PARLEY GETS NOWHERE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Deputy Labor Minister William Sands failed Wednesday in an attempt to bring about a settlement of the strike which shut down the big MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited pulp mill at Port Alberni two days ago.

The deputy minister met with representatives of the company and the Office Employees' International Union, representing 70 striking office workers. However, he said following the meeting that no progress toward settlement of the dispute was made.

The office workers went on strike Tuesday after the company refused to meet demands for an average $75 a month increase in their wages which now range between $200 and $450. The mill was forced to close when 1,000 other workers at the plant refused to cross the office workers' picket lines.

NO SOLUTION

"We explored every avenue, but there wasn't any solution to the wage problem at this time," said Mr. Sands. No further meetings are scheduled.

A company spokesman said that the union "while yielding on one or two minor points . . . did not alter its basic position and remained adamant in its unrealistic demands."

He said the company was prepared to meet with labor department officials or the union at any time, but "we have gone as far as we can in seeking a settlement and the onus for initiating and continuing the strike must rest solely on the union."

The employees previously rejected a conciliation board recommendation for a five per cent wage boost. Prior to the strike, the company had given employees monthly increases ranging from $25 to $60 and in addition deposited retroactive pay to Feb. 1 in employees' bank accounts.

A union spokesman branded the company move unethical and a "flagrant attempt to bribe" the workers.

Holberg Airmen Will Show Base

HOLBERG—A tour of the RCAF radar base, firefighting demonstrations and movies will be included in activities scheduled for open house at the Vancouver Island station, June 6.

Motor vessels Nimpkish and Knot will leave Coal Harbor at 9:15 on the day of the celebrations and transport passengers 25 miles up the Holberg Inlet to the station.

A bus shuttle service will also operate from the Holberg dock to the base for those coming by private plane or boat.

Mennonites Repair Gang At Alberni

ALBERNI — A carpenter, a house-mover and a university student are hard at work restoring the flood-hit Alberni Valley search and rescue squad headquarters and the Second Arrowsmith Scout Hall.

The trio represent the Mennonite Disaster Service which operates throughout America, as well as in many foregin countries.

The disaster service had its beginnings in the U.S. in 1952 and now has a Canadian office in Waterloo, Ont.

Shortly after the tidal wave disaster the Mennonite group offered to send men when and where needed. The men work without pay, giving up regular employment to help in the emergency.

GERMANS HONOR CANADIAN REGT.

BONN (UPI) — The Royal Canadian Regiment has been granted the freedom of the city of Soest, a walled community in Wesphalia which has never before allowed a foreign armed force in its streets, it was announced today.

On Sunday, the 1st Battalion of the regiment — with flags flying, bayonets fixed and drums beating — will parade through the city's main gate and along the streets lined with timbered and gabled houses built during the Middle Ages.

Air Board Sits At Campbell R.

CAMPBELL RIVER—The Air Transport Board which has been holding hearings all over the province moves to Campbell River Friday.

The board will hear and consider a number of proposals for changes in air services, routes, and requests for licences in several classes affecting this area.

Open to the public, hearings will be held in the Council Room at the Village Hall starting at 10 a.m. Friday. Board is expected to adjourn for the weekend and resume hearings on Monday.

Local airline firms to appear before the board include B.C. Airlines, Island Airlines and Trans-Mountain Air Services.

Olympics Get Arab Boycott

CAIRO (AP) — Thirteen Arab countries voted today to boycott the Olympic Games in Tokyo unless the International Olympic Committee permits Indonesia to participate.

The vote was unanimous. The league also urged all African, Asian, South American and "other friendly nations" to refuse to compete in the Olympics if Indonesia is not admitted.

The Olympic committee has barred Indonesia because it refused to let Israel take part in the Asian games in Jakarta

Voters Reject Stadium Dream

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The dream of $25,000,000 covered sports pavilion did not appeal to the majority of Multnomah County voters, who have rejected the measure by a 5-4 margin.

The stadium, which would have been a year-round facility for football, baseball, track and field, conventions and industry shows, was seen by its backers as a lure for major league sports.

Art Show at Sidney Planned for Weekend

Saanich Peninsula Art Centre will hold its 11th annual exhibition in the Sanscha Hall, Sidney, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 5:30 p.m.

It will be opened by Colin Graham at 2 p.m.

On display will be paintings by members and well-known guest artists. All entries from the school art competition of 11 schools in the Saanich area will be on view.

Donald Harvey will judge these entries and David Anderson will introduce Mrs. C. Thomas, who will then present the C. Thomas award.

There will be demonstrations of sculpture, pottery, rug-making, wood-carving and leather work, as well as Batik by Cliff Robinson.

Mrs. M. Metrakes will do quick portrait sketches.

4-H Field Day At Saanichton

DUNCAN — The annual field day of the 4-H clubs in the South Malahat 4-H council region, will be held Saturday at Saanichton exhibition grounds.

Classes to be judged include: beef, dairy, sheep, goats, poultry, home arts and garden.

Assisting at the annual meet will be district agriculturist Ken Jameson, of Duncan.

A gold watch, donated by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce will be presented to the grand aggregate winner, and during the field day, competitors will be chosen to participate in the PNE 4-H judging competition.

Blast Kills Two

WINNIPEG (CP)—A delayed dynamite blast in a gravel pit killed two men and injured a third on the northeastern outskirts of greater Winnipeg Wednesday. Police said Leslie Andrews, 63, of nearby Bird's Hill, and Jake Fleming, 39, of Winnipeg died of suffocation when they were buried by the blast.

Top-Level Try To Avoid Tie-Up

A new bid to avert a loggers strike was to be made today.

Provincial government conciliator E. P. Fisher has come up with a formula aimed at settling the six-week-old dispute between the forest industry and the International Woodworkers of America.

Mr. Fisher's proposals were to be given to union and management officials at a meeting in Vancouver this afternoon.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, who will attend the meeting, said it will be "some time" before the proposals are made public.

DELAY RELEASE

"The report will be released after the two parties have had time to give it full consideration," he said.

He said he is hopeful the new proposals will lead to a settlement.

The IWA wanted a basic wage increase of 40 cents an hour for its 25,000 members, with an additional 30 cents for tradesmen.

Two Seek To Be Cowichan Chief After Election

DUNCAN—Chief Michael Underwood and Ross Modeste of the Cowichan Band were nominated as chief candidates Wednesday night.

Sixty-five members of the Band attended the nomination meeting. Abel Joe acted as chairman. Election will take place Wednesday.

A total of 11 Band members will be elected to the position of councillors and will hold office for a two-year term.

William Thorne and Mrs. Rose Williams have been appointed deputy electoral officers. They will be assisted by L. W. Larsen, assistant superintendent of the local Indian agency.

MONDAY CLOSURE RULE OKAYED BY MERCHANTS

DUNCAN—A total of 63 retail merchants in the downtown area and the shopping plaza on Trunk Road will observe Monday as the official closing day in Duncan, following the recent signing of a petition.

Some stores had previously closed Thursday afternoons, but merchants decided on the Monday closing to enable store operations and staff to have a two-day weekend.

Monday closing will take effect on May 25, and will continue on a trial basis until December.

Row Over Flag Could Scuttle Columbia Plan

A federal election this year could wreck the Columbia River power plan, B.C. Resources Minister Ray Williston said today.

He said he is worried that the Canadian flag controversy will make Parliament "forget about our river."

The external affairs committee this weekend is due to wind up hearings on the Columbia treaty and an agreement to finance the three-dam project by selling downstream benefit power to the U.S.

But before this can happen, the parliamentary committee has to make a report and the House of Commons has to pass legislation ratifying the treaty and agreement.

U.S. WAITING

The U.S. is waiting for this assurance before raising the $274,000,000 it will pay for the downstream benefits.

Mr. Williston said B.C. has sent deputy water comptroller Gordon Kidd, a Columbia expert, to Ottawa for the committee's final hearings.

"But if this flag issue boils up in the House before they ratify the treaty it will be a real tragedy for us," he said.

SHOWDOWN

Mr. Williston said a real showdown for the minority Liberal goverment could force an election and the dealline would pass.

Meanwhile Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative MP George Chatterton said he will urge his party to oppose the flag and continue to press for a national referendum on the issue.

Paint Brushes At the Ready For Onslaught

Paint brushes are sprouting in the downtown area now that warmer weather has arrived.

City Hall officials Wednesday listed five buildings that have been redecorated along "tourist row" and six more that are ready to start as a result of the civic paint-up program.

In addition six stores outside of the tourist area have been re-painted in color schemes suggested by the city and plans for another seven have been completed.

Buildings involved in the "facelift" operation so far range from the Eaton's carpark to small one-man shops.

"Response to the Downtown Victoria Paint-Up Plan from building owners and tenants generally has been most satisfactory," said Rod Clack, chief of the special projects office, in a report.

NEW EFFORT

But he said a concerted effort to persuade hold-outs to join the co-operative scheme and also to extend the program to include improvement of signs and awnings is needed.

Among "charter members" of the paint-up group are these buildings that have completed redecoration: Montague Bridgman, Victoria Gift House, Miller Building, Worldwide Arts and Crafts, The Sweater Shop, Victoria Box and Paper, Thunderbird Motel, Hourigan's Carpets, London Fish and Chips, ABC Electric and Home Furniture.

Tender calls have been made for painting the Weiler Building, D. Wagg architect's offices, Windsor Hotel, B.C. Land Building, Tartan Shop and Canadian Imperial bank of Commerce.

In addition, paint-up plans have been prepared for buildings outside the immediate tourist area: Scott and Peden, Moore Printing, Eaton's Carpark, Spencer's Stores, Sprott-Shaw Building, Arrow Furniture and Northwestern Creamery.

1,000 Ready To Revise 'Maple Leaf'

TORONTO (CP) — A contest worth at least $1,000 to the winner to provide new lyrics for The Maple Leaf Forever has drawn 1,000 entries from three continents, George Salverson, office manager of the Canadian Author's Association, sponsors of the contest, said Wednesday.

"They are mostly from North America but there are some from South America and Europe," Mr. Salverson said.

Entries will be received until Monday afternoon and the winner will probably be announced at the association's annual convention in Halifax June 22-26.

Idea for the contest came from Gordon V. Thompson, president of a Toronto music publishing firm, who said he felt existing lyrics, which include a reference to the British defeating the French in battle on the Plains of Abraham, aroused antagonism in Quebec.

Mr. Thompson had planned to donate a $1,000 prize but later decided to make the money an advance on royalties.

LIQUID NITROGEN TRAIN WRECKED, CATCHES FIRE

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—At least one crew member was killed and four others were injured early today when 17 cars of a Pennsylvania freight train carrying inflammatory liquid nitrogen were derailed near this Washington suburb and caught fire.

Although a tank car carrying the liquid nitrogen ruptured, a team of some 75 to 100 men from 15 fire companies brought the fire under control some two hours after it started.

TRADE TALKS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA—The late President Kennedy's grand design for a trans-Atlantic trading community was already dead before its author's assassination. President de Gaulle had killed it by vetoing Britain's admission to the European Common Market.

Hutchison

But if the design is no longer as grand as Mr. Kennedy had once hoped, it still represents the boldest attempt ever made to reduce the world's commercial barriers and nourish its prosperity. And no nation is more concerned than Canada with the outcome because its economic system depends primarily on international trade.

After a period of pessimism, which followed the De Gaulle veto, the American government believes now that the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations, opening next autumn, will accomplish tremendous results—provided that one obstacle can be surmounted.

Everything will turn from the beginning on the Common Market's willingness to import American and Canadian foodstuffs, chiefly cereals, without crippling tariff or other restrictions. If France can impose those restrictions on its five partners, as he imposed his veto on Britain, then the Kennedy Round will be doomed to failure.

Must Bargain

In Washington this disaster is not anticipated. The Common Market's stake in the world market, especially the huge American market, is so important that it will be compelled to bargain on foodstuffs as well as manufactured goods. The results of failures are so unthinkable, economically and politically, that in the crunch the Common Market cannot risk them.

Such is the American government's assessment, but it does not underestimate the difficulties ahead or the time needed to solve them. Some 18 months or two years of negotiation will be required before a bargain can be struck.

Certainly it will not come close to President Kennedy's target—a general tariff reduction of 50 per cent—but if it achieves even half that original objective it will drastically change the world's economic climate for the better.

Apart from its doubts about the intentions of the Common Market, the American government is deeply disturbed by the unknown policy of Canada. For in the complicated poker game now under way Canada holds high cards out of all proportion to its population and power.

Biggest Customer

Not only is Canada one of the world's leading exporters and importers, it is the United States' largest single customer and supplier. Without an abundant Canadian market many American industries would be impoverished. Without abundant Canadian supplies the American economy would languish. The same facts are true in reverse for Canada.

Since the business of the two neighboring nations is totally interdependent, neither can frame any tariff policy without considering its effects on the other. While the United States has framed a policy of broad tariff reduction, with Canada's position in mind, it does not know the Canadian policy because there is none, except in the vaguest sort of generalities and even they are contradictory.

There can be no policy until the Pearson government faces one of the hardest decisions in Canada's political history. Technically the decision must be complex when 62 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade swap tariff concessions on thousands of different products — a nightmare of negotiation. Basically, however, the decision is quite simple.

Does Canada intend to expose its industries, many of them highly protected and competitively soft, to the cold winds of international competition? Is it prepared to damage the prospects of some industries for the over-all gains of the national economy? Is the Pearson government ready to accept the political risks of this harsh surgery?

Pearson Committed

In theory Mr. Pearson is personally committed, and has been committed for the last dozen years, to a far-reaching tariff reduction, regardless of economic inconvenience and political risk.

He was the first international statesman to propose a free-trade area of the North Atlantic region. He bitterly condemned the Diefenbaker government for refusing to consider Britain's offer of free trade to Canada. He strongly supported Britain's entry into the Common Market as the first step in the grand design.

There was n oquestion about his attitude in his days of oppo-

Turkish-Cypriots Blamed for Death

NICOSIA (AP)—Turkish-Cypriots were blamed today for the first fatality in the UN peace force on Cyprus.

UN headquarters announced a Finnish radio operator, Juhanu Matikainen, 27, was killed Wednesday night in a two-hour battle between Turkish - Cypriots and Finnish patrols.

A UN statement said Matikainen was hit by three bullets while sitting in his patrol car in fields near the Turkish village of Kanli, six miles northwest of Nicosia.

The car had accompanied a recovery team to aid another Finnish vehicle that broke down while providing an escort for farmers bringing in their harvest.

Turkish positions fired about 20 shots at the Finnish vehicle, the UN statement said. Lt.-Col. U. Kettinen, commander of the Finnish battalion, hurried to the area with a platoon and two armored personnel carriers in response to a radio plea for help.

Matikainen was struck once in the head and twice in the chest. The firing stopped after he was hit.

EXPRESSES REGRET

Umit Suleyman, a representative of Turkish-Cypriot Leader Fazil Kuchuk, expressed "deep regret" at the incident. He said he would conduct a full investigation and report to the UN force.

The Finnish soldier's death came after Kuchuk expressed shock that President Makarios, a Greek Orthodox archbishop, was unable to trace 35 to 45 Turkish - Cypriots reported abducted since shooting incidents in the port of Famagusta 10 days ago.

Choice Known 'in a Few Days'

Pearson Coy About Flag

Cabinet Agrees On New Design

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today the design of a proposed new Canadian flag will be revealed in a "few days."

Questions about proposed flag were fired at the prime minister at the beginning of the question period when Mr. Pearson told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that his government would "shortly submit to Parliament" a resolution with all the details.

The resolution would be introduced in "a few days," Mr. Pearson told Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac—Temiscamingue).

Mr. Pearson's vague reply in the House came as a surprise, for he had earlier told reporters that he would describe the new flag in general terms if asked about it when the Commons met this afternoon.

Mr. Pearson made his statement to reporters after a three-hour morning cabinet meeting at which at least three flag designs were studied.

The cabinet unanimously approved a new flag design. Mr. Pearson said the flag is to be "for national purposes."

The flags considered by the cabinet all included three red maple leaves on a single stem. The variations are in the background—one all white, one all blue and one white with blue borders to depict the national motto, from sea to sea.

The three maple leaves and the colors red and white were designated Canada's national symbol and colors in 1921.

MADE DECISION

"We did make a decision on the flag question and that will be made known to the House of Commons," the prime minister said. "I hope to have a resolution on the order paper next week, but I am not going to say anything about it except in the House of Commons."

Mr. Pearson also said the government will ask parliament to approve this session the naming of O Canada as this country's national anthem.

"We will be proceeding with the anthem during this session but I cannot say in what form the question will be dealt with by the Commons."

The prime minister said that if he were asked in the Commons about the flag design before the formal resolution appears on the order paper, "I would feel it my duty to answer in general terms."

"Once the resolution is on the order paper there will be no reluctance to show you the design."

OFFICIAL FLAG

Legion 'Adopts' Red Ensign

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion today adopted the Red Ensign as its official flag.

The resolution said that the Red Ensign would be flown over all Legion branches in Canada and the headquarters at Ottawa.

FLAG OF SURRENDER

Before the resolution was approved delegates turned down a report of the resolutions committee that recommended no further action on the flag question.

The recommendation ran into a barrage of emotional outbursts from a number of delegates. One delegate said the prime minister had adopted the white flag of surrender instead of the red flag of sacrifice.

Prime Minister Pearson was booed and heckled by many delegates when he addressed the Legion convention here Sunday. The Legion has long advocated the red ensign with the Union Jack in the corner as the national emblem.

DECLINED COMMENT

Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, legion president, declined comment on whether the Legion decision on the Red Ensign would have an affect on use of the proposed maple leaf flag in Legion activities.

Support for some action on the Red Ensign came from many points on the convention floor. One delegate said, "I'm fed up with propriety and good taste on this thing."

CANADA'S FLAG will probably be one of these designs which were shown by Prime Minister Pearson at a Winnipeg press conference. Three top contenders all have three red maple leaves and vary only in background, one being all white, one all blue and one white with blue borders to depict (in faulty heraldry) the national motto "from sea to sea." 2 Victorians Tops at Uvic

Two Victoria students—less than 3 per cent apart—topped University of Victoria's first 129 arts and science graduates in a list issued by Uvic senate today.

They are 21-year-old Paula Michele Day, 4103 Quadra, who graduates Monday with an 88.3 per cent average in English and psychology, and David George Haegert, 21, of 17516 Pembroke, who made 86 per cent majoring in English and Zoology.

They are leaders of the 168 graduates in the faculties of arts and science and education who will receive the first diplomas issued in the name of University of Victoria. Until now, graduates have earned diplomas issued in the name of the University of B.C.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Other top marks were made by school teachers, Mrs. Lottie Hemeon, 2586 Vista, Bay, who has taught at Frank Hobbs School, and Muriel Enid Boskill, of Union Bay.

Mrs. Hemeon, specializing in art elementary program, averaged 77.9 per cent, while Miss Boskill, taking a double art specialty on the secondary program, emerged from examinations with 83.4 per cent.

Among the eight bachelor of arts honors students, three obtained first class standing: Mrs. Sandra Anne Came (nee McKeachie), 21, of Nanaimo, an English major; Susan Dickinson, 22, of Sidney, history, and Brian Richard Little, 23, of 1535 York Place, psychology.

Second class honors were obtained by Stephen William Hol-

SOUTHEAST ASIA

'We'll Fight On' U.S. Tells Reds

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson pledged today that the United States will fight Communist forces in Southeast Asia as long as the people there are determined to remain independent.

The chief U.S. delegate acknowledged, however, that the situation in Southeast Asia "has taken a turn for the worse" and he warned that "those who are responsible have set foot upon an exceedingly dangerous path."

Stevenson, who rushed back Wednesday from a European tour, told the United Nations Security Council that it is the clear aim of both the Indochinese Communist party and the Communist leadership in North Viet Nam "to take over control of all Indochina."

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko quickly retorted that Stevenson's exposition of U.S. policy on Southeast Asia might be suitable for those who are "telling stories to little children and village idiots" but, he said, "there is no place here for such stupidity."

DOESN'T FOLLOW FACTS

Fedorenko described Stevenson's speech as a "noisy and rather sensational show." He aaid Stevenson's statement about U.S. aims to defend the people of Southeast Asia does "not correspond to the facts."

Federenko said simple, average Americans were dying in South Viet Nam because the United States, acting under pressure from capitalists, has sent 16,000 troops there to wage a cruel war against a people struggling for freedom.

He said the United States was keeping a puppet regime in

Pathet Lao Rebels Aided By Air Drops

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—Laotian neutralist officers today claimed Communist North Vietnamese planes were dropping supplies to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces north of Vang Vieng, International Control Commission sources said today.

Vang Vieng is 70 miles north of Vientiane.

The claim came as neutralist army commander Gen. Kong Le appeared to be aiming at blocking the advance of the Pathet Lao forces in the strategic Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

The officers claimed the North Vietnamese airdrops were made at Muong Kassy, about 15 miles from Vang Vieng.

An ICC team—made up of officers from Canada, India and Poland in the country to supervise the 1962 neutrality agreement—flew to Vang Vieng this morning to investigate.

Kong Le was reported moving some 3,000 troops through the mountainous territory controlled by anti-Communist guerrillas of the Meo tribe in an effort to halt the Pathet Lao offensive which has caused a crisis in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

SINGER ARRIVES LATE, TRIPS

'HAVE ANOTHER BRANDY'

(Times News Service)

MELBOURNE, Australia — By the time the orchestra played Over the Rainbow, the audience was hooting and Judy Garland had stalked off the stage. Besieged by reporters at her hotel she told them "I think you stink!"

The sour notes didn't end with Miss Garland's concert Wednesday night.

The box office was besieged for refunds today and the head of the Musicians' Union said the Australian orchestra that accompanied the singer had never been so humiliated.

Miss Garland herself commented, "I didn't like it, did you?"

The American singer's travail began when she arrived an hour late. Her manager blamed it on a sore throat. "You're late" and "have another brandy," hecklers shouted.

Most of the crowd of 7,000 was with her during the first half of the concert, her only performance in Melbourne. But some didn't appreciate her fidgeting with the microphone cable or her side banter.

The crowd had paid about £15,000 Australian ($36,300) to hear her sing. She tripped while mounting the stage and sang in a voice which critics today described as "harsh and raspy."

Occasionally she fluffed a note as a steady stream of people walked out of the hall.

The only explanation she offered the crowd for their long wait was: "I could not get out of the hotel."

The explanation came in response to an irate member of the audience who shouted: "You're late."

The audience's mood wasn't improved when Miss Garland took a half-hour intermission. She sang three more songs on her return, but the lyrics were fragmentary and the customers began drifting to the doors.

Miss Garland curtly left without any farewell, letting the orchestra play Over the Rainbow—her theme—by itself. The musicians departed amid howls.

J. D. Thomson, secretary of the Victoria branch of the Musicians' Union, said today that whenever Miss Garland "messed up a song" she blamed it on the orchestra.

"I was so angry I felt like going onto the stage and taking the band off," he said.

Miss Garland's manager, Karl Brent, said the audience should have accepted her apology for being late.

"Miss Garland would have stood there and sung all night if they had wanted her to," he said.

He added that there would be no refunds because "Miss Garland gave a satisfactory performance."

Early this morning, when reporters knocked at the door of her hotel room, Miss Garland said: "Why don't you go away. I'm very tired. I haven't slept one wink."

Seconds later she added: "I think you stink!" Then she slammed the door on them.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Monetary Growth No Threat—Yet

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Interest rates in Canada have remained reasonably stable despite the heightened demand for credit of all types over the past year in which the economy has quickened its growth.

Bell

The primary reason for the stability has been the fact that the Bank of Canada has been pumping new currency into the monetary system at a rapid clip — about $100 million a month since the first of the year. If this monetary expansion were to be continued throughout the year it would produce a monthly average increase of about 8 per cent over last year.

Just how long monetary expansion at the present rate will continue—and with it the stability in the lending markets—is difficult to predict since it involves several variable factors, both internal and external.

The principal external factor is the government's need to keep interest rate levels in Canada close enough to those in the U.S. to preclude any considerable inflow of American funds. This undertaking was given by Canadian fiscal authorities in return for promised exemptions from the proposed American investment equalization tax.

However, as a bulletin from Dominion Securities Corp. points out, the monetary expansion issue could be forced by domestic factors.

"If a sudden burst of loan increases, of the magnitude which occurred in 1959 and 1962, were to appear, the issue would be forced, since monetary expansion would not likely be increased to accommodate the loan demand," the bulletin states. "Or if a boom in capital spending were to result in doubling non-government net security issues, as occurred in 1956, as well as corporate selling of liquid assets, the issue might also be forced."

Neither of these two eventualities seem too likely at the present time, however, since, while capital spending is strong, corporate savings are also high enough to take much of the pressure off the bond markets.

Within three of four months, though, it is possible that the need to slow down monetary expansion will clash with the need to avoid an inflow of U.S. funds and an upward trend in interest rates will be seen.

The situation could well be eased for Canada by American action to cool off inflationary tendencies, a move which the Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, in its latest survey, sees as a distinct possibility.

"When they look out beyond the next few months," the survey states, "investors tend to concentrate on Mr. Johnson's pledge that either renewed inflation or a deterioration in the balance-of-payments will call forth the "independent Federal Reserve as our second line of defence.'

Galaxy Drills To Prove Find

VANCOUVER (CP)—Galaxy Copper Ltd., in an attempt to prove the existence of a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore near Kamloops, has moved two drills onto its property site.

An underwriting of $50,000 will be used by the company to drill 14 holes. If further options are taken up, a total $340,000 will be provided for investigation.

Dr. A. C. Skerl, consulting geologist, said 12,000 feet of drill holes on the 52 claims indicate a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto Industrials Stay on High Level

Montreal prices moved fractionally higher in extremely active afternoon trading.

AT TORONTO Massey-Ferguson was ahead 1⅜ to 28 after issuing an increased earnings and sales report for the six months ended April 30.

Falconbridge dipped 1¼ to 71¾ in a quiet base metals group. Cominco and Noranda were ahead ¼ to 35½ and 48½ respectively.

Among speculatives, Genex was up two cents to 26 and Northcal eight cents to 75 cents. Area Mines gained 30 cents to $2.15.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was pacing the list on volume again but fell about a point. Calumet and Hecla lost more than a point.

Home Oil A declined ⅛.

Among speculative mines on the Canadian Exchange, Mount Pleasant fell three cents, Penbec two cents, and Black River 1½ cents. Chipman Lake was up 2½ cents.

AT LONDON prices moved irregularly on the stock exchange today.

Gilt-edges were firm and dollar stocks higher. Insurances were mixed, steels firm, oils and teas quiet, rubbers easier, and mines mixed.

Among the leaders, Courtaulds, Bowater, Plessey and Marks and Spencer advanced. Coats [illegible] was down, Beechams fluctuated.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate. Utica was up at .50 and Endako at $8.90. Trojan was down at .20½ and Western Mines at $5.50. Granduc dropped to $6.25 and Jericho to .50. Pacific Pete climbed to $14⅝ and West Coast to $19⅝. Highland Bell was up at $5.25 and Massey-Ferguson at $27⅞.

Mayor Urges 'New Look' At Edmonton

LONDON (CP)—Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton, now on a 30-day tour to drum up new business for his own city and Alberta generally said today he feels the time is ripe for European and British investors to take a "new look" at Alberta.

"We have received a wonderful reception everywhere we have gone in our attempt to generate and regenerate investment in Edmonton," the mayor told a press conference at Alberta House.

So far, at least eight European firms have decided to send representatives to Edmonton within the next few months to study the opportunities there.

HER CANADIAN FLAG

3 Red Maples Flown by Queen

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—If the government brings in a new Canadian flag featuring three red maple leaves on a white background, there isn't likely to be any argument from the experts in heraldry.

Canada's official emblem is three maple leaves conjoined on a single stem. The country's national colors are white and red. And the combination of colors and leaves have been used in various ways on distinctive Canadian devices since 1867.

Although there's no authoritative explanation, the three-leaf idea is suggested as symbolizing the unity of English, French and other ethnic groups in a single Canada.

The heraldry enthusiasts are more likely to raise their voices in protest if the flag is decorated with two blue bars at each side—a design Prime Minister Pearson has said he has a "hankering" for although he agrees it's not proper from a heraldry viewpoint.

One long-time student of heraldry has written to a member of Parliament saying it would be "unthinkable" to add blue to the official red and white. Anyway, says the letter, two vertical blue bars do not represent the "sea-to-sea" motto—that job is done by a wavy horizontal line.

And to complete the argument against the blue, he says: "The assumed 'distinction' of extending from sea to sea is shared by 42 other nations."

CAN TAKE ANY ONE

However, John R. Matheson, Liberal member of Parliament for Leeds, and an acknowledged expert in the field, says it is important to follow the rules of heraldry. "You can't defy international rules, because a flag isn't something only for local use. It's used to identify a country around the world."

The three maple leaves on a single stem appeared on the Upper Canada (Ontario) shield in 1868. The leaves were gold and the background was green. The Lower Canada (Quebec) shield had the same design, with the colors reversed.

In both cases the leaves were at the bottom of the shield, or armory, which is traditionally the key area. The top part, called the "honorable augmentation," has traditional and historical significance, not necessarily denoting anything about the country itself.

Before 1921, the Canadian shield comprised four sections, two of them showing the lions of England, the other two displaying the lion rampant of Scotland and the harp of Ireland. A royal proclamation resulted in the three red maple leaves going into the bottom half, the honorable augmentation then comprising the lions of England, the lion rampant of Scotland, the harp of Ireland and the fleur-de-lis of royal France.

The three leaves and white background now take up one-forty-eighth of the Red Ensign. The ensign was approved by cabinet order in 1944.

AUTHORIZED FLAG

Five years previously, the cabinet, after consultation with the militia council, authorized a battle flag for the 1st Canadian Division that featured three huge red maple leaves on a white background as its central design. Long before that the red and white colors had been identified with the flag of the Royal Military College, the pennant of the Royal North West Mounted Police and the Northwest Frontier Medal. The RMC flag also had a single maple leaf.

The badge of the Canadian Women's Army Corps was centred with three maple leaves, and the first "general service" pin issued to servicemen after the Second World War had three red maple leaves on a white background. It was later changed to silver.

The Canadian Army Badge, authorized in 1947 by King George VI, has three maple leaves; so has the Canadian Guards' hat badge and the buttons on their uniforms.

The flag used by the Queen as Queen of Canada has its entire lower half devoted to three red maple leaves on a white background.

New Wheat Deal With Russians

WINNIPEG (CP) — Another new wheat deal between Canada and Russia involving about 4,000,000 tons may soon be announced.

James Richardson and Sons, a Winnipeg firm of grain merchants, said in a daily market letter Wednesday there "are persistent rumors in the trade, which have not yet been confirmed, that a new wheat deal is soon to be announced."

The report said the figure "most commonly mentioned" is 4,000,000 tons or about 150,000,000 bushels.

Shipments under last year's agreement with Russia, the report said, "are well ahead of schedule and it is believed now that almost all the shipments that were scheduled for July will be made by the end of June, so that the field would be clear for a new deal starting before the end of our old crop season."

Officials of the Canadian wheat board here were not immediately available for comment.

Top scholar Miss Day, whose parents are Saanich residents Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Day, plans to enter social work, studying for her bachelor's degee at a univesity still to be picked.

Dave Haeget will enter UBC in the fall to take medicine. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haegert, have an older son, Joseph, graduating in medicine at UBC next week.

SEPARATE LIST

Scholarship winners, based on marks, will be made public in a separate list to be issued in June.

This year's graduating class represents students from throughout Greater Victoria, Vancouver Island and the southern mainland, one from Calgary and one from St. John's, Newfoundland.

Vancouver Island graduates of UBC this year will be listed in the Times Friday. Graduation ceremonies take place in UBC armory next Thursday and Friday.

sition. There is serious question about it now, at least in Washington. The American government has been alarmed, on the eve of the Kennedy Round, by the tacitly protectionist sentiments uttered from time to time by Walter Gordon who, as minister of finance, must sponsor all tariff changes.

On the other hand, the liberal low-tariff views of Mitchell Sharp, minister of trade and commerce, are warmly welcomed in Washington and Mr. Sharp, not Mr. Gordon, will be Canada's chief negotiator at Geneva.

Clash Inevitable

In both Ottawa and Washington a collision between the two fundamental attitudes represented by Mr. Gordon and Mr. Sharp is foreseen as inevitable, with Mr. Pearson finally settling the issue, but the collision is some distance away yet. The Kennedy Round cannot reach its first point of positive decision before the middle of next year at earliest.

Meanwhile, the American government has publicly indicated its concern with Canadian policy, in so far as Mr. Gordon can influence it.

When George Ball, undersecretary of state, delivered a recent speech on Canadian-American relations his views were widely and almost weirdly misinterpreted as a tentative offer of free trade to Canada. In fact, he dismissed that project as entirely impractical because neither nation would consider it.

Instead, the Ball speech was an urgent appeal to Canada for co-operation in an attack against trade barriers throughout the world, on a multilateral basis, and a blunt warning against narrow protectionism.

Key Paragraph

The key paragraph, evidently beamed straight at Mr. Gordon and those of like mind, read as follows:

"I suggest, therefore, that the effort of our two countries be focused not on measures of economic nationalism but on appropriate steps that can be taken to permit the normal and healthy development of our economies toward an increasing economic interdependence that is viewed not so much in bilateral terms as in terms of its relation to an expanding world economy."

This rotund and oblique diplomatic language, translated into colloquial English, simply means that the United States looks hopefully to its chief trade partner for support in making the Kennedy Round a success, not for the advantage of the United States but in Canada's own vital interests.

The warning against Canadian "economic nationalism" is perfectly clear. Though Mr. Ball did not discuss it, the price that Canada must pay for lower American and other national tariffs is clear also.

'Linear' Parley

At Geneva a few great trading nations, including those of the Common Market, Britain, the United States and probably Japan, will negotiate by what is called the "linear" method. They will offer to cut their over-all tariff structure (with certain stated exceptions) by a given percentage figure, if their partners will do the same.

Canada has refused, for understandable reasons, to accept this method and proposes to offer "equivalent value," in the form of tariff reductions on specific products, as fair payment for linear cuts in the tariffs of the other great traders.

What is Canada really planning to offer? What tariffs will it agree to reduce? The Canadian government naturally will not reveal its bargaining position in advance and has not settled it yet anyway.

At some point, however, it must go beyond abstract generalities to bargain on the concrete figures of the customs schedule and it knows already that the United States government will not reduce American tariffs in Canada's favor without truly "equivalent value" in the Canadian market.

No Free Riders

Canada cannot expect to receive the advantage of tariff cuts in foreign markets without making its full contribution to the total bargain. There will be no free riders in the Kennedy Round.

If it is to be expansionist and not restrictive, Canadian policy will depend mainly on Mr. Sharp's strength in the government and Mr. Pearson's willingness to support him against the strong protectionist elements of the Liberal party.

power against the wishes of the people and its unpopularity was shown by the fact that over the last six months the U.S. has been obliged to replace the government three times.

Among specific suggestions put forward by the U.S. delegate on the border friction between South Viet Nam and Cambodia was a proposal for a UN force to patrol the border. This was the first time the U.S. had proposed a role for the world organization in Southeast Asia.

Stevenson asserted that the U.S. had often come to the aid of countries attacked from the outside and said it will do so again "unless the lesson is learned once and for all by all aggressors that armed aggression does not pay—that it no longer works—that it will not be tolerated."

U.S. Bill Curbs Foreign Fishermen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed a law Wednesday to regulate fishing by foreign vessels in American waters. He said the United States would try to work out enforcement procedures in advance with the foreign countries involved.

The law was proposed originally to cope with illegal Cuban fishing operations in U.S. territorial waters. But Japan said another section is aimed at Japanese king crab fishing operations off Alaska and it has threatened to ignore the new law.

WAVES IT AT PM

Miss Dowd, wearing a grey suit and a fur neckpiece, said she came to Ottawa by bus for the specific purpose of waving the flag at the prime minister. She did so when he walked from the cabinet room to his office. He stopped and told her the new flag design is being chosen "for a national purpose."

The woman said the Union Jack is "a good flag for every purpose."

She told reporters earlier that her family came to Canada in the 1660s and that she personally favors the Union Jack. She brought the Red Ensign to Ottawa for her personal demonstration "because it is the flag you fly here."

She said that when she returned to Montreal she would put the Ensign "among the Union Jacks in my hall."

. . . LEGION

Fred O'Brecht, of Durham, Ont., new president of the Legion, said in an interview later that if the federal government adopted a new flag "I would expect that the Legion as good citizens would acquiesce to the change."

While at the moment the Legion recognizes only the Red Ensign, "You must realize it has been a very emotional question for the Legion."

Mr. O'Brecht echoed a statement earlier in the convention by the retiring president, Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, that the Legion is deeply disappointed at the action of the federal government in precipitating the flag question in view of the known opposition of the Legion.

Mr. O'Brecht said rising the flag issue now "diverted the attention of all veterans of Canada" from government plans to transfer control of veterans' hospitals to local civilian authorities. He did not elaborate.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Monetary Growth No Threat—Yet

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Interest rates in Canada have remained reasonably stable despite the heightened demand for credit of all types over the past year in which the economy has quickened its growth.

Bell

The primary reason for the stability has been the fact that the Bank of Canada has been pumping new currency into the monetary system at a rapid clip — about $100 million a month since the first of the year. If this monetary expansion were to be continued throughout the year it would produce a monthly average increase of about 8 per cent over last year.

Just how long monetary expansion at the present rate will continue—and with it the stability in the lending markets—is difficult to predict since it involves several variable factors, both internal and external.

The principal external factor is the government's need to keep interest rate levels in Canada close enough to those in the U.S. to preclude any considerable inflow of American funds. This undertaking was given by Canadian fiscal authorities in return for promised exemptions from the proposed American investment equalization tax.

However, as a bulletin from Dominion Securities Corp. points out, the monetary expansion issue could be forced by domestic factors.

"If a sudden burst of loan increases, of the magnitude which occurred in 1959 and 1962, were to appear, the issue would be forced, since monetary expansion would not likely be increased to accommodate the loan demand," the bulletin states. "Or if a boom in capital spending were to result in doubling non-government net security issues, as occurred in 1956, as well as corporate selling of liquid assets, the issue might also be forced."

Neither of these two eventualities seem too likely at the present time, however, since, while capital spending is strong, corporate savings are also high enough to take much of the pressure off the bond markets.

Within three of four months, though, it is possible that the need to slow down monetary expansion will clash with the need to avoid an inflow of U.S. funds and an upward trend in interest rates will be seen.

The situation could well be eased for Canada by American action to cool off inflationary tendencies, a move which the Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, in its latest survey, sees as a distinct possibility.

"When they look out beyond the next few months," the survey states, "investors tend to concentrate on Mr. Johnson's pledge that either renewed inflation or a deterioration in the balance-of-payments will call forth the 'independent Federal Reserve as our second line of defence.'

Mayor Urges 'New Look' At Edmonton

LONDON (CP)—Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton, now on a 30-day tour to drum up new business for his own city and Alberta generally said today he feels the time is ripe for European and British investors to take a "new look" at Alberta.

"We have received a wonderful reception everywhere we have gone in our attempt to generate and regenerate investment in Edmonton," the mayor told a press conference at Alberta House.

So far, at least eight European firms have decided to send representatives to Edmonton within the next few months to study the opportunities there.

Toronto Industrials Stay on High Level

Montreal prices moved fractionally higher in extremely active afternoon trading.

AT TORONTO Massey-Ferguson was ahead 1⅜ to 28 after issuing an increased earnings and sales report for the six months ended April 30.

Falconbridge dipped 1¼ to 71¾ in a quiet base metals group. Cominco and Noranda were ahead ¼ to 35½ and 48½ respectively.

Among speculatives, Genex was up two cents to 26 and Northcal eight cents to 75 cents. Area Mines gained 30 cents to $2.15.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was pacing the list on volume again but fell about a point. Calumet and Heela lost more than a point.

AT MONTREAL Massey-Ferguson climbed 1⅜, Pacific Petroleum and Zellers ½ each, and Rolland Paper A and Quebec Natural Gas, ⅛ each.

Home Oil A declined ⅛.

Among speculative mines on the Canadian Exchange, Mount Pleasant fell three cents, Penbec two cents, and Black River 1½ cents. Chipman Lake was up 2½ cents.

AT LONDON prices moved irregularly on the stock exchange today.

Gilt-edges were firm and dollar stocks higher. Insurances were mixed, steels firm, oils and teas quiet, rubbers easier, and mines mixed.

Among the leaders, Courtaulds, Bowater, Plessey and Marks and Spencer advanced. Coats Patons was down, Beechams fluctuated.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate. Utica was up at .50 and Endako at $8.90. Trojan was down at .20½ and Western Mines at $5.50. Granduc dropped to $6.25 and Jericho to .50. Pacific Pete climbed to $14⅜ and West Coast to $19⅜. Highland Bell was up at $5.25 and Massey-Ferguson at $27⅞.

Galaxy Drills To Prove Find

VANCOUVER (CP)—Galaxy Copper Ltd., in an attempt to prove the existence of a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore near Kamloops, has moved two drills onto its property site.

An underwriting of $50,000 will be used by the company to drill 14 holes. If further options are taken up, a total $340,000 will be provided for investigation.

Dr. A. C. Skerl, consulting geologist, said 12,000 feet of drill holes on the 52 claims indicate a possible 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 tons of ore.

Industry Fights Lingering Suds

NEW YORK (AP)—That foam on streams and lakes, the suds that sometimes rise in the lower floors of apartment houses, the froth on the glass of tap water in some crowded suburbs—all may be on the way out.

At least that's what the detergent industry is promising—and putting up $100,000,000 to back its words.

New plants to produce a different detergent base, one that won't retain its foaming property after it has gone down the drain, are rising across the country.

The industry promises that most detergent makers will have the new substance available early next year, and all by the end of 1965. To nudge them along, Wisconsin and some local communities have passed laws saying that by then the old froth-retaining type can't be sold there any more.

The new substance is LAS, meaning linear alkylate sulfonate, and the one now used is ABS standing for alkyl benzene-sulfonate. The difference is that the ABS you're used to doesn't break down readily in sewage treatment plants, or in streams, or in private septic tanks. Hence the objectionable suds.

LAS has a simpler molecular structure, say the experts, a structure that biological action can break down more easily and thus get rid of that foam which many people rank high on their list of obnoxious water pollutants.

WOOD ON VIEW

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British high commissioner to Canada said Wednesday an experimental housing project in Britain is expected to stir considerable interest in B.C. lumber.

Sir Henry Lintott, here on a diplomatic visit to the province, said B.C. lumber was used in a 200-house project in Skelmersdale, England.

Optimism Soaring on Prairies

By The Canadian Press

Following a record year of wheat sales in 1963, farm, business and government spokesmen in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba echo the same feeling—optimism.

Bolstering this feeling, a Winnipeg grain marketing firm announced Wednesday there are "persistent rumors" a new wheat deal of about "4,000,000 tons or about 150,000,000 bushels" is soon to be announced between Canada and Russia.

Meanwhile Saskatchewan farmers, who received a record $630,000,000 farm cash income in 1963, have embarked on a farm machinery buying spree.

W. A. Robertson, a Regina farm equipment dealer, said: "We have sold so many combines already this year that it just doesn't make a comparison with previous years."

He and other dealers in the province report sales as much as 100 per cent higher than during the same period in 1963.

Arthur Mayse

A while ago I found tucked into the bulky manuscript of a first novel that never saw print, two notices black-lettered on tattered cotton rectangles.

'NO SMOKING IN THESE WOODS,' the top one sternly ordered.

I waste no time yearning for vanished youth . . . one depression in a lifetime is plenty. But, studying those weathered signs, filched from their Menzies Bay stumps, I was for a moment pitchforked back through the years to my first payroll job as a logging company fire patrol.

That's what they called us on the timesheets. To the loggers, we were "those goddam spark-chasers," present in the woods only as a gesture to government regulations, and a fire hazard worse than any we were paid to ride herd on.

This was a harsh judgment, and not fully deserved. As a group, we spark-chasers probably doused at least as many spot-blazes as we started.

We had other duties beside guarding the company felled-and-bucked from the Red Demon. On rainy Sundays, our push set us to work at various useful projects. He had a settled dislike for college boys, and used to raid the pie out of our nosebag lunches while we toiled at whatever wet, miserable and frequently dangerous job he had chosen for our entertainment.

At this distance I think better of him, because he did teach us various useful skills that don't figure in a university curriculum. We hated him joyously and completely then, though, and longed for the day when his foot would be lifted off our necks.

* * *

He had set us to the unglamorous task of digging a communal latrine pit for a new campsite.

We slave with mattock and spade until we were slithering about on greasy blue hardpan eight feet down, at which point our tyrant strolled over from the neighboring watchman's shack.

"Jeez," he remarked, "that took you long enough!"

Then he ordered us out, and sent the sparky whom he knew was scaredest of dynamite to fetch a case of 60 per cent from the powder-monkey's cache.

The boss descended into our pit by a rickety ladder. We handed down the explosives and watched him rig half-sticks with detonators clinched to fuses of graded lengths. While he nipped each lethal little cap to its fuse with his teeth, one of our band expressed the wish that he'd bite too far back.

He didn't, however, and presently had bedded his dynamite in the hardpan.

"You collitch punks git the hell off amongst the stumps," he bid us, and popped a match on his thumbnail.

* * *

He, or rather the ladder, did. Head and shoulders receeded slowly into the trench. We heard a slight thud and a heavy thump, the latter followed by a yell.

One sparky — the kid who had been bawled out a week earlier for cutting his foot with a machete — began softly to whistle.

The ladder-top re-appeared. We heard a frantic scrabbling. Our boss soared over the lip, landed running, and flung himself behind the nearest stump as his charges let go with a thoroughly satisfactory boom.

He limped in to us, dusting pulverized hardpan out of his hair.

We thought about that for a moment. Then someone asked, quietly and bitterly, "Why?"

I'm older now, youth's savagery left behind. But at age 18 on a weeping day, with the pie from my lunch in a pirate's belly, it seemed a fair enough question.

Topics of the Day

A calf and lamb temporarily housed in the Beacon Hill Park animal pen have been reclaimed by a farmer from whom they were stolen, city parks administrator W. H. Warren said this morning.

He said they were returned to the Turner Meadows farm at Langford Lake. The young animals were found wandering loose in the park Sunday morning and were put in the pen—where they drew considerable interest from park visitors—until the owner could be found.

Car Driver Test No Big Problem To 90-Year-Old

By MARGE GILROY

Still in the driver's seat is an old-time Saanich farmer who will celebrate his 90th birthday, Friday.

John Brooks of 422 Menzies came to British Columbia in 1885 and helped his father clear a 100-acre farm on Stelly's Cross Road. He later cleared another 50-acres and continued to farm there until 1944, when he sold out and bought another farm at Crofton.

Not only was he a pioneer farmer but he was among the first to own and operate a motor car on Vancouver Island.

It was 1912 when he bought a two-year-old Buick for $600, and hired a man, for a dollar a day and board, to teach him how to drive.

Toured Saanich

After three or four days of instruction he got up early one morning and started off in the Buick with a few friends. Together they toured the gravel roads of Saanich.

Everything went well until he returned home and stepped on the gas instead of the brake as he pulled into the garage.

"The thing's blowed up," screamed his mother.

But the thing had not "blowed up" and Mr. Brooks hasn't hit a thing since.

In all his 52 years of driving he has yet to receive a ticket.

Only two weeks ago he had his annual driver's test and he said, "I got nearly 100 per cent."

Music Lessons

In his early days he drove to town in a two-wheeled cart and pony for high school lessons and violin instruction once a week.

He continued his violin lessons with Prof. Ernie Wolf for three years and later joined his 10-piece orchestra. Today Mr. Brooks still enjoys playing one of his three violins and a piano which he keeps close by in his bed-sitting room.

During his farming days in Saanich Mr. Brooks served on the School Board for Ward 6 (Central Saanich), and worked hard to have the first high school built in the area. Having six children of his own he knew at first hand what it cost to send a child to school in Victoria. At that time the fare was 70 cents a day on the old Interurban Railway.

High School Built

Before leaving the School Board he saw Mt. Newton High School constructed.

Mr. Brooks also takes credit for having the West Road paved in 1923, which in turn prompted the Mill Bay ferry to go into service. He served as councillor for Ward 6 from 1918 to 1923.

Teetotaller

Although he doesn't take a drink now he has not always been an abstainer.

"When I was younger I used to stay in the beer parlor as long as anybody, but it was different then, we used to always say the car would run better after a few drinks," said the quiet pipe-smoker as he contemplated what he might buy to entertain his friends at the party, Friday.

RED ENSIGN TOO BRITISH FOR MOST

Students Would Fly Maple Leaf Forever

By JIM BIGSBY

Those Canadians who would have to spend most of their lives under a new maple-leaf flag seem solidly in favor of the idea.

"There should definitely be a new flag with a maple leaf on it. What other symbol of Canada is there" said Darlene Herrington.

"It's about time," said Richard Davidson.

"Too many people still cling to the old idea of the British Empire with the Union Jack as its flag.

"I think that if some of these people were offered a choice they'd actually choose the Union Jack rather than the Red Ensign."

NON-BRITISH

Joan Scythes was also opposed to the inclusion of the Union Jack in a Canadian flag.

"Well over 50% of Canadians aren't of British origin," she said.

When Sue Begg said she was in favor of keeping the Red Ensign, her friends broke out with cries of "Oh no, no!"

"It should be the Red Ensign," said Ellen Chong.

"I don't know much about it. I guess it's just emotion."

Nine students said their parents were for a new flag, two reported opposition and nine didn't know.

Generally speaking, the students tended to hold the same opinion as their parents, with some exceptions.

"My father's a member of the Legion but he's not saying too much. I think he likes the Union Jack but I believe we need a new flag to show our independence," said John Wright.

Debbie Brook said she and her parents were strongly in favor of the new flag, but believe the issue should be put to a referendum.

Eric Braden didn't know his parents' opinion and wasn't decided himself, but said "I'd sure like to see a nice big maple leaf on the cadet flag. It's nothing but a white flag with a Union Jack on the fly."

None of the students, pro or con, realized that the Red Ensign has never been designated as Canada's final flag but was only a stop-gap move.

Army Reunion Will Feature Rum 'Ration'

In all there are about 75 remaining of the original 300 of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery.

To be at the reunion they will come from as far away as Winnipeg, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Vancouver, Penticton and up-Island points.

'THE BRIGADE'

Former judge Joseph B. Clearihue will propose the toast to "The Brigade" and the reply will be by 80-year-old Albert Puttick, of West Vancouver.

Mr. Puttick was the brigade sergeant major and served as a major in the Second World War.

Another veteran who has promised to attend is the brigade's former medical officer, Dr. J. M. Fowler, who is also 80.

Inquest Into Girl's Death Adjourned

An inquest on Della Mae Hoegi, 19-year-old Victoria girl killed in a two-car smash-up last Sunday was adjourned until June 16 today because one of the witnesses is still in hospital.

He is the girl's boy friend, Walter Allison, 22, of 631 Kenneth, who was driving the car in which Miss Hoegi was killed.

Leslie Perry, of the Queen's Own Rifles, Work Point Barracks, the driver of the other car, was due to appear in Saanich police court today.

The Victoria coroner, Edmond J. De St. Jorre, heard evidence of identification from the girl's father, Darrel Hoegi, of 3016 Donald.

Pathologist Dr. R. B. Roxburgh said she died of multiple injuries and haemorrhage.

The inquest was held in McCall's Chapel.

(See also Page 33)

The workers join about 1,000 others made idle by a strike of 70 office workers at the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company pulp mill at the up-island city.

They were made idle when machine operators refused to operate machines powered by "hot steam" from the strike-bound pulp mill.

25-Floor Skyscraper Proposed Downtown

Unidentified Group Holds Half Block

A city lawyer today informed City Hall that unidentified clients have optioned half a downtown block and propose to erect the city's first real "skyscraper" — a 25-storey building.

D. A. M. Patterson asked Victoria city council for permission to exceed the present six-storey limit for downtown buildings.

Property involves three large lots owned by Woodward Stores Ltd., bounded by Pandora, Blanshard and Cormorant—across the street to the west from the former B.C. Electric Building.

Preliminary designs indicate that the proposed building would somewhat resemble the former BCE building but would be four times as high.

APARTMENTS

It would be a low-rent apartment block of 163 bachelor and one-bedroom suites in a 23-storey glass-and-reinforced concrete tower rising from a broad two-storey base that would house 15 stores on the ground level and 300 cars on the second storey.

This would be the first stage of an overall plan involving subsequent construction of an office block and extension of the two-storey retail and parking decks.

Immediate reactions from civic officials indicated considerable interest but also wariness. The plans will be carefully examined to ensure that the proposed development does not spoil the appearance of the civic precinct and downtown area by dominating it too much.

TESTING STAGE

Indications were that the proposal was not on a completely firm footing and was still in the feasibility-testing stage.

Mr. Patterson declined to identify his clients but there was speculation that they involved a combination of local, out-of-town and British interests. Woodward's Stores Ltd. was understood to be in the picture only as owner of the land being optoined.

Mr. Patterson said there was no target date for starting or completing the project yet and it was not determined what size of office building would be constructed because this would not be built until there was a demand for the space.

NO PRICE TAG

Value of the 25-storey apartment block alone likely would be in the $2,000,000 range. There was no indication of what price tag was attached to the land.

Mr. Patterson's application said the building would have covered pedestrian malls within the ground floor with access to all three streets and the apartment tower's lobby. There would be three elevators, a swimming pool, restaurant and roof garden.

Availability of the pre-assembled and largely undeveloped land in the heart of the city and considerable off-street parking space nearby were obvious reasons for choice of the location.

PERSUADED CLIENTS

But Mr. Patterson also indicated that construction of the civic precinct a few feet away persuaded his clients that "this area is going to grow as the centre of the downtown area."

His application told council that his clients were anxious to plan the development carefully because of its proximity to Centennial Victoria Square.

Anti-Beatle Persuasion Spark for Knife Attack

A man was attacked and cut by a knife-wielding youth as he walked through Pioneer Square just after midnight this morning.

Bill Maynes, 611 Vancouver, told city police he was stopped by two teenagers who asked him his opinion of the Beatles singing group.

When he said he disliked them, the questioners evidently considered the answer unsatisfactory.

Then they fled.

A dog search of the area was frustrated by wind, but police later set up a stake-out acting on telephone information.

It was unsuccessful.

Mr. Maynes described his assailants as about 17 or 19 years old, both of them about 5' 7" tall.

The one with the knife was dressed in a light jacket and dark trousers, and had fair hair.

The other man was about the same height, of medium build, and wearing dark clothing.

2nd Place Win For Local Boy In World Contest

John Morgan, a grade 10 Victoria High School student, has been awarded a second prize in a world-wide poster contest, sponsored by the Latham Foundation of Oakland, Calif.

Purpose of the foundation is to promote humane education, and the poster submitted by John was designed around a United Nations theme.

All who entered the contest will receive certificates from the foundation and John will receive a $25 award.

Some Seats Yet For Army Show At Work Point

Four hundred reserved seats for a ceremonial parade and feu de joie by First Battalion Queen's Own Rifles at Work Point Barracks Saturday are still available.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will review the parade.

The public will also be admitted to the full dress rehearsal to be held at Work Point Barracks Friday at 2 p.m. when the reviewing officer will be Brig. E. E. Danby, B.C. area commander.

No tickets are required for the rehearsal.

Scot's Rumored End Scotched by Ottawa

There is no substance to an MP's warning that the Canadian Scottish Regiment may be disbanded, a spokesman for Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's Ottawa office said Monday.

The warning was issued by George Chatterton, Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich who said he had received "indications" that the regiment may "get the axe."

The federal government is currently studying a plan to cut Canada's militia strength by 20,000 to 25,000 men.

There are 800 militia men and 800 associated cadets on Vancouver Island.

Their commander, Col. Peter Ramsay, head of 25 Militia Group, said Mr. Chatterton's statement could only be speculation.

"I don't know what information he had, but I have certainly received no advance word," he said.

UNDER STUDY

A preliminary report is expected this month, but nothing will probably be done about it until Sept. 1, start of the next training season.

Col. Ramsay said commission members visited Victoria in March for talks with local officers, and gave no hint of cuts here.

Brig. E. G. Eakins, of New Westminster, B.C.'s representative on the commission, is currently holding talks in Vancouver.

The militia group here is made up of about 600 members of the Canadian Scottish. squadrons from the signal corps, armored corps, REME. a company of the service corps, an army photo interpretation Z section and the fifth medium battery of artillery.

"Certainly the community would be a poorer place without the militia," said Col. Ramsay.

He cited two recent examples of the usefulness of the local militia: The immediate aid to flood victims in the Albernis by a company of the Canadian Scottish; and the role played by the militia in Monday's Victoria Day parade.

Col. Ramsay said he is anxious to know if there well be any militia cuts, but has no reason to believe there will at the moment.

Lieut.-Col. M. W. E. Allen, commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish said he would be "extremely disappointed" if the regiment was the victim of defence cuts, but he had received no advance indication about it either.

The spokesman for Mr. Hellyer's office said there is no substance in fact to Mr. Chatterton's statement, and it would be improper to suggest any until will get the axe at this time.

Third Suspect In Court Today

Clarence William Kraft, third man arrested in connection with the April 24 holdup of a Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal, was scheduled to appear in Saanich police court this afternoon.

Ask The Times

A.—No. However, the Hudson's Bay Company is required to pay two Beaver pelts and two Elk heads to the reigning monarch whenever he or she visits the shores of Canada. This arrangement dates back to 1670.

Q.—In an argument re the First World War, I maintained that Mons was taken on Nov. 11, 1918, Armistice Day, but my opponent claimed that it occurred on Nov. 9. Which is correct?—H.W.J.

A.—Elements of the Canadian Corps took, Mons, Belgium, in the early hours of Nov. 11. It has been suggested that the reason for this last minute attack was the fact that Mons was the place where the British army had first met the Germans in 1914.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal or business problems. Questions should be addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Peterson Rejects Union Request

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Peterson has rejected a union request to impose binding arbitration in the deadlocked dispute over 1963 fish prices.

The United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union had asked Peterson to invoke Section 25 of the Fisheries Act of B.C. in their dispute with the Fisheries Association of B.C.

Section 25 provides for the provincial cabinet to order binding arbitration if it is requested by either the fishermen or the employers.

Calgary Stamps Sign Two Canadians

CALGARY (UPI)—The Western Football Conference Calgary Stampeders today announced the signing of veteran centre Dale Parsons and tackle George Hanson, both Canadians.

CAHA Playoff Receipts Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Gross receipts for the 1963-64 playoffs for both the Allan and Memorial Cups were down in comparison with the previous year, delegates to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association learned today.

The senior playoff games produced gross receipts of $126,971 compared with receipts of $146,500 in 1962-63.

(See Grad List, Page 25)

Two Victoria students—less than 3 per cent apart—topped University of Victoria's first 129 arts and science graduates in a list issued by Uvic senate today.

They are 21-year-old Paula Michele Day, 4103 Quadra, who graduates Monday with an 88.3 per cent average in English and psychology, and David George Haegert, 21, of 1516 Pembroke, who made 86 per cent majoring in English and Zoology.

They are leaders of the 168 graduates in the faculties of arts and science and education who will receive the first diplomas issued in the name of University of Victoria. Until now, graduates have earned diplomas issued in the name of the University of B.C.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Other top marks were made by school teachers, Mrs. Lottie Hemeon, 2586 Vista Bay, who has taught at Frank Hobbs School, and Muriel Enid Boskill, of Union Bay.

Mrs. Hemeon, specializing in art elementary program, averaged 77.9 per cent, while Miss Boskill, taking a double art specialty on the secondary program, emerged from examinations with 83.4 per cent.

Among the eight bachelor of arts honors students, three obtained first class standing: Mrs. Sandra Anne Came (nee McKeachie), 21, of Nanaimo, an English major; Susan Dickinson, 22, of Sidney, history, and Brian Richard Little, 23, of 1535 York Place, psychology.

Second class honors were obtained by Stephen William Hol-

TRADE TALKS

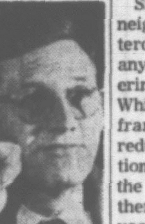
By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA—The late President Kennedy's grand design for a trans-Atlantic trading community was already dead before its author's assassination. President de Gaulle had killed it by vetoing Britain's admission to the European Common Market.



Hutchison

But if the design is no longer as grand as Mr. Kennedy had once hoped, it still represents the boldest attempt ever made to reduce the world's commercial barriers and nourish its prosperity. And no nation is more concerned than Canada with the outcome because its economic system depends primarily on international trade.

After a period of pessimism, which followed the De Gaulle veto, the American government believes now that the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations, opening next autumn, will accomplish tremendous results—provided that one obstacle can be surmounted.

Everything will turn from the beginning on the Common Market's willingness to import American and Canadian foodstuffs, chiefly cereals, without crippling tariff or other restrictions. If France can impose those restrictions on its five partners, as De Gaulle imposed his veto on Britain, then the Kennedy Round will be doomed.

Must Bargain

In Washington this disaster is not anticipated. The Common Market's stake in the world market, especially the huge American market, is so important that it will be compelled to bargain on foodstuffs as well as manufactured goods. The results of failures are so unthinkable, economically and politically, that in the crunch the Common Market cannot risk them.

Such is the American government's assessment, but it does not underestimate the difficulties ahead or the time needed to solve them. Some 18 months or two years of negotiation will be required before a bargain can be struck.

Certainly it will not come close to President Kennedy's target—a general tariff reduction of 50 per cent—but if it achieves even half that original objective it will drastically change the world's economic climate for the better.

Apart from its doubts about the intentions of the Common Market, the American government is deeply disturbed by the unknown policy of Canada. For in the complicated poker game now under way Canada holds high cards out of all proportion to its population and power.

Biggest Customer

Not only is Canada one of the world's leading exporters and importers, it is the United States' largest single customer and supplier. Without an abundant Canadian market many American industries would be impoverished. Without abundant Canadian supplies the American economy would languish. The same facts are true in reverse for Canada.

Since the business of the two neighboring nations is totally interdependent, neither can frame any tariff policy without considering its effects on the other. While the United States has framed a policy of broad tariff reduction, with Canada's position in mind, it does not know the Canadian policy because there is none, except in the vaguest sort of generalities and even they are contradictory.

There can be no policy until the Pearson government faces one of the hardest decisions in Canada's political history. Technically the decision must be complex when 62 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade swap tariff concessions on thousands of different products — a nightmare of negotiation. Basically, however, the decision is quite simple.

Does Canada intend to expose its industries, many of them highly protected and competitively soft, to the cold winds of international competition? Is it prepared to damage the prospects of some industries for the over-all gains of the national economy? Is the Pearson government ready to accept the political risks of this harsh surgery?

Pearson Committed

In theory Mr. Pearson is personally committed, and has been committed for the last dozen years, to a far-reaching tariff reduction, regardless of economic inconvenience and political risk.

He was the first international statesman to propose a free-trade area of the North Atlantic region. He bitterly condemned the Diefenbaker government for refusing to consider Britain's offer of free trade to Canada. He strongly supported Britain's entry into the Common Market as the first step in the grand design.

There was no question about his attitude in his days of oppo-

Turk-Cypriots Blamed for Death

NICOSIA (AP)—Turkish-Cypriots were blamed today for the first fatality in the UN peace force on Cyprus.

UN headquarters announced a Finnish radio operator, Juhanu Matikainen, 27, was killed Wednesday night in a two-hour battle between Turkish - Cypriots and Finnish patrols.

A UN statement said Matikainen was hit by three bullets while sitting in his patrol car in fields near the Turkish village of Kanli, six miles northwest of Nicosia.

The car had accompanied a recovery team to aid another Finnish vehicle that broke down while providing an escort for farmers bringing in their harvest.

SOUTHEAST ASIA

'We'll Fight On' U.S. Tells Reds

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson pledged today that the United States will fight Communist forces in Southeast Asia as long as the people there are determined to remain independent.

The chief U.S. delegate acknowledged, however, that the situation in Southeast Asia "has taken a turn for the worse" and he warned that "those who are responsible have set foot upon an exceedingly dangerous path."

Stevenson, who rushed back Wednesday from a European tour, told the United Nations Security Council that it is the clear aim of both the Indochinese Communist party and the Communist leadership in North Viet Nam "to take over control of all Indochina."

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko quickly retorted that Stevenson's exposition of U.S. policy on Southeast Asia might be suitable for those who are "telling stories to little children and village idiots" but, he said, "there is no place here for such stupidity."

DOESN'T FOLLOW FACTS

Fedorenko described Stevenson's speech as a "noisy and rather sensational show." He said Stevenson's statement about U.S. aims to defend the people of Southeast Asia does "not correspond to the facts."

Fedorenko said simple, average Americans were dying in South Viet Nam because the United States, acting under pressure from capitalists, has sent 16,000 troops there to wage a cruel war against a people struggling for freedom.

He said the United States was keeping a puppet regime in

Pathet Lao Rebels Aided By Air Drops

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—Laotian neutralist officers today claimed Communist North Vietnamese planes were dropping supplies to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces north of Vang Vieng, International Control Commission sources said today.

Vang Vieng is 70 miles north of Vientiane.

The claim came as neutralist army commander Gen. Kong Le appeared to be aiming at blocking the advance of the Pathet Lao forces in the strategic Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

The officers claimed the North Vietnamese airdrops were made at Muong Kassy, about 15 miles from Vang Vieng.

An ICC team—made up of officers from Canada, India and Poland in the country to supervise the 1962 neutrality agree*ment—flew* to Vang Vieng this morning to investigate.

Kong Le was reported moving some 3,000 troops through the mountainous territory controlled by anti-Communist guerrillas of the Meo tribe in an effort to halt the Pathet Lao of*fensive* which has caused a crisis in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Will Tell In Few Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today the design of a proposed new Canadian flag will be revealed in a "few days."

Questions about the proposed flag were fired at the prime minister at the beginning of the question period when Mr. Pearson told Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker that his government would "shortly submit to Parliament" a resolution with all the details.

The *resolution would be intro*duced in "a few days," Mr. Pearson told Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac—Temiscamingue).

Mr. Pearson's vague reply in the House came as a surprise, for he had earlier told reporters that he would describe the new flag in general terms if asked about it when the Commons met this afternoon.

Mr. Pearson made his statement to reporters after a three-hour morning cabinet meeting at which at least three flag designs were studied.

The cabinet unanimously approved a new flag design. Mr. Pearson said the flag is to be "for national purposes."

The three maple leaves and the colors red and white were designated Canada's national symbol and colors in 1921.

MADE DECISION

"We did make a decision on the flag question and that will be made known to the House of Commons," the prime minister said. "I hope to have a resolution on the order paper next week, but I am not going to say anything about it except in the House of Commons."

Mr. Pearson also said the government will ask parliament to approve this session the naming of O Canada as this country's national anthem.

"We will be proceeding with the anthem during this session but I cannot say in what form the question will be dealt with by the Commons."

The prime minister said that if he were asked in the Commons about the flag design before the formal resolution appears on the order paper, "I would feel it my duty to answer in general terms."

"Once the resolution is on the order paper there will be no reluctance to show you the design."

Outside the cabinet room, Edythe Dowd of Montreal

Legion 'Adopts' Red Ensign

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion today adopted the Red Ensign as its official flag.

The resolution said that the Red Ensign would be flown over all Legion branches in Canada and the headquarters at Ottawa.

FLAG OF SURRENDER

Before the resolution was approved delegates turned down a report of the resolutions committee that recommended no further action on the flag question.

The recommendation ran into a barrage of emotional outbursts from a number of delegates. One delegate said the prime minister had adopted the white flag of surrender instead of the red flag of sacrifice.

Prime Minister Pearson was booed and heckled by many delegates when he addressed the Legion convention here Sunday. The Legion has long advocated the red ensign with the Union Jack in the corner as the national emblem.

DECLINED COMMENT

Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, legion president, declined comment on whether the Legion decision on the Red Ensign would have an affect on use of the proposed maple leaf flag in Legion activities.

Support for some action on the Red Ensign came from many points on the convention floor. One delegate said, "I'm fed up with propriety and good taste on this thing."

Hooting Aussies Boo Judy Off

(Times News Service)

MELBOURNE, Australia — By the time the orchestra played Over the Rainbow, the audience was hooting and Judy Garland had stalked off the stage. Besieged by reporters at her hotel she told them "I think you stink!"

The sour notes didn't end with Miss Garland's concert Wednesday night.

The box office was besieged for refunds today and the head of the Musicians' Union said the Australian orchestra that accompanied the singer had never been so humiliated.

Miss Garland herself commented, "I didn't like it, did you?"

The American singer's travail began when she arrived an hour late. Her manager blamed it on a sore throat. "You're late" and "have another brandy," hecklers shouted.

Most of the crowd of 7,000 was with her during the first half of the concert, her only performance in Melbourne. But some didn't appreciate her fidgeting with the microphone cable or her side banter.

The crowd had paid about £15,000 Australian ($36,300) to hear her sing. She tripped while mounting the stage and sang in a voice which critics today described as "harsh and raspy."

Occasionally she fluffed a note as a steady stream of people walked out of the hall.

The only explanation she offered the crowd for their long wait was: "I could not get out of the hotel."

The explanation came in response to an irate member of

SHY PRINCIPAL FORCED INTO LIMELIGHT

Monterey School Marks 50th Birthday in June

By AB KENT

For 50 years the halls of Monterey have known the tread of Wally Brynjolfson — schoolboy, teacher and principal.

In two weeks, when the school celebrates its half-century June 5, whether he likes it or not—and he won't—Wally will be a central figure.

It will be as much a salute to Walter C. Brynjolfson as the golden anniversary of mere bricks and mortar.

He is only the second full-time principal the school has had; its history is intertwined with his own story, reluctant as he is to tell it.

But more than 1,500 pupils who have passed through his hands will remember him as one of the kindest, sternest, most understanding schoolmasters they ever knew.

He runs into them everywhere—close to home, as in North Vancouver, and far afield, in Ottawa and Minneapolis.

ALL INVITED

All who can come are invited back to the reunion, starting with school sports at 1 p.m. in Windsor Park. At 7 there will be a display of Highland and folk dancing by girls in the auditorium.

For the antiquarians there will be a display of photographs collected and tucked away over the years. A spokesman representing each of the school's five decades will say a few words on behalf of his era.

Ex-pupils and staff will have the run of the building, visiting their old classrooms, renewing old acquaintances, then gathering for coffee and a piece of the huge birthday cake that will be prepared.

It is safe to say no one will find the place as familiar as Wally Brynjolfson. He was there as a boy on the day in January, 1914, when pupils first occupied its classrooms, as he was on opening day, March 2.

He cherishes an ancient, creased and dust-grimed card formally engraved with the invitation to attend the board of Oak Bay school trustees' ceremony for the "opening cf the New School, Monterey Avenue," by Minister of Education, Dr. Henry Esson Young.

WELL BUILT

"They built schools in those days to last hundreds of years," Mr. Brynjolfson remarked, noting the solid masonry, concrete and hardwood put into the original eight rooms designed by Elwood Watkins, Victoria architect.

"You can see his design in several schools. The old Normal School (now University of Victoria Young building) is one," the principal said.

There were two rooms to spare then, two more than regulations permit a school board to plan ahead now.

Within 15 years an auditorium was added, then with the post-war baby boom, three wooden annexes lodged in the schoolyard under the red brick walls. Last year a new six-room wing after the fashion of the original building was added on to accommodate today's 531 pupils.

There were nearly 200 enrolled in the first classes, including such names as Walter, Tom, Bert and Victor Gravlin, and Bill, Freeman and Annie Norman. They had started at the First Oak Bay schools, on Foul Bay Road and Oak Bay Avenue.

WAR YEARS

Monterey took them in midwinter of the 1913-14 term. When the First World War came along in August, Wally Brynjolfson, himself too young, recalls some boys going to war "practically from the grade eight clasroom."

He said in those days many of the boys were 17, 18 and 19 years old in grade eight. One who joined was Sid Andros. "Poor Sid never came back," Wally said. There were many others killed, as honor rolls of both world wars show.

After his own graduation, Wally went into teaching and was assigned to Monterey under the original principal, Capt. F. G. Dexter, in 1922.

From 1929-33 he was sent to Willows School, then was made first assistant teacher at Monterey, becoming principal when Capt. Dexter died in 1945.

He credits other teachers for their long devotion to Monterey—Miss I. Cathcart, one of the original staff; Elsie Creeden and Miss A. B. Cooke, who taught grade one. "She practically gave her life to the school."

ATHLETICS

Partly because of its compact size, Monterey has "always been in the forefront in athletics . . . and sportsmanship," said the principal, ignoring the fact that he was himself a leading athlete, a tall, blond footballer who played for Oak Bay Wanderers.

He coached the same team, the the Victoria Crimson Tide, Brentwood College and University School teams. Monterey often won at soccer, too.

His interest never slackened, but participation tapered off to allow him to study nights and in summer for his arts and teaching degrees.

And they still talk about Feb. 18, 1925, when Wally Brynjolfson, for Victoria Reps, drop-kicked a 35-yard field goal before 10,000 spectators in Willows Park to become the first Canadian to score against New Zealand All-Blacks.

LIQUID NITROGEN TRAIN WRECKED, CATCHES FIRE

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—At least one crew member was killed and four others were injured early today when 17 cars of a Pennsylvania freight train carrying inflammatory liquid nitrogen were derailed near this Washington suburb and caught fire.

Although a tank car carrying the liquid nitrogen ruptured, a team of some 75 to 100 men from 15 fire companies brought the fire under control some two hours after it started.

STRIKE PARLEY GETS NOWHERE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Deputy Labor Minister William Sands failed Wednesday in an attempt to bring about a settlement of the strike which shut down the big MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited pulp mill at Port Alberni two days ago.

The deputy minister met with representatives of the company and the Office Employees' International Union, representing 70 striking office workers. However, he said following the meeting that no progress toward settlement of the dispute was made.

The office workers went on strike Tuesday after the company refused to meet demands for an average $75 a month increase in their wages which now range between $200 and $450. The mill was forced to close when 1,000 other workers at the plant refused to cross the office workers' picket lines.

NO SOLUTION

"We explored every avenue, but there wasn't any solution to the wage problem at this time," said Mr. Sands. No further meetings are scheduled.

A company spokesman said that the union "while yielding on one or two minor points . . . did not alter its basic position and remained adamant in its unrealistic demands."

He said the company was prepared to meet with labor department officials or the union at any time, but "we have gone as far as we can in seeking a settlement and the onus for initiating and continuing the strike must rest solely on the union."

The employees previously rejected a conciliation board recommendation for a five per cent wage boost. Prior to the strike, the company had given employees monthly increases ranging from $25 to $60 and in addition deposited retroactive pay to Feb. 1 in employees' bank accounts.

A union spokesman branded the company move unethical and a "flagrant attempt to bribe" the workers.

the audience who shouted: "You're late."

The audience's mood wasn't improved when Miss Garland took a half-hour intermission. She sang three more songs on her return, but the lyrics were fragmentary and the customers began drifting to the doors.

Miss Garland curtly left without any farewell, letting the orchestra play Over the Rainbow—her theme—by itself. The musicians departed amid howls.

J. D. Thomson, secretary of the Victoria branch of the Musicians' Union, said today that whenever Miss Garland "messed up a song" she blamed it on the orchestra.

"I was so angry I felt like going onto the stage and taking the band off," he said.

Miss Garland's manager, Karl Brent, said the audience should have accepted her apology for being late.

"Miss Garland would have stood there and sung all night if they had wanted her to," he said.

He added that there would be no refunds because "Miss Garland gave a satisfactory performance."

Early this morning, when reporters knocked at the door of her hotel room, Miss Garland said: "Why don't you go away. I'm very tired. I haven't slept one wink."

Seconds later she added: "I think you stink!" Then she slammed the door on them.

Air Board Sits At Campbell R.

CAMPBELL RIVER—The Air Transport Board which has been holding hearings all over the province moves to Campbell River Friday.

The board will hear and consider a number of proposals for changes in air services, routes, and requests for licences in several classes affecting this area.

Open to the public, hearings will be held in the Council Room at the Village Hall starting at 10 a.m. Friday. Board is expected to adjourn for the weekend and resume hearings on Monday.

Local airline firms to appear before the board include B.C. Airlines, Island Airlines and Trans-Mountain Air Services.

Olympics Get Arab Boycott

CAIRO (AP) — Thirteen Arab countries voted today to boycott the Olympic Games in Tokyo unless the International Olympic Committee permits Indonesia to participate.

The vote was unanimous. The league also urged all African, Asian, South American and "other friendly nations" to refuse to compete in the Olympics if Indonesia is not admitted.

The Olympic committee has barred Indonesia because it refused to let Israel take part in the Asian games in Jakarta

Voters Reject Stadium Dream

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The dream of $25,000,000 covered sports pavilion did not appeal to the majority of Multnomah County voters, who have rejected the measure by a 5-4 margin.

The stadium, which would have been a year-round facility for football, baseball, track and field, conventions and industry shows, was seen by its backers as a lure for major league sports.

Art Show at Sidney Planned for Weekend

Saanich Peninsula Art Centre will hold its 11th annual exhibition in the Sanscha Hall, Sidney, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 5:30 p.m.

It will be opened by Colin Graham at 2 p.m.

On display will be paintings by members and well-known guest artists. All entries from the school art competition of 11 schools in the Saanich area will be on view.

Donald Harvey will judge these entries and David Anderson will introduce Mrs. C. Thomas, who will then present the C. Thomas award.

There will be demonstrations of sculpture, pottery, rug-making, wood-carving and leather work, as well as Batik by Cliff Robinson.

4-H Field Day At Saanichton

DUNCAN — The annual field day of the 4-H clubs in the South Malahat 4-H council region, will be held Saturday at Saanichton exhibition grounds.

Classes to be judged include: beef, dairy, sheep, goats, poultry, home arts and garden.

Assisting at the annual meet will be district agriculturist Ken Jameson, of Duncan.

A gold watch, donated by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce will be presented to the grand aggregate winner, and during the field day, competitors will be chosen to participate in the PNE 4-H judging competition.

Blast Kills Two

WINNIPEG (CP)—A delayed dynamite blast in a gravel pit killed two men and injured a third on the northeastern outskirts of greater Winnipeg Wednesday. Police said Leslie Andrews, 63, of nearby Bird's Hill, and Jake Fleming, 39, of Winnipeg died of suffocation when they were buried by the blast.
